Miss Lizzie Campbell, a Well Known and Highly Respected Woman, Drowns Herself in the Ohio.

Miss Lizzie Campbell, aged 54 years, committed suicide this morning by jumping into the Ohio river at Wellsville. Her body was found shortly before 8 o'clock by George and Will Ingram, of Congo, who come over to Wellsville every morning in a skiff and attend school. Undertaker R. M. Haugh was notified at once and removed the body to his establishment.

Miss Campbell was a seamstress and had her rooms over Catlett's furniture store, on Main street, where she lived alone. She came to Wellsville in 1872, from Salineville. She was at that time employed by David Mannist and John Martin as vest maker. She was later employed by D. F. Steiner, and worked for him for several years.

Miss Campbell leaves two brothers, one at Monroeville, and the other at Minerva. She also leaves two nieces, Miss Anna Campbell, who resides in Wellsville, and her sister, Miss Margaret Campbell, of Monroeville.

When Miss Campbell's body was examined by Dr. Hutcheson, he stated that it had not been in river more than two or three hours. Therefore she must have committed suicide at about 6 o'clock.

She had at several times recently showed signs of being demented, and is said not to have been in her right mind for the past two years. One year ago a person at East Liverpool owed her considerable money which she was unable to collect. This is said to have prayed upon her mind greatly.

It is said that several months ago she left her rooms with the intention of committing suicide, but before she reached the river thought better of it.

Miss Campbell was a very prominent member of the First Presbyterian church, and her reputation is without a stain.

Coroner Straughn, of Lisbon, has been sent for. He will arrive in the city some time this afternoon and will hold an inquest over the remains. No funeral arrangements have been made.

TWO MORE WIVES ARE AFTER DIVORCE

One Says Husband's Bru'ality Began the Next Day After the Wedding.

MARRIED PRESENT YEAR

Mrs. Maude Howell, of East Palestine, Left Her Husband in March, Fearing Bodily Harm—An Arrest Under Peace Act.

Lisbon, November 7.—(Special.)—Mrs. Barbara La Rue Frederick, of Washingtonville, filed a petition yesterday for a divorce from Joseph C. Frederick. They were married at Washingtonville 13 years ago and have two children. Plaintiff alleges unfaithfulness, in consequence of which she has not been living with him, naming as co-respondent Mary Groner, of Leetonia. The husband is a railroad conductor in the employ of the Pennsylvania company. She asks for a share of his property with the divorce.

Mrs. Maude Howell, of East Palestine, brought suit for divorce from William Howell, to whom she was married at East Palestine January 19, 1902. Extreme cruelty and gross neglect are charged, the petition setting up that the husband commenced to show his brutality the next day after the marriage, which continued until she went home last March. She says he followed her and was only restrained from doing her bodily harm by the interference of her friends and his subsequent arrest under the peace act. The defendant is alleged to be earning good wages in an East Palestine pottery. On these grounds the plaintiff asks the restoration of her maiden name of Maude Picket and reasonable alimony.

Charged Against Aged Thomas Sullivan, Whose Arrest Followed.

With the serious charge of stealing to the amount of $20 charged against him Thomas Sullivan, an aged man, who has been living in this city for several months, but whose home is in Pittsburg, will face the mayor this afternoon. He was arrested last evening at the solicitation of F. Wright by Officer Dawson. Wright appeared at central station and preferred the charge. He said last evening that Sullivan stole a gold coin worth $20 from him.

Sullivan stoutly denies the charge and when arrested asked that he be searched. The officer did so, but did not find the coin.

A CHOIR ROOM AT ST. STEPHEN'S

A PART OF THE BASEMENT

To Be Fitted Up for the Purpose—The Change Will Make the Church One of the Completest in the Ohio Diocese.

For several months Rev. Edwin Weary, rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal church, and the vested choir have had under consideration a plan by which the choir might have more agreeable quarters for the weekly practice, and last evening a conclusion was reached. As a result the improvement to the church under contemplation will be constructed.

It was decided to convert a portion of the basement, which is 40x20 feet and situated immediately to the rear of the chapel room, into the desired room. The cost of carrying out the plans will be no small amount and preparations have been made to meet all debts incurred. During December an organ recital will be given, led by musicians of note, and shortly after the holiday the choir will give a sacred cantata.

The new room when completed will not only serve as a practice room for the choir, but it will be open for the members of the church as a recreation room. It will be a great convenience to the choir. The members have heretofore been robing and vesting in the auditorium and as a result were compelled to go to the church unprotected. When this room is finished they can prepare for services and march upstairs from the basement without exposure to the cold. Many features new to the choir will be provided in the room. Each member will have private quarters and everything will be suited to the individual choice.

Just when the work will be commenced upon the room has not yet been decided, but it is probable that nothing more than the giving of the contracts will be done before the first of the year. The excavation for the building will require some time, the dirt being in rather close quarters and very hard to get at.

When the room is finished St. Stephen's church will be the most complete of any in the Ohio diocese. It will consist of a church proper, large enuogh to accommodate 600 people, chapel and choir room in the basement, a lavatory, organ room, parish building, Sunday school room, ladies' parlor and the rector's sanctum. The church and all of its accessories are a credit to the city and the members of the church have truly a just reason for feeling proud of their efforts. To Rev. Mr. Weary is due much of the credit. Never in East Liverpool's history did a man ever work more zealously for his church and congregation than he. To him the results are most pleasing and he has made a record which he should feel happy over.

Organist, Miss Webster; assistant organist, Frank Shingler; director, Prof. Charles Berg; sopranos, Mrs. E. M. Knowles, Mrs. George R. Ahrendts, Mrs. Thomas Winkle, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Joseph Smith, Mrs. Dr. Trimmer, Misses Alice Devin, Fannie Beardmore, Maude Mason, Cora Mulligan, Alma Roberts, Sarah Shaw, Anna Shingler, Rosa Massey, Rosa Low; altos, Mary Jackson, Clara Weary; boys, Clement Weary, Leonard Williams, Fred Low, Arthur Low, William Green, George McNicol, Albert Kiddie, George Shaw, Albert Wilson, Willie Hawley; tenors, Christopher Horton, Thomas Winkle, T. Burchill, Walter Buxton, Joe Burbick; bass, George Smith, Charles Heath, Harry Williams, William Burgess, John Shingler, John Dudley and Mr. Foutts.

RIGHT TO OFFICE

Lisbon, November 7.—(Special.)—The case of the state of Ohio on rel of George Figley against George W. Conser was argued in circuit yesterday afternoon. It is an action in quo warranto to inquire into the right of George W. Conser, Republican, to hold the office of trustee in Hanover township. In support of the action it is set up that at the last township election George Figley, Democrat, was lawfully elected to the office of trustee, but the judges of election made an error of judgment in counting the ballots which gave the election to Conser by a majority of one.

It is alleged that four or five of Figley's votes were thrown out, when the intent of the voter was plain. The court is asked to count these votes for Figley, and issue an order of ouster against Conser.

OVER STRIP OF LAND

A Dispute Between East Liverpool Property Owners Which Circuit Court Is to Decide.

Lisbon, November 7.—(Special.)—The case of Karl Barth against Hugh McFall, ex-county commissioner, and William Anderson, all of East Liverpool, taken up on appeal, was heard in circuit court yesterday afternoon. Barth asks the court to convey to him 236 feet of land fronting on the Jethro and camp meeting road, which he claims to be due on a real estate transfer. The defendants are willing to convey only 136 feet.

The land contract between the parties says 236 feet to the line of McBane and Milligan, and the defendants are willing to convey to plaintiff all land to that line, but say it should only be 136 feet, maintaining the person who wrote the agreement made it 100 feet too much, and that because the land contract says 236 feet the plaintiff demands 100 feet beyond the line in question. The court is to decide the point whether the figures of the land contract or the point fixed in the document shall stand. The land is worth $300.

New Deputy To Take Hold.

Columbus, November 7.—(Special)—The district examiners will meet at the office of Chief Collier, of the state board of examiners for stationary engineers in this city tomorrow, when Deputy Manning, of Ashtabula, who has been appointed to succeed Elmer E. Miller as examiner for the eastern Ohio district, will be instructed in his new duties. He will begin work on Monday.

Smallpox at Sebring.

A case of smallpox is reported at Sebring. Two women arrived at Alliance on a C. & P. train from Cleveland Wednesday. One was thought to have smallpox. Alliance physicians examined her, and decided the disease was something else. The women proceeded to Sebring, and it now develops that the suspect has genuine smallpox.

HOPKINS IS ACQUITTED ON CHARGE OF CUTTING AT THE HEARING TODAY

Testimony Seemed to Show That the Negro Acted in Self-Defense and Mayor Davidson Ruled Accordingly.

Robert Hopkins, colored, charged with cutting Thomas Burgess with intent to maim, was arraigned before Mayor Davidson this morning for his preliminary hearing. He was represented by Attorney John Wallace. The case was thoroughly examined by both the state and the defense, at the conclusion of which court was adjourned until 2:30 p. m. when Mayor Davidson rendered a verdict clearing Hopkins from the charge. The mayor said:

"I find, after carefully reviewing the testimony, that there has been no evidence produced that incriminates the accused. The law informs me that one man's word is as good as another's, and as Burgess has failed to name a witness who was present I cannot take his word any quicker than Hopkins'. If anything, the evidence shows that Hopkins was not the aggressor. I believe that Hopkins has tried to act right, and simply because he has served a term in the penitentiary is no reason for me to stand against him."

Among the witnesses who testified were Thomas Burgess, the complainant; Frank Rigot, proprietor of the saloon in which the fight originated, and ended; Mrs. Rigot, wife of the proprietor; Dr. Hobbs, one of the physycians who dressed the wounded man's injuries; Billy Timmons, for whom the defendant worked; Mrs. Hopkins, the defendant's wife, and Jane Barger.

Burgess, without the least variation gave his statement as in the News Review last evening. He went to Rigot's saloon form the opera house. In the back room he saw Hopkins and heard him order three drinks. Hopkins gave Mrs. Rigot a quarter and when she went to get his change Hopkins called her a vulgar name. Burgess resented it and a fight followed.

Burgess, upon cross examination, stoutly denied that there was anyone in the room but himself and the negro.

Frank Rigot said: "I did not see

TAKEN NEAR PITTSBURG

After a Desperate Struggle And Will Be Sent to Wheeling for Safe-Keeping—One of the Country's Worst Pickpockets.

The notorious pickpocket, Thomas Connelly, alias Bill Wilson, was again taken yesterday near Pittsburg after a desperate struggle by Railroad Detective Reeves and Officer Kent. It will be remembered that last June Connelly was caught in the act of stealing from a man by Detective Reeves while boarding an excursion train at Rock Springs park. He was placed in the Chester jail, from which he broke out the next day and was caught by Officers Elliott and Hassey after an exciting chase. He was afterwards taken to New Cumberland for trial and sentenced to jail. Thence he escaped in the morning of the day he was to have been taken to Wheeling, while the guards were eating breakfast.

Nothing more has been heard from him since. Detective Reeves remarked when he escaped the second time that he would hunt that man and take him if it was the last official act of his life.

Ex-Chief of Detectives O'Mara, of Pittsburg, says Connelly is a dangerous criminal and every precaution should be used in handling him. He refused to come to West Virginia yesterday without requisition papers. Papers were promptly made out by Gov. White and sent to Gov. Stone, of Pennsylvania, giving Connelly up to the West Virginia authorities. The prisoner will probably be taken to Wheeling today.

Sheriff C. F. Allison was called to Pittsburg this morning to assist in bringing Connelly to Hancock county, to answer to charges against him here.

THEFT OF $20

Charged Against Aged Thomas Sullivan, Whose Arrest Followed.

With the serious charge of stealing to the amount of $20 charged against him Thomas Sullivan, an aged man, who has been living in this city for several months, but whose home is in Pittsburg, will face the mayor this afternoon. He was arrested last evening at the solicitation of F. Wright by Officer Dawson. Wright appeared at central station and preferred the charge. He said last evening that Sullivan stole a gold coin worth $20 from him.

Sullivan stoutly denies the charge, and when arrested asked that he be searched. The officer did so, but did not find the coin.

For Congressman And State Secretary In This County—Little Change From Early Figures.

Lisbon, November 7.—(Special.)—As an illustration of the accurate and systematic methods of the Republican committee in the management of county politics, Chairman McNutt's estimate of the vote on congressman at 1 o'clock, Wednesday morning was: Kennedy, 6,326; Foley, 2,222; Duffy, 2,134. The official figures are Kennedy, 6,325; Foley, 2,225; and Duffy 2,135.

The official vote for secretary of state is: Laylin, 6,856; Bigelow, 2,892.

Wife Would Make No Charge.

Jealous because his wife had been talking with another man a resident of Shantytown, known as Frankhouser, it is said, created a disturbance in that section of the city last night. It is claimed he gave his wife a sound thrashing and threatened to do worse. Officer McDermott was summoned, but found the man sitting quietly reading a newspaper and the wife unwilling to prefer a charge.

RIGHT TO OFFICE

Lisbon, November 7.—(Special.)—The case of the state of Ohio on rel of George Figley against George W. Conser was argued in circuit yesterday afternoon. It is an action in quo warranto to inquire into the right of George W. Conser, Republican, to hold the office of trustee in Hanover township. In support of the action it is set up that at the last township election George Figley, Democrat, was lawfully elected to the office of trustee, but the judges of election made an error of judgment in counting the ballots which gave the election to Conser by a majority of one.

It is alleged that four or five of Figley's votes were thrown out, when the intent of the voter was plain. The court is asked to count these votes for Figley, and issue an order of ouster against Conser.

OVER STRIP OF LAND

A Dispute Between East Liverpool Property Owners Which Circuit Court Is to Decide.

Lisbon, November 7.—(Special.)—The case of Karl Barth against Hugh McFall, ex-county commissioner, and William Anderson, all of East Liverpool, taken up on appeal, was heard in circuit court yesterday afternoon. Barth asks the court to convey to him 236 feet of land fronting on the Jethro and camp meeting road, which he claims to be due on a real estate transfer. The defendants are willing to convey only 136 feet.

The land contract between the parties says 236 feet to the line of McBane and Milligan, and the defendants are willing to convey to plaintiff all land to that line, but say it should only be 136 feet, maintaining the person who wrote the agreement made it 100 feet too much, and that because the land contract says 236 feet the plaintiff demands 100 feet beyond the line in question. The court is to decide the point whether the figures of the land contract or the point fixed in the document shall stand. The land is worth $300.

Miller as examiner for the eastern Ohio district, will be instructed in his new duties. He will begin work on Monday.

TAKEN NEAR PITTSBURG

After a Desperate Struggle And Will Be Sent to Wheeling for Safe-Keeping—One of the Country's Worst Pickpockets.

The notorious pickpocket, Thomas Connelly, alias Bill Wilson, was again taken yesterday near Pittsburg after a desperate struggle by Railroad Detective Reeves and Officer Kent. It will be remembered that last June Connelly was caught in the act of stealing from a man by Detective Reeves while boarding an excursion train at Rock Springs park. He was placed in the Chester jail, from which he broke out the next day and was caught by Officers Elliott and Hassey after an exciting chase. He was afterwards taken to New Cumberland for trial and sentenced to jail. Thence he escaped in the morning of the day he was to have been taken to Wheeling, while the guards were eating breakfast.

Nothing more has been heard from him since. Detective Reeves remarked when he escaped the second time that he would hunt that man and take him if it was the last official act of his life.

Ex-Chief of Detectives O'Mara, of Pittsburg, says Connelly is a dangerous criminal and every precaution should be used in handling him. He refused to come to West Virginia yesterday without requisition papers. Papers were promptly made out by Gov. White and sent to Gov. Stone, of Pennsylvania, giving Connelly up to the West Virginia authorities. The prisoner will probably be taken to Wheeling today.

Sheriff C. F. Allison was called to Pittsburg this morning to assist in bringing Connelly to Hancock county, to answer to charges against him here.

WITH THE WORKMEN IN THE CLAY PLANTS

HORRIBLY INJURED.

Miss Pearl McCreary, of Seventeenth street, Beaver Falls, daughter of J. F. McCreary, and well known to East Liverpool pottery workers, met with a shocking accident at the works of the American Axe & Tool company, at Beaver Falls, last Friday, where she is employed. Miss McCreary is employed in the department where the axes are painted, and while at her work was accidentally jostled off a box upon which she was standing by a companion and fell upon the rack of glittering axes, placed in front of her. Involuntarily she threw out her hands to save herself and her hands coming in contact with the keen edge of the axes, were cut in a horrible manner. Her forehead struck one of the axes, but with such light force that only a slight cut was inflicted. Large gashes, however, were cut in the palms of both hands, and she bled profusely. Dr. J. S. Leuthan dressed her injuries. It took several stitches to close the gashes.

CROOKSVILLE TO START.

Harry Frischler, the mouldmaker at the Crooksville pottery, was a recent visitor. He stated that they were delayed somewhat in starting by not being able to secure the piping for stillyards and steam fitting. It is now overcoming this as quick as possible, and will be in working order in the clay departments in a few weeks. Mr. Tritt, the manager of the plant, having received sufficient applications to operate the plant, will commence sending out notices to those selected to operate the plant to appear in the very near future. This plant, like many other new plants in course of construction, was delayed by the non-arrival of the material needed. Heavy freight traffic on all lines is the direct cause.

POTTERY MACHINERY.

Rex & Dean, machinists of this city, are very busy on pottery machinery. They have completed the six jiggers ordered by the Dresden Pottery company, of Salineville, and will ship them this month. The greater portion of their work comes from repairing machinery used in the potteries here. Two large sagger presses are being built at the Stevenson foundry, Wellsville, one to be shipped to Salineville, the other to be erected at the Sevres pottery at East Liverpool. One of the machines is in operation at one of the stoneware shops in Akron, and the dies used are the required size of the saggers. It will be several weeks before the machine is completed and ready for use.

MAKING THINGS PLEASANT.

Following the change of the management of the C. C. Thompson to Mr. Goodwin, many changes are being made that will result in a profitable manner to both the firm and the men. One change, that of giving the shop a cheerful aspect, is by order of Mr. Goodwin. The interior of the entire plant is being whitewashed. Previous to this the shop had a very depressing effect upon the workmen, owing to the gloomy appearance. The bisque ware house is being removed to a building more roomy and bright than the one being occupied at present. And as Mr. Goodwin said, "to accomplish good results one must make the task as agreeable as possible."

SEVERELY INJURED.

William Terrance, a batterout at Smith & Phillips,' was severely injured Wednesday while practicing with the Oakland Football team at Columbian park. A low place on the gridiron caused him to fall, severely straining his right ankle. He is the left tackle on the Oakland team, and his injury will severely handicap them. He will be laid up for several days.

ALMOST COMPLETED.

The new kiln being erected at the Edwin M. Knowles pottery, in Chester, is being pushed as rapidly as possible. The walls of the building were finished last week and the kiln was ready finished this week. Of course to line and crown the kiln will require a little more time. Material for that purpose has been placed in position.

RUSHING WORK.

Work on the West End pottery is being rushed to the limit by the contractor, and the new building to the north is taking on a very imposing appearance. Some of the old buildings are being demolished and work on this site will commenced at once.

EPWORTH LEAGUE MEETING

Interesting Program Carried Out, Including an Address By Dr. Pratt.

The Epworth League of the First M E. church last evening held a very interesting business meeting. A program which had been previously arranged was as follows: Song; prayer Mrs. O'Brien; song; report of first vice president; song; report of second vice president; paper, "Why We Ought to Take the League Paper or Epworth Herald?" by C. L. Gray; report of third vice president; recitation, W. C. Morris; duet, Mrs. Haines and Mr. Blount; secretary's report; treasurer's report.

These reports were replete with interesting statistics. Rev. Dr. M. B. Pratt addressed the league. His subject was "Down Among the Magnolias." This talk was witty and eloquent, and described the Christian life of the southern negro. Dr. Pratt made an earnest plea for justice to the African.

ANTI-HUNTING LEAGUE

St. Clair Township Farmers Reorganize for Protection Against Trespassers.

Interest in the Anti-Hunting league of St. Clair township has revived since the hunters began to spend their time in the woods. St. Clair township has always been a favorite resort for local hunters, and a few years ago the association was formed for the purpose of protecting the owners of farms there from careless men and boys who tear down fences and destroy much property. Outside of the hunting season little trespassing occurs, and consequently the members of the association hold no meetings.

A session was held Wednesday night and the following officers were elected: President, Thomas Huston; secretary, Emmett Hickman. Deputy game wardens were also appointed as follows from the different parts of the township: Eastern, Page Myler and Nody Wilson; central, David Green and Gus Faulk; western, H. L. Rose and A. A. Allison; northern, James Verness and George Guy.

Another new lot of men's nobby suits arrived this week. We want every swell dresser in town to come and see them.

Interesting Program Carried Out, Including an Address By Dr. Pratt.

The Epworth League of the First M E. church last evening held a very interesting business meeting. A program which had been previously arranged was as follows: Song; prayer Mrs. O'Brien; song; report of first vice president; song; report of second vice president; paper, "Why We Ought to Take the League Paper or Epworth Herald?" by C. L. Gray; report of third vice president; recitation, W. G. Morris; duet, Mrs. Haines and Mr. Blount; secretary's report; treasurer's report.

These reports were replete with interesting statistics. Rev. Dr. M. B. Pratt addressed the league. His subject was "Down Among the Magnolias." This talk was witty and eloquent, and described the Christian life of the southern negro. Dr. Pratt made an earnest plea for justice to the African.

St. Clair Township Farmers Reorganize for Protection Against Trespassers.

Interest in the Anti-Hunting league of St. Clair township has revived since the hunters began to spend their time in the woods. St. Clair township has always been a favorite resort for local hunters, and a few years ago the association was formed for the purpose of protecting the owners of farms there from careless men and boys who tear down fences and destroy much property. Outside of the hunting season little trespassing occurs, and consequently the members of the association hold no meetings.

A session was held Wednesday night and the following officers were elected: President, Thomas Huston; secretary, Emmett Hickman. Deputy game wardens were also appointed as follows from the different parts of the township: Eastern, Page Myler and Nody Wilson; central, David Green and Gus Faulk; western, H. L. Rose and A. A. Allison; northern, James Verness and George Guy.

Another new lot of men's nobby suits arrived this week. We want every swell dresser in town to come and see them.

EAST END

FREAK CALF SOLD

Unknown Parties Have Purchased It And It Will Probably Be Placed in a Museum.

The East End is to lose its freak calf, the property of Mrs. Weaver, who lives near the Klondike. The peculiarities of the animal and the numerous attempts to steal it has brought it into a great deal of prominence of late. Several days ago two men called at the Weaver home and after taking a look at the animal bargained for its purchase. They did not reveal their names, but left part of the purchase money, stating they would come for the calf in a few days. It is not known at this time what the future has in store for this queer freak of nature, but it is likely it is to be life in a museum. It was with a great deal of reluctance that Mrs. Weaver consented to part with it in spite of the trouble it has caused. It has been quite a pet and a favorite with all the members of the family.

A News Review reporter called at the Weaver home yesterday and was permitted to see the animal. Its color is a brick red without a spot of white. It is eight months old and will weigh in the neighborhood of 500 pounds. The head shows only a slight indication on the part of nature to provide it with eyes. There is a slight depression where the eyes should be and a slight opening, but instead of containing eye ball it tapers inward to a point. There is not the least indication of a tail. As is the case with human things who are blind its sense of hearing is wonderfully acute.

FEVER AGAIN EPIDEMIC

A Number of New Cases Have Appeared After Scourge Was Thought to Be Over.

The scarlet fever epidemic has broken out again in the East End and a number of new cases are reported. A week ago the authorities thought the scourge was over and at that time there were no houses under quarantine. Later a case developed at the home of John McDole, just outside of the corporation line, and there are now a number of others. Mrs. J. T. White's daughter Nellie and Isaac Riley's daughter Ethel are ill with the disease.

In the Klondike there are several cases. The eight-year-old son of John Hughes and Hugh Clark's youngest son Hubert are among those afflicted. All the houses are under quarantine.

Old-Time Spelling Bee.

The last meeting of Eureka Circle, P. H. C., was as usual an interesting one. Several candidates were intiated and it was decided to have an old-time spelling bee for the entertainment at the meeting next Thursday night. The circles from Chester, Wellsville, Calcutta and East Liverpool have been invited to be present. A prize will be given to the contestant who stands up the longest and a booby prize will be provided for the one who goes down first. A pleasant time is expected.

Klondike Folks Will Attend.

Quite a number from the Klondike neighborhood will attend the oyster supper in the Masonic hall at Smith's Ferry next Tuesday evening. The social to be given by the Y. P. S. C. E. of the Smith's Ferry Presbyterian church. Oysters and ice cream and cake will be served and there will be a literary and musical program.

Judgment by Default.

The defendant failed to appear yesterday in the suit of John Farmer vs. W. B. Tompkins for money alleged to be due for cabbage sold him several months ago by the plaintiff and judgment for the full amount, $25.23, was rendered by 'Squire Carman. Attorney J. E. Davis appeared for the plaintiff.

Make It His Headquarters.

Rev. W. I. Powell, of Athens, Tenn., who has been visiting the family of his son, J. W. Powell, on Mulberry street, has concluded to make his headquarters in the East End. He is field agent for Grant university of Athens, and travels over a wide extent of territory.

Building Activity.

It is said there is more building going on now in the East End than at any time during the year. Before cold weather stops the workmen there will be at least 25 new houses ready for occupancy. It is predicted that the same activity will prevail next spring.

Rushing the Work.

Contractor McHenry is pushing the work on the house he is building in the Midway Land company's addition for Rev. D. W. McQuiston. The excavation has been made for the cellar and the stone masons are at work on the foundation.

One Candidate Initiated.

Ohio Valley Council No. 23, American Mechanics, held an interesting and important meeting last evening at their quarters in Larkins & Ferguson's hall. One candidate was inducted into the mysteries of the third degree.

EAST END AFFAIRS.

J. M. Buckle and William Wade were out with their shot guns yesterday hunting rabbits. History does not state how many they brought home.

COUNTY AND NEIGHBORHOOD

Daniel Donehoo, now the oldest member of the Hancock county (W. Va.) bar, in point of practice, was 75 years of age this week.

The oldest man in West Virginia is Freeman Coulter, of Woodland, Marshall county. He is 102 and has been able to help in cutting corn this fall.

Rev. D. H. Snowden, of Sterling Kas., formerly a resident of Hancock county, will preach to the G. A. R. at New Cumberland Saturday. He is a veteran of the Twelfth West Virginia regiment.

Elmer Campbell, of Holliday's Cove who has been teaching the Penrith school, has resigned to take a situation as mail clerk on the Panhandle rail road. Miss Jessie Smith, of New Cumberland, has taken his place as teacher at Penrith.

Wanted Another Wife.

A traveler in Persia tells the following: "My hunthi walks into the veranda. He is an aged man, wrapped in a long black cloak and wearing a green turban, denoting him a seyd, or a descendant of the prophet. He is very polished today. His beard is dyed the brightest orange with henna, and he tells a string of beads while he waits. We plunge into stories of the Caliphat and dictation written from left to right with a reed pen, and presently the reason of his smartness is told. He has a favor to ask. Would it please me to advance him three months' pay in order to buy a wife? He is old and he is poor, yet he has fallen a victim to the moon face and stag eyes of a damsel of fourteen, but her dowry is large. 'Why do you not support your old wife?' I inquired sternly. 'She is crippled and nearly blind. You do not give her sufficient sustenance, and I send many things to her.' 'She is too old,' he replies, with a shrug. 'She is ugly as an afreet. Added thereto she has no money or children, and of what good is an old woman unless she is rich?'"

What Education Will Do.

A railway company was erecting a line of new poles along a highway. One of the men engaged to fill in the dirt and clear up around the poles was an Irishman, new at the business and new to America. He had not got beyond his first pole, says the Philadelphia Times, but stood pondering how to dispose of the dirt which had filled the space now occupied by the pole.

His sense of the fitness of things must have been strong, for he was averse to piling the loose dirt around the base of the pole, as is the custom. A negro wayfarer stopped for a match, and the Irishman asked his advice.

"If I was a-doin' dat job, I'd jus' dig a hole 'bout where you ah standin' and shovel de dirt into it. Much bligе."

As the negro sauntered away the Irishman scratched his head and murmured:

"Well, it's not to be denied that eddication has been afther-r doin' a gr-r-eat deal for-r th' neygur-r!"

Herrmann and Kellar.

The late Professor Herrmann, the magician, was possessed not only of great strength in his hands, but of such skill as would enable him to perform apparent feats of strength which would be impossible to a far stronger man.

His greatest feat along this line was to place two packs of cards together and tear them across.

The four sat down together, and Herrmann was at length induced to tear two packs of cards in half.

"That," said his admiring friend, "is something no other man alive can do."

Then, as the rest glared amazedly at him, he remarked:

"I forgot to mention my name is Kellar."

Both Come In Bottles.

The father was testing his little boy's knowledge of the story of Noah, which he had carefully rehearsed. The boy had been thinking hard, and his answer to the first question showed that he had at least the virtue of originality.

"Now," said papa, "can you tell me how Noah knew that the waters had gone down?"

The boy hesitated a minute, as if seeking for proper words to express himself; then he said:

"Noah knew the waters had gone down because the dove came back bringing him a pickle."

Olives and pickles were synonymous terms in the small boy's mind for things which come in bottles and which he did not like.

A Hint to Mothers of Small Children.

Daniel Donehoo, now the oldest member of the Hancock county (W. Va.) bar, in point of practice, was 75 years of age this week.

The oldest man in West Virginia is Freeman Coulter, of Woodland, Marshall county. He is 102 and has been able to help in cutting corn this fall.

Rev. D. H. Snowden, of Sterling, Kas., formerly a resident of Hancock county, will preach to the G. A. R. at New Cumberland Saturday. He is a veteran of the Twelfth West Virginia regiment.

Elmer Campbell, of Holliday's Cove who has been teaching the Penrith school, has resigned to take a situation as mail clerk on the Panhandle rail road. Miss Jessie Smith, of New Cumberland, has taken his place as teacher at Penrith.

Wanted Another Wife.

A traveler in Persia tells the following: "My hunthi walks into the veranda. He is an aged man, wrapped in a long black cloak and wearing a green turban, denoting him a seyd, or a descendant of the prophet. He is very polished today. His beard is dyed the brightest orange with henna, and he tells a string of beads while he waits. We plunge into stories of the Caliphat and dictation written from left to right with a reed pen, and presently the reason of his smartness is told. He has a favor to ask. Would it please me to advance him three months' pay in order to buy a wife? He is old and he is poor, yet he has fallen a victim to the moon face and stag eyes of a damsel of fourteen, but her dowry is large. 'Why do you not support your old wife?' I inquired sternly. 'She is crippled and nearly blind. You do not give her sufficient sustenance, and I send many things to her.' 'She is too old,' he replies, with a shrug. 'She is ugly as an afreet. Added thereto she has no money or children, and of what good is an old woman unless she is rich?'"

What Education Will Do.

A railway company was erecting a line of new poles along a highway. One of the men engaged to fill in the dirt and clear up around the poles was an Irishman, new at the business and new to America. He had not got beyond his first pole, says the Philadelphia Times, but stood pondering how to dispose of the dirt which had filled the space now occupied by the pole.

His sense of the fitness of things must have been strong, for he was averse to piling the loose dirt around the base of the pole, as is the custom. A negro wayfarer stopped for a match, and the Irishman asked his advice.

"If I was a-doin' dat job, I'd jus' dig a hole 'bout where you ah standin' and shovel de dirt into it. Much 'bligе."

As the negro sauntered away the Irishman scratched his head and murmured:

"Well, it's not to be denied that eddication has been afther-r doin' a gr-r-eat deal for-r th' neygur-r!"

Herrmann and Kellar.

The late Professor Herrmann, the magician, was possessed not only of great strength in his hands, but of such skill as would enable him to perform apparent feats of strength which would be impossible to a far stronger man.

His greatest feat along this line was to place two packs of cards together and tear them across.

The four sat down together, and Herrmann was at length induced to tear two packs of cards in half.

Then, as the rest glared amazedly at him, he remarked:

"I forgot to mention my name is Kellar."

Both Come In Bottles.

The father was testing his little boy's knowledge of the story of Noah, which he had carefully rehearsed. The boy had been thinking hard, and his answer to the first question showed that he had at least the virtue of originality.

"Now," said papa, "can you tell me how Noah knew that the waters had gone down?"

The boy hesitated a minute, as if seeking for proper words to express himself; then he said:

"Noah knew the waters had gone down because the dove came back bringing him a pickle."

Olives and pickles were synonymous terms in the small boy's mind for things which come in bottles and which he did not like.

TWELVE PAGES.

During the last fiscal year the United States disposed of public lands which amounted in the aggregate to 19,488,535 acres, or 30,450 square miles. This is just about equal to the area of Indian territory and to that of the state of South Carolina. It exceeds the area of each of nine states and the combined area of several of them. It is greater than the area of any German state, except Prussia, is slightly greater than the area of Scotland, but little less than the area of Ireland, and much in excess of the area of Greece, Switzerland, Denmark or Belgium. But there is still plenty of land to spare. The total vacant land subject to entry comes to about nine hundred million acres, and though this includes three hundred and sixty-eight millions in Alaska and a considerable percentage of valueless territory, there is a large margin to the good. The vast government possessions, added to the tracts wholly or only partially developed under private ownership are an assurance that there is still plenty of room in the United States and no occasion for the present or many succeeding generations to worry over danger of being crowded or of not having land enough on which to raise food for all the people.

Some of the southern Democratic papers keep on saying that there is no use for the Republicans to try to capture any of the southern states in 1904. Possibly they are right, but even if they are, the fact will have no effect on national politics. The Republicans have shown more than once that they can win presidents and congresses without the aid of the south. They will probably be able to do this in 1904 and 1908. What will it avail the south to keep outside the Republican party if it at the same time keeps out of connection with the forces, moral, social and political, which are running this country and making it the biggest, greatest and most prosperous nation on the globe?

There is little doubt in the minds of engineers who have followed recent experiments that it is only a question of a short time when oil will take the place of coal as a fuel on all the larger passenger boats of the great lakes. Thus a new market will be opened for petroleum, one of the country's most important natural products.

Not only is the stock of gold in the United States treasury greater than ever, but the per capita circulation as well. Those who were once anxious to have the mints opened to the coinage of cheap dollars in unlimited quantities ought to be thankful that they did not succeed.

Tammany blames Hill for its defeat in New York, and a large section of the Ohio Democracy blames Tom Johnson for the poor showing the party made in this state. The spirit of fraternity is not growing conspicuously among the unterrified.

The late election gave no impetus to any Democratic presidential boom. Hill, Pattison, Johnson and Gorman all fell by the wayside. It may yet be necessary to nominate Bryan for a third defeat.

President Roosevelt, the busiest man in America, now has a business office apart from the historic White House. The innovation has been slow in coming, but it has long been sorely needed.

New York has had an unbroken succession of Republican governors since 1894. It is quite time to consider the Empire state out of the doubtful column.

Ohio Democrats might as well cease quarreling over the resposibility for their defeat. Republicans are proud and glad to assume that responsibility.

The annual report of Lieutenant General Miles reiterates what he said in 1896, that "the personnel of the army was never in better condition."

Hon. John Dalzell, of Pittsburg, is being boomed as Speaker Henderson's successor. This is satisfactory, but a good Ohio man would be more so.

A Chicago paper announces that one of its candidates swept that city clean Hercules never attempted or accomplished a greater task.

Porto Rico went Republican. Guam and the Philippines have not yet been heard from.

AN UNQUIET SPIRIT.

The Mysterious Light That For Years Haunted Cape Noir.

For many years on Cape Noir, the western point of Maria, a strange light was seen, dancing and moving about in the most unaccountable manner. At one moment it would rise like a column of fire into the air, and at another time it would fall like a meteor. Then it would seem to leap over the point and drop into the sea, afterward appearing again in the same spot on the hillside. The habitants tell this story about it:

In the time of the war for the possession of Canada a French vessel, pursued by an English warship, steered its course into the bay at this point for refuge. A boat was lowered from the side of the richly laden merchantman, and in this thirteen men swiftly rowed to the shore. Their object was to secrete a chest of gold which they had brought with them. On reaching the point they drew lots to see which of the men should remain to guard the treasure. The one to whom the lot fell was forced to swear a solemn oath, by land and sea, by night and day, by the ruler of the nether world, that he would be faithful to the trust through life, unless relieved by his returning comrades, and even after death would haunt the spot should no one come to take his place, says a writer in the Era.

To secure the fulfillment of this vow his wicked associates then and there put him to death and buried him with the treasure. The ghostly light was supposed to be the spirit of the murdered man, and many persons who, tempted by the hope of recovering the treasure, ventured into the haunted spot fled in terror and told blood curdling stories of the horrible phantoms and frightful sights which they had witnesred. The light is seen no longer. Perhaps some adventurer bolder than the rest succeeded in discovering the gold, carried it off and thus gave rest to the unquiet spirit.

Settled the Wing Question.

Two little Philadelphia girls the other day strayed into the realms of theology and anthropology, though of course they didn't know it.

"Say," said the first, "we's Dod's 'ittle angels, isn't we?"

"Yeth," lisped the second, "but we hasn't dot any feathers on uth, like the 'ittle angels my mamma showed me in a picture book."

"Well, we had once, don't oo know," returned the first, "but Dod pulled 'em all out before him sent us down here."

"What for did him do that?"

"So that we couldn't fly up in the trees when our mammas want us to come in and be washed!"

The Cannibal.

"And what," asked the cannibal chieftain in his kindest tones—"what was your business before you were captured by my men?"

"An editor?"

"No; merely a subeditor."

"Cheer up, young man! Shortly after my chef has finished his perusal of the cookbook you will be editor in chief."

Hopkins in the saloon. I went into the rear room after the fight was over and while there Hopkins made a motion as ir to strike me with a knife."

Mrs. Rigot hesitated at times in offering her testimony, and showed plainly that she did not wish to bring others into the case. She said:" Hopkins came into the saloon. I know him well and always joke with him. He appeared perfectly sober. He asked for a drink. I did not hear him use any vulgar language. Burgess was in the saloon when Hopkins entered. There were two in the room when Hopkins came. One of them was John Wise, who, after the fight, went after a physician."

Dr. Hobbs said: "When I was summoned by telephone I was not told that there was a man hurt. They simply said that some one was sick. Had I known that a man had been cut I wounld not have gone. I don't like to go over to Lisbon before the grand jury and keep as far as possible out of all such cases. When I got to the saloon, together with Dr. Norris, I dressed the wounds. They were in no way dangerous. Mrs. Rigot and all of them in the saloon asked me not to say anything about the affair."

Hopkins in defense said: "I went to the show at the opera house and when it was out I went over to Rigot's saloon. I did not go in after a drink. I had some silver dollars which I wanted to get paper for and went into the saloon for no other purpose. Mrs. Rigot said: 'Hello! Schwartz.' That is the name she always calls me. She always treats me nicely, and I joked with her a few minutes. She got the paper money for me and then asked me to set them up. I finally told her that I would take a drink and ordered one. She brought it to me and I set it on the table. I did not drink a drop of it. I have drank nothing since I came home from the penitentiary. I have tried to do what is right.

"After Mrs. Rigot set my drink down she asked me to buy drinks for all of the people in house. There were six in there that I saw, including Mrs. Rigot and her daughter, Burgess, a girl and a white man and a woman. I tried to excuse myself from buying and Burgess said: 'Make him buy, Mrs. Rigot, or throw him out.' When Mrs. Rigot went after my change out of the quarter for my drink, Burgess jumped up and struck me with a chair. I started to back out of the room and in defense used my knife. I cut him and was still cutting him when I backed out into the alley. I then went straight home."

William Timmons and Mrs. Hopkins testified to the manner in which Hopkins has acted sinse his return home and both said that they thought he had not touched a drop.

TO CURE CORNS.

A Few Remedies, Cheap and Simple, and Involving No Danger.

When the feet are pressed into tight fitting shoes—high heels make the pressure greater—by adding friction we have a needlelike point formed in the skin, and the greater the pressure the deeper the point will grow. The best preventive remedy known is really to go barefooted, but since this is not considered ethical in civilized life I will give a few simple remedies which may be of some value for the afflicted:

First.—Place on the corn a piece of cold, moist linen folded several times, wrap it up in dry linen, then go to bed. With this treatment the hard epidermis swells up, and after six or eight hours the outer covering of the corn can be removed with a dull knife. When this treatment has been followed for three or four days, a small needlelike growth (the corn) can be extracted without pain or bleeding. By washing the feet often in cold water the tender place will heal rapidly. After getting rid of this corn it is well to wear shoes which are neither too large nor too small so as to avoid excessive pressure or friction.

Second.—In place of the linen a crust of bread soaked in vinegar may be applied.

Third.—The best application is to soak a whole onion twenty-four hours in vinegar, then apply one of the layers of the onion to the corn and keep it in place by a bandage through the night. After repeating this procedure a few times the corn can be removed without any trouble. By either of these simple applications this troublesome agent can be removed without any danger of blood poison and "free of charge."—St. Louis Republic.

An Odd Nugget of Gold.

There have been many large and oddly shaped gold nuggets found in the United States and elsewhere, but the oddest of them all was that discovered at the Midhas mine, on Sulky gully, near Melbourne, Australia, in 1887. The nugget was flat and almost the exact counterpart in contour of a colossal human hand held open, with the exception of the thumb and forefinger, which were closed together in a manner so as to make it appear that the thumb was holding the finger in place. Its greatest length was 12½ inches and its greatest breadth 8 inches.

It was of the very purest gold, with but a little of foreign substances adhering, mostly between the "fingers," and weighed 617 ounces. It was found in the northwest main drive of the Midhas mine, 120 feet below the surface of the earth and at a spot only fifty feet from where the famous Lady Brassey nugget was discovered the year before. It weighed fifty-one pounds of pure gold.

Preliminary to the Baptism.

When Bishop Goe of Melbourne was a curate, a famous pugilist in the parish, who went by the name of Jim the Slogger and who had never darkened a church door, called at the parsonage asking him to baptize the baby. Accordingly the bishop repaired to Jim's house, but was surprised on being admitted to see Jim lock the door and pocket the key. "Be you the parson come to sprinkle that kid?" he asked. On the bishop assenting he continued, "You can't sprinkle that kid till you and me has had a fight, parson."

The unfortunate parson protested, but finding protest useless "stood up" to Jim. The battle went for the bishop, and Jim, pulling himself from the floor, muttered, "He's the parson for me." The baptism was proceeded with, and, as the story goes, Jim took to church going from that day.—Pall Mall Gazette.

TWELVE PAGES.

During the last fiscal year the United States disposed of public lands which amounted in the aggregate to 19,488,535 acres, or 30,450 square miles. This is just about equal to the area of Indian territory and to that of the state of South Carolina. It exceeds the area of each of nine states and the combined area of several of them. It is greater than the area of any German state, except Prussia, is slightly greater than the area of Scotland, but little less than the area of Ireland, and much in excess of the area of Greece, Switzerland, Denmark or Belgium. But there is still plenty of land to spare. The total vacant land subject to entry comes to about nine hundred million acres, and though this includes three hundred and sixty-eight millions in Alaska and a considerable percentage of valueless territory, there is a large margin to the good. The vast government possessions, added to the tracts wholly or only partially developed under private ownership are an assurance that there is still plenty of room in the United States and no occasion for the present or many succeeding generations to worry over danger of being crowded or of not having land enough on which to raise food for all the people.

Some of the southern Democratic papers keep on saying that there is no use for the Republicans to try to capture any of the southern states in 1904. Possibly they are right, but even if they are, the fact will have no effect on national politics. The Republicans have shown more than once that they can win presidents and congresses without the aid of the south. They will probably be able to do this in 1904 and 1908. What will it avail the south to keep outside the Republican party if it at the same time keeps out of connection with the forces, moral, social and political, which are running this country and making it the biggest, greatest and most prosperous nation on the globe?

There is little doubt in the minds of engineers who have followed recent experiments that it is only a question of a short time when oil will take the place of coal as a fuel on all the larger passenger boats of the great lakes. Thus a new market will be opened for petroleum, one of the country's most important natural products.

Not only is the stock of gold in the United States treasury greater than ever, but the per capita circulation as well. Those who were once anxious to have the mints opened to the coinage of cheap dollars in unlimited quantities ought to be thankful that they did not succeed.

Tammany blames Hill for its defeat in New York, and a large section of the Ohio Democracy blames Tom Johnson for the poor showing the party made in this state. The spirit of fraternity is not growing conspicuously among the unterrified.

The late election gave no impetus to any Democratic presidential boom. Hill, Pattison, Johnson and Gorman all fell by the wayside. It may yet be necessary to nominate Bryan for a third defeat.

President Roosevelt, the busiest man in America, now has a business office apart from the historic White House. The innovation has been slow in coming, but it has long been sorely needed.

New York has had an unbroken succession of Republican governors since 1894. It is quite time to consider the Empire state out of the doubtful column.

Ohio Democrats might as well cease quarreling over the resposibility for their defeat. Republicans are proud and glad to assume that responsibility.

The annual report of Lieutenant General Miles reiterates what he said in 1896, that "the personnel of the army was never in better condition."

Hon. John Dalzell, of Pittsburg, is being boomed as Speaker Henderson's successor. This is satisfactory, but a good Ohio man would be more so.

A Chicago paper announces that one of its candidates swept that city clean Hercules never attempted or accomplished a greater task.

Porto Rico went Republican. Guam and the Philippines have not yet been heard from.

AN UNQUIET SPIRIT.

The Mysterious Light That For Years Haunted Cape Noir.

For many years on Cape Noir, the western point of Maria, a strange light was seen, dancing and moving about in the most unaccountable manner. At one moment it would rise like a column of fire into the air, and at another time it would fall like a meteor. Then it would seem to leap over the point and drop into the sea, afterward appearing again in the same spot on the hillside. The habitants tell this story about it:

In the time of the war for the possession of Canada a French vessel, pursued by an English warship, steered its course into the bay at this point for refuge. A boat was lowered from the side of the richly laden merchantman, and in this thirteen men swiftly rowed to the shore. Their object was to secrete a chest of gold which they had brought with them. On reaching the point they drew lots to see which of the men should remain to guard the treasure. The one to whom the lot fell was forced to swear a solemn oath, by land and sea, by night and day, by the ruler of the nether world, that he would be faithful to the trust through life, unless relieved by his returning comrades, and even after death would haunt the spot should no one come to take his place, says a writer in the Era.

To secure the fulfillment of this vow his wicked associates then and there put him to death and buried him with the treasure. The ghostly light was supposed to be the spirit of the murdered man, and many persons who, tempted by the hope of recovering the treasure, ventured into the haunted spot fled in terror and told blood curdling stories of the horrible phantoms and frightful sights which they had witnessed. The light is seen no longer. Perhaps some adventurer bolder than the rest succeeded in discovering the gold, carried it off and thus gave rest to the unquiet spirit.

Settled the Wing Question.

Two little Philadelphia girls the other day strayed into the realms of theology and anthropology, though of course they didn't know it.

"Say," said the first, "we's Dod's 'ittle angels, isn't we?"

"Yeth," lisped the second, "but we hasn't dot any feathers on uth, like the 'ittle angels my mamma showed me in a picture book."

"Well, we had once, don't oo know," returned the first, "but Dod pulled 'em all out before him sent us down here."

"W'hat for did him do that?"

"So that we couldn't fly up in the trees when our mammas want us to come in and be washed!"

The Cannibal.

"And what," asked the cannibal chieftain in his kindest tones—"what was your business before you were captured by my men?"

"An editor?"

"No; merely a subeditor."

"Cheer up, young man! Shortly after my chef has finished his perusal of the cookbook you will be editor in chief."

Hopkins in the saloon. I went into the rear room after the fight was over and while there Hopkins made a motion as ir to strike me with a knife."

Mrs. Rigot hesitated at times in offering her testimony, and showed plainly that she did not wish to bring others into the case. She said: "Hopkins came into the saloon. I know him well and always joke with him. He appeared perfectly sober. He asked for a drink. I did not hear him use any vulgar language. Burgess was in the saloon when Hopkins entered. There were two in the room when Hopkins came. One of them was John Wise, who, after the fight, went after a physician."

Dr. Hobbs said: "When I was summoned by telephone I was not told that there was a man hurt. They simply said that some one was sick. Had I known that a man had been cut I wounld not have gone. I don't like to go over to Lisbon before the grand jury and keep as far as possible out of all such cases. When I got to the saloon, together with Dr. Norris, I dressed the wounds. They were in no way dangerous. Mrs. Rigot and all of them in the saloon asked me not to say anything about the affair."

Hopkins in defense said: "I went to the show at the opera house and when it was out I went over to Rigot's saloon. I did not go in after a drink. I had some silver dollars which I wanted to get paper for and went into the saloon for no other purpose. Mrs. Rigot said: 'Hello! Schwartz.' That is the name she always calls me. She always treats me nicely, and I joked with her a few minutes. She got the paper money for me and then asked me to set them up. I finally told her that I would take a drink and ordered one. She brought it to me and I set it on the table. I did not drink a drop of it. I have drank nothing since I came home from the penitentiary. I have tried to do what is right.

"After Mrs. Rigot set my drink down she asked me to buy drinks for all of the people in house. There were six in there that I saw, including Mrs. Rigot and her daughter, Burgess, a girl and a white man and a woman. I tried to excuse myself from buying and Burgess said: 'Make him buy, Mrs. Rigot, or throw him out.' When Mrs. Rigot went after my change out of the quarter for my drink, Burgess jumped up and struck me with a chair. I started to back out of the room and in defense used my knife. I cut him and was still cutting him when I backed out into the alley. I then went straight home."

William Timmons and Mrs. Hopkins testified to the manner in which Hopkins has acted sinse his return home and both said that they thought he had not touched a drop.

TO CURE CORNS.

When the feet are pressed into tight fitting shoes—high heels make the pressure greater—by adding friction we have a needlelike point formed in the skin, and the greater the pressure the deeper the point will grow. The best preventive remedy known is really to go barefooted, but since this is not considered ethical in civilized life I will give a few simple remedies which may be of some value for the afflicted:

First.—Place on the corn a piece of cold, moist linen folded several times, wrap it up in dry linen, then go to bed. With this treatment the hard epidermis swells up, and after six or eight hours the outer covering of the corn can be removed with a dull knife. When this treatment has been followed for three or four days, a small needlelike growth (the corn) can be extracted without pain or bleeding. By washing the feet often in cold water the tender place will heal rapidly. After getting rid of this corn it is well to wear shoes which are neither too large nor too small so as to avoid excessive pressure or friction.

Second.—In place of the linen a crust of bread soaked in vinegar may be applied.

Third.—The best application is to soak a whole onion twenty-four hours in vinegar, then apply one of the layers of the onion to the corn and keep it in place by a bandage through the night. After repeating this procedure a few times the corn can be removed without any trouble. By either of these simple applications this troublesome agent can be removed without any danger of blood poison and "free of charge."—St. Louis Republic.

The baptism was proceeded with, and, as the story goes, Jim took to church going from that day.—Pall Mall Gazette.

WELLSVILLE

A LITTLE TOO STRONG

Was the Wellsville Bowling Aggregation For the Team From Sebring.

For the first time this season the crack bowling team, of Sebring, ran up against an aggregation just a little too hot for them last evening, when they stepped on to Campbell's alleys, and started a series of three games, with Captain Shingler's invincibles.

Sebring, having made quite a reputation during the fall months, having victory to its credit over East Liverpool, Salem, Alliance and others, and Wellsville, having won the championship of the district last season, a big crowd turned out to witness the contest. None were much disappointed. The generl impression was that Wellsville would come out victorious. And at the conclusion of the three games when the locals were declared the winners by 303 pins it did not result in a shock. The visitors had no show, whatever. But in the third, after Wellsville began to don the "don't care," having won the series, the visitors took advantage of the existing circumstances and started out at a pretty good speed. It did them no good, however, as the home team worked up along in the fifth frame and commenced bowling as in the first two games.

Captain Hostetter, of the Sebring team, stated that his team was scheduled to play a series with a team from Cleveland next week and consequently the return date with Wellsville will not come off until November 20.

The visitors applauded Dick Harsha many times. They all said that of all the men they ever saw, Dick detested throwing more than one ball a frame. Following are the total scores, individual sscore and individual averages:

FIVE MEMBERS FOR TOWN COUNCIL

THE QUESTION OF DAMAGE

Alleged to Have Been Caused to a Street By Contractor Freshwater Discussed — First Street Bridge Proposition—E. S. Good Is Scored.

Interesting matters were discussed in council last night. All the councilmen were present, except Mayor Shrader. After the minutes of the last meeting were read the reports of the committee was taken up.

Councilman Johnson, of the street committee, referred to council the statement that Contractor Freshwater had damaged the city to the amount of $200 or $300 by removing gravel from the sidewalk on California avenue, at Third sttreet, near E. S. Good's residence. He was very decisive in his remarks and said Mr. Freshwater would have to make good the damage to the town. Mr. Freshwater, who was present, and asked what he had to say about the matter. He replied that he was not aware of doing any damage to the town when he took the gravel away and stated that he was asked to remove the gravel by E. S. Good, who said that he owned it and wanted it removed.

This matter rested here and the committee on lights was heard. Hough was very emphatic in his denunciation of the present lights, and said he was in favor of throwing them away and getting new ones. Wells said Risinger Bros. had offered to put in new lights and repair the bad ones if they were protected. They claimed that during the paving the teamsters damaged the lights by running against the poles. This matter was left and unfinished business was taken up.

The First street bridge question was mentioned and Station Agent A. L. Skinner, who was present representing the railroad company, and read a communication from the officials, asking council to give a little more time, and asking council to meet them next week. Mr. Skinner stated they would come in a private car and asked council to meet them in their car at the station. It was made a motion and carried.

The sidewalk and street at California and Third streets, was again brought up. Mr. Freshwater stated he did not know anything about the grade there and was entirely innocent of doing any damage. This matter was finally left with Mr. Freshwater and the street committee to adjust.

Mr. Hough then moved that the street committee go ahead and put the street at this point to the required grade. He said they had been bluffed long enough by Mr. Good; that he never had shown council any respect and was eternally kicking about something. They would now call a halt and do something as they wished to do.

A bill of J. M. Williams of $112.40, for repairing Middle Run bridge was ordered paid.

Wells then cited council's attention to a lot at the corner of Carolina avenue and Sixth street, which was a mud hole and full of water. He moved that the sergeant be ordered to notify the owner to fill it up or council would do it at the owner's expense. The motion was carried.

Mr. Johnson then made a motion to reconsider the action of council taken in having ten councilmen. The motion carried. Mr. Riley then moved to have one councilman to each of the five wards to be elected annually. This was voted unanimously, after which council adjourned.

A Surgeon Not Needed.

Dr. Lewis was called hurridly to the mill yesterday with his surgical instruments to put together a man who had fallen through the mill in some way. He pronounced it a case of plain drunk when he saw him. The man was bruised some from the fall, but not serious.

Paving Being Pushed.

The paving gang made the turn from First street into Virginia avenue yesterday afternoon and are pushing along work on that avenue as fast as possible. The street railway company is removing the old bricks from the tracks in front of Rock Springs park and replacing them with new ones.

To Be Tried Monday.

The case of George Fulton against the Chester Grocery company, which has been pending for some time, will come up for trial next Monday in the circuit court at New Cumberland.

WELLSVILLE

A LITTLE TOO STRONG

For the first time this season the crack bowling team, of Sebring, ran up against an aggregation just a little too hot for them last evening, when they stepped on to Campbell's alleys, and started a series of three games, with Captain Shingler's invincibles.

Sebring, having made quite a reputation during the fall months, having victory to its credit over East Liverpool, Salem, Alliance and others, and Wellsville, having won the championship of the district last season, a big crowd turned out to witness the contest. None were much disappointed. The generl impression was that Wellsville would come out victorious. And at the conclusion of the three games when the locals were declared the winners by 303 pins it did not result in a shock. The visitors had no show, whatever. But in the third, after Wellsville began to don the "don't care," having won the series, the visitors took advantage of the existing circumstances and started out at a pretty good speed. It did them no good, however, as the home team worked up along in the fifth frame and commenced bowling as in the first two games.

Captain Hostetter, of the Sebring team, stated that his team was scheduled to play a series with a team from Cleveland next week and consequently the return date with Wellsville will not come off until November 20.

The visitors applauded Dick Harsha many times. They all said that of all the men they ever saw, Dick detested throwing more than one ball a frame. Following are the total scores, individual sscore and individual averages:

NOTED YOUNG ARTIST

Bradford Johnson, Who Has Gained Wide Reputation, a Native of Steubenville.

Steubenville, November 7.—One of the leading young American artists is Bradford Johnson, who is becoming renowned, not only in his home city of Detroit, but among the artists of Paris where in a quaint old stone house with a wide open portico and a winding stairway leading to the upper part, trailing vines growing over the walls, and an entrancing view of gardens and gardens and nothing but gardens, he has established a delightful studio and is making a name that is growing famous as a portrait painter.

Bradford Johnson is the son of Dr. J. J. Johnson, formerly of this city, and the late Kate Doty Johnson, and he was born in Steubenville at the old Doty homestead 28 years ago. After his mother's death he spent much of his childhood at the old home of his grandfather, Calvin B. Doty, and early developed an artistic temperament which found an outlet in music and drawing and he became a devotee to both.

Ten years ago he went abroad to study, and that he has made good use of his time and undoubted talent has been proved in several ways, not the least of which has been the fact of having exhibited some half dozen times in the Salon. His name is not only in the front rank of American artists in the French capital, but is well known among the Parisians themselves, and for so young a man Mr. Johnson has been exceptionally fortunate in meeting with recognition, both in the artistic world and in substantial commissions.

SNAKE ABOUT HER NE

Steubenville, November 7. — Delia Bickerstaff, of Steubenville, was given a divorce from George W. Bickerstaff and the custody of their two children. The testimony was that the defendant had frequently beat and kicked her and had threatened to kill her and their oldest child, that on one occasion he struck her with a knife and cut three large gashes in her coat, and on another occasion he pointed a loaded revolver at her and threatened to shoot her, while two weeks before their first child was born he choked and beat her and wrapped a live snake around her neck.

The evidence also showed that the defendant was an habitual drunkard had been guilty of unfaithfulness and had done nothing for three years toward the support of his family.

PROMINENT MAN ARRESTED

Charged With Breaking Into a House And Removing Furniture.

Steubenville, November 7.—C. W. Simmons, a prominent undertaker and furniture dealer of Toronto, was bound over to court yesterday in the sum of $500 for grand larceny. For two days Simmons has been on trial in the mayor's court and it was not until 1 o'clock Thursday morning that he was found guilty.

The case grew out of a sale of furniture made to Clyde Householder, a young resident of Toronto. The bill of goods amounted to considerable, but Householder did not pay the entire costs. Simmons learned that Householder was preparing to remove from the village and believing that he should receive some compensation for the goods sold him he went to the Householder home, it is alleged, forcibly entered through a door and carried away goods amounting to nearly $50.

When Householder returned home he found the goods missing, and learning the particulars of their absence he had a warrant issued for Simmons' arrest. The case had many complications and for this reason it was warmly contested, but the facts were such that Mayor Miller could do nothing but hold Simmons to court. The prisoner gave bond and was released.

HENRIETTA CROSMAN IN "THE SWORD OF THE KING"

Former Star of "Mistress Nell" Scores Again — "A Country Mouse" Bright, but Coarse.

Ronald Macdonald's new play, "The Sword of the King," is now the offering at Wallack's theater in this city. The star is Henrietta Crosman, and she is seen as Philippa Drayton. The style best suited to Miss Crosman is that of "Mistress Nell," and in this play she has such another character to portray. Every emotion of a young girl is brought into play, and the gamut of human feeling is run during the three acts. No, I mistake. The prologue came in for its full share. I don't like prologues and think them very unnecessary, and this one was no exception. It was well played, but should be left out.

The time is 1685, when people talked backward, did the most unconven-

tional things and trapdoors were always on hand for the concealment of villains of some sort. A woman in male attire, plainly recognizable to the audience, was a stranger to the eyes of her lover, and a sword in the hands of a girl meant death and destruction to any one who came within reach of its point.

Miss Crosman was charming and never looked prettier. The part fit her to perfection, but the play is not coherent, and the burden of the interest fell on the star. She carried it well, but it did not seem fair for some of it not to be shared by the many stalwart men. There was a breath of familiar situations more than once during the course of the evening, and I caught myself almost shaking hands with old acquaintances. The hiding of the lover in the bed to prevent his arrest suggested "Du Barry." The praise of the absent mistress by her lover to herself as a boy made Rosalind rise before me, and the slaps on the back of the supposed man with the action necessitated by it gave us the glow of a meeting with an old friend.

Aubrey Boucicault as Edward Royston gave a pleasing performance, but not up to his usual standard. Henry Bergman as De Rondiniacque and Sheridan Block as William of Orange were excellent, and the rest of the cast were good. The play is handsomely mounted, and Miss Crosman has a role in which she cannot be surpassed.

Ethel Barrymore is now at the Savoy theater in "A Country Mouse," preceded by a one act "study" called "Carrots." The role of Carrots is, of course, taken by the star, and she gives a very real picture of a boy whose hacked and miserable condition evidences the effect of misunderstood child nature by a mother who imagines herself ill used and unloved. This creates a false condition. She loses the love of child and husband and crushes every impulse for effort in both, but principally in the child. It all ends as it should and is a good picture, which, viewed in the right light, will benefit parents in this selfish world. Fanny Addison Pitt as the mother and Bruce McRae as the father gave excellent performances.

The play "A Country Mouse" followed, and gave Miss Barrymore an opportunity of showing an unsophisticated country girl in London for the first time in the unearthly atmosphere of so called fashionable society. Love has here no attraction to these London men if a woman is single; but given the savor of impropriety they are willing to embark on the sea of flirtation. It is disgusting. To hear the remarks put into the mouths of these stage social swells is to cause a person of decency to blush. Into this fetid atmosphere the country girl, Angela Muir, is invited, and causes no little stir by the way she expresses her opinions, accepts compliments, kisses, embraces, etc., because her chaperons tell her it is customary and proper in London.

Miss Barrymore would improve the part if she imbued it with a little more life, but following Carrots so closely it is much the same lackadaisical tone of the cowed boy. The play is spicy, bright and amusing, and, but for its bad moral teaching, without any beneficial lesson, would be enjoyable.

The cast is strong, especially the women. Fanny Addison Pitt as the cockney janitress is inimitable, and Adelaide Prince and May Lambert, as Sylvia Bowlby and Violet Aynsley respectively, are excellent.

One Brick Short.

Richard M. Hunt, the architect, used to relate that in his younger days, while supervising the erection of a brick building, a recent arrival from Cork applied for a job and was employed as a hodcarrier after being instructed that he must always carry up fourteen bricks in his hod. One morning the supply of bricks ran out, and, do his best, the new man could find but thirteen to put in his hod. In answer to a loud yell from the street one of the masons on the sixth story shrieked down:

"What do you want?"

"T'row me down wan brick," said Pat, pointing to his hod, "to make me number good!"—New York Times.

NOTED YOUNG ARTIST

Steubenville, November 7.—One of the leading young American artists is Bradford Johnson, who is becoming renowned, not only in his home city of Detroit, but among the artists of Paris where in a quaint old stone house with a wide open portico and a winding stairway leading to the upper part, trailing vines growing over the walls, and an entrancing view of gardens and gardens and nothing but gardens, he has established a delightful studio and is making a name that is growing famous as a portrait painter.

Bradford Johnson is the son of Dr J. J. Johnson, formerly of this city, and the late Kate Doty Johnson, and he was born in Steubenville at the old Doty homestead 28 years ago. After his mother's death he spent much of his childhood at the old home of his grandfather, Calvin B. Doty, and early developed an artistic temperament which found an outlet in music and drawing and he became a devotee to both.

Ten years ago he went abroad to study, and that he has made good use of his time and undoubted talent has been proved in several ways, not the least of which has been the fact of having exhibited some half dozen times in the Salon. His name is not only in the front rank of American artists in the French capital, but is well known among the Parisians themselves, and for so young a man Mr. Johnson has been exceptionally fortunate in meeting with recognition, both in the artistic world and in substantial commissions.

EFFORT TO COMBINE GROCERS.

New York Promoter Goes to Chicago. Will Attempt to Interest Western Men.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 7.—The Free Press said today that George B. Hanford, the New York Man, of 25 Broad street, who arranged a conference of wholesale grocers of eight middle and eastern states in Detroit Wednesday, has gone to Chicago to endeavor to interest the western grocers' association and the National Grocers' company in his proposed grocery combine and get them to enter the deal. At the Detroit meeting Hanford arranged with those present to make out statements showing the liabilities, assets and earnings of their respective concerns and forward them to him within 30 days, the basis on which the concerns can enter the combine to be determined from these statements. The Free Press casts considerable doubt on the probability of the two combines which have head quarters in Chicago taking up Hanford's project. Hanford is expected to visit Detroit again in 30 days.

OTHER CHARGE DROPPED

'Squire McCarron's court room was packed to its fullest capacity yesterday afternoon when the case of the state of Ohio against Enoch Smith was called for a hearing. Smith was arrested to two charges, one for attempting a felony and the other for assault and battery on Miss Elizabeth Broadbent.

The accused was represented by an attorney and a thorough examination was made of all the witnesses present. After carefully considering the argument of the defense's attorney and the testimony offered, the 'squire eliminated the first charge, but felt that he was justified in bounding the young man over to common pleas court in the sum of $100 on the second charge. The bond was readily furnished, being signed by Smith's uncle, and he was released to appear at Lisbon at the next meeting of court.

The testimony given in the case was corroborative in every particular of the exclusive story of the affair published in the News Review. John Williams was the first witness called. He said:

"I saw Edna Broadbent go out past my house, which is a short distance up California hollow, on the night of October 26. She was closely followed by two young men. Who the fellows were I don't know, and I am not willing to swear that I could identify them."

The next withness examined and cross-examined was Joseph Kline. He said: "I live in California hollow. On the night of October 26 I was standing near the old ice plant with three other persons. While standing there we heard somebody coming down the turn. Before reaching us they stopped and I heard two people talking. I heard a girl cry out: 'I will shout for papa.' Then I heard a man's voice say: 'O! come on.' A few minutes later I saw Edna Broadbent ran past us crying and a little later I heard a fellow running down the road."

Isaac Kline gave the same story.

The plaintiff's witness was next called and she in a straightforward manner said: "I had been to church in town and was on my way home. When I got down to the head of the hollow I motioned for my brother, who was standing there, to come and go home with me. He did not do it. I started out alone and had gone but a short distance when two boys followed me. One of them soon dropped behind and one of them caught up with me. After speaking to me first, he asked me if I knew a Smith girl. He said that he was her brother. I kept walking along and he asked me to go across the run with him. I refused and he grabbed me by the hand. He caught hold of my dress, but he did not strike me."

When the witness was about to be cross-examined her parents objected to male listeners being present and they were excluded.

The defendant when called denied every accusation of a criminal nature but stated that he had been with her and that he had her hand in his.

The attorney, when arguing the case asked that his client be dismissed, inasumch as there was no evidence showing that he was guilty on either charge. The justice could not see it in that light, and did as above stated.

An amusing feature of the hearing occurred when one of the ladies who was in company with the Klines appeared to testify, and before allowing a question to be asked her demanded her fee be paid. The 'squire told the plaintiff's father that if he wanted the girl's testimony he would have to produce the 50 cents. The father studied quite a while and concluded by saying: "I don't want her testimony. It would not be worth that much." With that the girl left the court room. She had consulted an attorney, and it is said that he advised her to pursue the plan.

He Learned a Great Truth.

It is said of John Wesley that he once said to Mistress Wesley: "Why do you tell that child the same thing over and over again?" "John Wesley, because once telling is not enough." It is for this same reason that you are told again and again that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cures cold and grip; that it counteracts any tendency of these diseases to result in pneumonia, and that it is pleasant and safe to take. Keep a good supply of Ayer's Family Medicines on hand. It's so easy then to take one of the Pills at bedtime if you feel a little bilious, or if your stomach is a trifle out of order.

Just so with the Sarsaparilla. A few doses will bring back your lost appetite, give strength to your weakened nerves, and relieve you of that terrible feeling of exhaustion.

And besides there are the children to think of. A dose or two at the right time often means so much.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 7.—The Free Press said today that George B. Hanford, the New York Man, of 25 Broad street, who arranged a conference of wholesale grocers of eight middle and eastern states in Detroit Wednesday, has gone to Chicago to endeavor to interest the western grocers' association and the National Grocers' company in his proposed grocery combine and get them to enter the deal. At the Detroit meeting Hanford arranged with those present to make out statements showing the liabilities, assets and earnings of their respective concerns and forward them to him within 30 days, the basis on which the concerns can enter the combine to be determined from these statements. The Free Press casts considerable doubt on the probability of the two combines which have head quarters in Chicago taking up Hanford's project. Hanford is expected to visit Detroit again in 30 days.

ENOCH SMITH HELD FOR TRIAL

'Squire McCarron's court room was packed to its fullest capacity yesterday afternoon when the case of the state of Ohio against Enoch Smith was called for a hearing. Smith was arrested to two charges, one for attempting a felony and the other for assault and battery on Miss Elizabeth Broadbent.

The accused was represented by an attorney and a thorough examination was made of all the witnesses present. The bond was readily furnished, being signed by Smith's uncle, and he was released to appear at Lisbon at the next meeting of court.

The testimony given in the case was corroborative in every particular of the exclusive story of the affair published in the News Review. John Williams was the first witness called. He said:

"I saw Edna Broadbent go out past my house, which is a short distance up California hollow, on the night of October 26. She was closely followed by two young men. Who the fellows were I don't know, and I am not willing to swear that I could identify them."

The next withness examined and cross-examined was Joseph Kline. He said: "I live in California hollow. On the night of October 26 I was standing near the old ice plant with three other persons. While standing there we heard somebody coming down the turn. Before reaching us they stopped and I heard two people talking. I heard a girl cry out: 'I will shout for papa.' Then I heard a man's voice say: 'O! come on.' A few minutes later I saw Edna Broadbent ran past us crying and a little later I heard a fellow running down the road."

Isaac Kline gave the same story.

The plaintiff's witness was next called and she in a straightforward manner said: "I had been to church in town and was on my way home. I refused and he grabbed me by the hand. He caught hold of my dress, but he did not strike me."

When the witness was about to be cross-examined her parents objected to male listeners being present and they were excluded.

The defendant when called denied every accusation of a criminal nature but stated that he had been with her and that he had her hand in his.

The attorney, when arguing the case asked that his client be dismissed, inasumch as there was no evidence showing that he was guilty on either charge. The justice could not see it in that light, and did as above stated.

THE LOCAL BARBERS WILL NOT STRIKE

VERY WARM DISCUSSION

Marked the Proceedings of Last Night's Meeting, But the Conservative Element Came Out on Top And Arranged Peaceful Solution.

The most important meeting in the history of the journeymen barbers' union was held last night, and it is said there was not an absentee noted.

The main topic of discussion was the new scale which the employes formulated some time ago, and which they proposed to put in force this month. The News Review made exclusive mention several days ago of the fact that the boss barbers, upon receipt of the proposed scale of the journeymen, prepared a counter proposition which differed to a marked degree from that of the men. In fact, there was no similarity with the exception of the matter of wages, which the proprietors conceded. On all other points the scales differed. The journeymen had asked that all shops be closed on legal holidays, and the bosses emphatically declared they would not submit to this. The change in the closing hour for Saturday night from 11:30 to 11 o'clock was also objected to by the bosses, who declared their shops belonged to them, and that the hours which should govern was a matter not in the jurisdiction of the men so long as they were not required to remain after a certain time. In other words, the right of the men to say what hours they should work was not denied, but the employing barbers maintained that they could keep their establishments open and stay there themselves as long as they liked.

At the meeting of the journeymen last night these points were discussed at length, and a definite line of action mapped out. At times the discussions were heated, and on several occasions it looked as though the members would be unable to get together. There were those present who favored turning down the bosses' proposition without consideration. This element, while in the minority, was none the less aggressive. They insisted upon the bosses' list being returned with the information that the journeymen would stand by their scale to the letter, and if it was not signed up by the 19th of this month, the date of the expiration of the present regulations, they would refuse to continue to work. The radical faction was soon subdued, and the advice and counsel of the more conservative ones was followed out. There are a number of matters covered in the bosses' proposal which will not materially affect the journeymen, and they are willing to concede them to the shop owners. On the other hand there are clauses which will not be conceded to under any circumstances.

The session of last night lasted until between 11 and 12 o'clock, and when it was at an end every member knew exactly what was expected of him, and was thoroughly posted upon the details of the program to be followed out by the union. A committee of three was appointed to confer with the bosses looking to a compromise. This committee has been vested with full power to act, and they will request that a conference be held next Thursday evening. VERY WARM DISCUSSION

The most important meeting in the history of the journeymen barbers' union was held last night, and it is said there was not an absentee noted.

The main topic of discussion was the new scale which the employes formulated some time ago, and which they proposed to put in force this month. The News Review made exclusive mention several days ago of the fact that the boss barbers, upon receipt of the proposed scale of the journeymen, prepared a counter proposition which differed to a marked degree from that of the men. In fact, there was no similarity with the exception of the matter of wages, which the proprietors conceded. On all other points the scales differed. The journeymen had asked that all shops be closed on legal holidays, and the bosses emphatically declared they would not submit to this. The change in the closing hour for Saturday night from 11:30 to 11 o'clock was also objected to by the bosses, who declared their shops belonged to them, and that the hours which should govern was a matter not in the jurisdiction of the men so long as they were not required to remain after a certain time. In other words, the right of the men to say what hours they should work was not denied, but the employing barbers maintained that they could keep their establishments open and stay there themselves as long as they liked.

At the meeting of the journeymen last night these points were discussed at length, and a definite line of action mapped out. At times the discussions were heated, and on several occasions it looked as though the members would be unable to get together. There were those present who favored turning down the bosses' proposition without consideration. This element, while in the minority, was none the less aggressive. They insisted upon the bosses' list being returned with the information that the journeymen would stand by their scale to the letter, and if it was not signed up by the 19th of this month, the date of the expiration of the present regulations, they would refuse to continue to work. The radical faction was soon subdued, and the advice and counsel of the more conservative ones was followed out. There are a number of matters covered in the bosses' proposal which will not materially affect the journeymen, and they are willing to concede them to the shop owners. On the other hand there are clauses which will not be conceded to under any circumstances.

The session of last night lasted until between 11 and 12 o'clock, and when it was at an end every member knew exactly what was expected of him, and was thoroughly posted upon the details of the program to be followed out by the union. A committee of three was appointed to confer with the bosses looking to a compromise. This committee has been vested with full power to act, and they will request that a conference be held next Thursday evening. They have been instructed upon certain matters, however, and will be firm on these poin ts. It is expected that an amicable settlement can be reached.

19TH YEAR. NO. 264. · EAST LIVERPOOL, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1902. TWO CENTS.

STYLES NEVER CHANGED

They Believe in Helping One Another, Never Go to Law And Never Get in the Poor House—Their Debts Always Paid.

The Amish, a peculiar religious sect, have a colony in Stark county, in the vicinity of Louisville. The people of this colony number several hundred, and are engaged in farming and stock raising, at which occupation they are eminently successful.

In dress and costume they are very much like Quakers. The Amish came originally from the south of Prussia early in the history of this country, settling in eastern Pennsylvania. Their language is German, or rather the dialect known "as Pennsylvania Dutch." From the original Amish settlement in Pennsylvania they emigrated in bands of a half dozen families or more to other states, Ohio having several settlements, the largest being in Holmes county, where probably one-fourth of the population belong to this sect. Indiana and most of the other states of the central west have a large number.

As one of the strictest rules of the Amish religion is one which prohibits marriage outside of the sect, there is a relationship more or less distant between the inhabitants of these colonies. The names of a few of the parent families now largely predominate among these people. Among the most prominent of these are the names of Miller, Yoder, Hostetler, Hershberger.

The Amish are very thrifty and economical and wherever a community is started it is usually the case that members of the sect acquire control of many of the farms contiguous to the land originally held. An Amish boy is usually given enough when he reaches his majority to make a small payment on a farm near his parents and the balance of the payments he makes by tilling the soil.

It is against the rules of the church to go into the courts and an Amish man will never bring suit against any one who has wronged him. They will not go to war, nor does their religion allow them to serve on a jury or take an oath. In none of the Amish settlements has it been known that one of the sect has been an inmate of a county infirmary, as the church takes care of its very few indigents. No debt of an Amishman to anyone out of the church remains unpaid, as others of the sect will join together and pay any such creditor, if the debtor is unable to do so. None of the members of this sect will take out a life insurance policy, nor will they protect their property in a fire insurance company. If an Amishman meets a loss by fire his neighbors will assist him to rebuild and restock his barn or house.

The manner of dress is one of the strictest requirements which a member of the sect is required to follow. The men all wear long hair and beard, but are not allowed to grow a moustache. The plain black, wide brimmed hat is the only style which is sanctioned, and the manufacturer never changes the block. A short coat of black without a collar, and trousers and vest of the same material, all being fastened with hooks and eyes instead of buttons. Buttons on a garment are considered a matter of pride, which is one of the things which above all others an Amish man or woman is not allowed to cultivate. The overcoats are worn long, and with a large cape. No genuine Amishman ever wore a linen collar or necktie.

The dress of the women has not changed a particle in style in the history of the sect. Dresses are all made shortwaisted, and always of unfigured cloth. A favorite costume with all Amish women is a dress of black, with a triangular piece of blue, yellow or purple from the neck to the waist in front and back. The short skirt has always been in vogue among the Amish. The headdress of the women consists of a black and in some cases a purple bonnet. This is used as an outer covering, while a small cap of white is always worn underneath, tied under the chin with a white bow. The white cap is not removed in the house or church. The hair is worn in a braid down the back. Jewelry of any sort is not tolerated, and if an Amish maiden should wear a ring it would probably result in her expulsion from the church.

The style of architecture used by the Amish in building their homes has not changed any since the time of log cabins. They are built with a porch the entire length of the house both in front and back. The building is always painted white.

The Stark county community has a church building, which is plain, but substantial. The manner of choosing the minister who preaches at the church services seems peculiar to those unacquainted with the Amish custom. The ministers of this sect are not paid and are chosen by lot.

The marriage ceremony is the only occasion of display among these people. The wedding are largely attended, and the ceremonies extend over two days, concluding with a banquet which lasts all night. Courtship among the Amish is one of the most sacred of the sect. The young Amish swain makes his entrance to the abode of his sweetheart through the window of her boudoir, and exit is made in the same manner.

FOOTBALL ON SATURDAY

The East Liverpool and Steubenville foot ball teams will for the second time this season meet on the gridiron at West End park next Saturday afternoon. More than the usual amount of interest is being manifested in the event, as the result of the hard games that they have played in the past, and at all times neither team showing any marked superiority. "Slab" Burns, one of the best players in the country, who voluntarily left the W. & J. team this year, and Tommie Needham, well known in East Liverpool as a base ball player, will be in the game for Steubenville, and that they will greatly strengthen the visiting bunch is conceded.

Growing Walking Canes.

Few men who use walking canes are aware that the growing of walking stalks is a special industry and that certain kinds of canes are not merely collected as they may be found growing in forests. One may find at any store where the sticks are sold many canes of almost precisely the same length, weight, shape and material. Canes having a tangle of roots at the handle, for instance, are much sold in England. They are grown by a "farmer" who makes it a specialty to trim and shape young ash plants.

FALSE ARREST CHARGED

And $50,000 Asked By Dr. Evans, At Youngstown, Who Is Fighting Extradition.

Youngstown, November 7.—As the outcome of the arrest of Dr. John M. Evans, of Phoenix, Ariz., on complaint of the directors of the Keystone Gold and Copper Mining company, charging misappropriation and larceny of some $45,000 of the funds of the company, Evans has brought suit against Chief of Police McDowell, of Youngstown; Charles B. McLean, W. S. Huselton, S. Strasberger and W. J. Strasberger, for $50,000 damages, filed by Jones & Anderson.

The petition alleges that Evans was falsely and maliciously arrested on October 7, 1902, and has been illegally held ever since. It is claimed in the petition that Dr. Evans before the arrest had always borne a good name and that as a result of the conspiracy against him he will be followed by the odium of arrest.

The hearing started yesterday and is continuing today. Dr. Evans was placed on the witness stand and told his side of the controversy regarding the sale of the different mines of the Keystone Copper and Gold Mining company to that company. He said that he had invested his money in them and then had sold them out to the company. The ground on which the requisition papers are being fought is that they are not sufficient to take Evans into Pennsylvania and that he is not a fugutive from justice.

Hard on the Parson.

Just after the battle of Perryville, in October, 1862, says a Georgia exchange, Dr. Savage, a strong Union man, was at one of his appointments to baptize some children. There was a large crowd, and a sturdy southern matron brought her four children to the altar. "Name this child," said the Union preacher, laying his hand on the boy's head. "Simon Bolivar Buckner," was the reply, which caused a smile to come over the congregation, but the brave preacher went on with his duty.

"Name this child," taking the next in order. "Pierre Gustave Toutant Beauregard." And the smile grew into a snicker, while Dr. Savage became red in the face. He baptized the young namesake of the soldier and went on with the ceremony. "Name this one," he gasped, reaching for the third. "Albert Sidney Johnson," came the answer. The smile became audible and the preacher apoplectic. Heaving a sigh of relief, he took the fourth child, a little girl, whose gender he fondly supposed would preclude a continuation of heroic reproduction and said, "Name this child." "Mary Stonewall Jackson Lee," came the response that set the congregation in a roar, while the Union parson thought he had held in his arms the whole Southern Confederacy.

Doing Nature's Work.

In the year 1900 no less than 4,000 trees were planted in New York city under the auspices of the tree planting society of that town. Some complaint has arisen over the deadly effect of escaping gas upon the roots, but very few trees comparatively have perished from this cause.

UNIQUE CAMPAIGN OF A. H. JACKSON

GIRLS HELPED HIM LARGELY

The New Congressman Was Once a Peddler, But Had Pluck And Perseverance, And Won His Way to Success—His Remarkable Victory.

Sandusky, November 7.—Far more successful than Tom L. Johnson in a circus campaign was A. H. Jackson, of Fremont, Sandusky county, whose election as congressman, over James A. Norton, of Tiffin, was the culmination of one of the most remarkable contests in recent political history.

It required just such a man as Jackson and just such a campaign as he conducted to do the trick. Incidentally, it must be said that women played no small part in the campaign. Jackson employs a couple of thousand of young women in his factories in different cities in the district, and they were enthusiastic supporters of his candidacy. That they influenced the voters there can be little doubt.

Few people believed that Jackson could be elected. James A. Norton was running for the fourth time. He had made a good record in congress, and, although in the minority, had accomplished much for Sandusky. In Erie county he stood especially high, having done much for the chamber of commerce, both in securing harbor appropriations, and the preliminary steps for a new government building.

Two years ago Norton was elected by over 6,000 plurality, but this was to be cut down in a way little dreamed of a week ago.

The outlook for a Republican victory in the district was not very bright early in the fall when the leaders commenced casting about for a candidate. Little interest was manifested. The name of Jackson, an underwear manufacturer of Fremont, had been suggested, and the Fremont people, with local pride, boomed his candidacy.

Jackson had plenty of money, and he was willing to spend it. He purchased a large tallyho, with a capacity for 20 men, and four bay horses were engaged. With a band and a corps of speakers the underwear merchant started out to tour the district. With a blare of trumpets the tallyho would dash into town, parade the streets while the band played, and then, as the crowd collected, the addresses would be made.

Jackson wore a cylinder hat, to which he constantly referred. He told the people of his early struggles in life, of the fortune which he had amassed, the factories he had built, the girls he employed, and he promised government buildings and harbor improvements that would make Norton turn green green with envy.

Jackson's career is an interesting one. Born in 1847, in Delaware county, New York, his family moved to Steuben county, when he was but 7 years old, later moving to Corning. The family of boys had but little training in the country schools. Young Jackson was apprenticed as a carpenter, and, like Garfield, drove canal mules. At the age of 19 Jackson decided to go west. He had saved up $500, but while asleep in Kansas City, he was robbed of this. He went to work to recuperate his fortune, and finally engaged on a small scale in peddling.

Later he bought a horse and wagon, and took up the selling of suspenders, making a great success. He also became an auctioneer, being known as the "Auctioneer King," and in 1872 located in Fremont. When he had accumulated about $25,000, he decided to engage in the circus business, but bad weather and other conditions ruined this and he lost every cent. He again took up peddling, having a gorgeous wagon built for the purpose, and finally got possession of a stock of dry goods. He was forced to make an assignment in this, and while left stranded, he hit upon a new idea, that of making bustles of wire. He soon had 300 people employed in this, and then the bustle fad died out. Jackson was left with a big stock of goods on hand, together with machines, and he finally went into the business of manufacturing underwear. In this he has been so successful that he now owns fine brick factory buildings in Fremont, employing a couple of thousand people. He has just built in Fremont a $50,000 fraternity home, where his employes are boarded at actual cost.

They Believe in Helping One Another, Never Go to Law And Never Get in the Poor House—Their Debts Always Paid.

The Amish, a peculiar religious sect, have a colony in Stark county, in the vicinity of Louisville. The people of this colony number several hundred, and are engaged in farming and stock raising, at which occupation they are eminently successful.

In dress and costume they are very much like Quakers. The Amish came originally from the south of Prussia early in the history of this country, settling in eastern Pennsylvania. Their language is German, or rather the dialect known "as Pennsylvania Dutch." From the original Amish settlement in Pennsylvania they emigrated in bands of a half dozen families or more to other states, Ohio having several settlements, the largest being in Holmes county, where probably one-fourth of the population belong to this sect. Indiana and most of the other states of the central west have a large number.

As one of the strictest rules of the Amish religion is one which prohibits marriage outside of the sect, there is a relationship more or less distant between the inhabitants of these colonies. The names of a few of the parent families now largely predominate among these people. Among the most prominent of these are the names of Miller, Yoder, Hostetler, Hershberger.

The Amish are very thrifty and economical and wherever a community is started it is usually the case that members of the sect acquire control of many of the farms contiguous to the land originally held. An Amish boy is usually given enough when he reaches his majority to make a small payment on a farm near his parents and the balance of the payments he makes by tilling the soil.

It is against the rules of the church to go into the courts and an Amishman will never bring suit against anyone who has wronged him. They will not go to war, nor does their religion allow them to serve on a jury or take an oath. In none of the Amish settlements has it been known that one of the sect has been an inmate of a county infirmary, as the church takes care of its very few indigents. No debt of an Amishman to anyone out of the church remains unpaid, as others of the sect will join together and pay any such creditor, if the debtor is unable to do so. None of the members of this sect will take out a life insurance policy, nor will they protect their property in a fire insurance company. If an Amishman meets a loss by fire his neighbors will assist him to rebuild and restock his barn or house.

The manner of dress is one of the strictest requirements which a member of the sect is required to follow. The men all wear long hair and beard, but are not allowed to grow a moustache. The plain black, wide brimmed hat is the only style which is sanctioned, and the manufacturer never changes the block. A short coat of black without a collar, and trousers and vest of the same material, all being fastened with hooks and eyes instead of buttons. Buttons on a garment are considered a matter of pride, which is one of the things which above all others an Amish man or woman is not allowed to cultivate. The overcoats are worn long, and with a large cape. No genuine Amishman ever wore a linen collar or necktie.

The dress of the women has not changed a particle in style in the history of the sect. Dresses are all made shortwaisted, and always of unfigured cloth. A favorite costume with all Amish women is a dress of black, with a triangular piece of blue, yellow or purple from the neck to the waist in front and back. The short skirt has always been in vogue among the Amish. The headdress of the women consists of a black and in some cases a purple bonnet. This is used as an outer covering, while a small cap of white is always worn underneath, tied under the chin with a white bow. The white cap is not removed in the house or church. The hair is worn in a braid down the back. Jewelry of any sort is not tolerated, and if an Amish maiden should wear a ring it would probably result in her expulsion from the church.

The style of architecture used by the Amish in building their homes has not changed any since the time of log cabins. They are built with a porch the entire length of the house both in front and back. The building is always painted white.

The Stark county community has a church building, which is plain, but substantial. The manner of choosing the minister who preaches at the church services seems peculiar to those unacquainted with the Amish custom. The ministers of this sect are not paid and are chosen by lot.

The marriage ceremony is the only occasion of display among these people. The wedding are largely attended, and the ceremonies extend over two days, concluding with a banquet which lasts all night. Courtship among the Amish is one of the most sacred of the sect. The young Amish swain makes his entrance to the abode of his sweetheart through the window of her boudoir, and exit is made in the same manner.

FALSE ARREST CHARGED

A Pretty Custom.

South American lovers have a pretty custom. It is well known that when the petals of the great laurel magnolia are touched, however lightly, the result is a brown spot which develops in a few hours. The fact is taken advantage of by the lover, who pulls a magnolia flower and on one of its pure white petals writes a motto or message with a hard, sharp pointed pencil. Then he sends the flower, the young lady puts it in a vase of water, and in three or four hours the message written on the leaf becomes visible.

A Coincidence.

"So that young man wants to marry you?" said Mabel's father.

"Yes," was the reply.

"No; but it's an awfully strange coincidence."

"What do you mean?"

"Herbert asked the very same question about you."

SENSATIONAL CHARGE

DISTURBANCE AT POLLS CAUSE.

Assert Returns Were Tampered With at Time Polling Place Was Attacked by Socialists—Vote Being Counted by Court.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Nov. 7.—There was a sensation in court last evening when the members of the election board of the middle district of Wilkesbarre township entered and asked the judges to make a correction in the returns from their district, as they learned they had been tampered with. The election officers alleged that on the night of the election their polling place was attacked by Socialists, who claimed they were not getting a square deal. The windows and doors in the house were broken and the officers fled. When they returned they hastily placed the return sheets in an envelope and sent them to the prothonotary's office. Yesterday they were told that while they were absent from the polling place the returns were tampered with. An examination of the returns showed that they had been altered. The vote of James N. Holman, Democratic candidate for register, had been changed from 67 to 124, and the vote of his Republican opponent, John Mainwaring, had been changed from 21 to 10. The contest between Holman and Mainwaring is very close and it will take the official vote to decide who is elected. The official vote is now being counted under the direction of the judges of the court.

THE COMPLETE RETURNS.

Philadelphia, Nov. 7.—Complete returns from all counties in the state on the gubernatorial vote, except Armstrong, Allegheny, Chester and Washington, show a plurality of 94,342 for Pennypacker over Pattison. To this is added estimated pluralities for Pennypacker in the missing counties as follows: Armstrong, 1,700; Allegheny, 30,000; Chester, 1,000, and Washington, 2,100. This gives Pennypacker a plurality of 129,142.

In a number of counties the complete vote for lieutenant governor and secretary of internal affairs has not been completed, hence the pluralities for William M. Brown and Isaac B. Brown, respectively, for the offices, cannot now be given. Their pluralities, however, will not vary materially from that for governor.

The total vote in the state for governor exceeded 1,000,000.

Returns From Delaware.

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 7.—Complete returns from Sussex county show the election of Thomas W. Jefferson, Democrat, as state senator from the Fifth district, by a plurality of seven votes over George E. Magee, an Addicks Republican. There are 52 members of the legislature and the vote on joint ballot will be 27 Republicans and 24 Democrats. The Republicans will have a majority of one, but as seven are "regular Republicans" and opposed to Adicks, his chances of election to the United States senate are still further reduced by Jefferson's election.

Oklahoma Results In Doubt.

Guthrie, Okla., Nov. 7.—There is a bitter struggle in Oklahoma for the election of a delegate to congress. The result is still in doubt, with the complete returns in the west and southwest counties yet to be received. The Republicans claim McGuire's election by 1,000 and the Democrats claim Cross by 1,400.

Coal Shipments Increasing.

Reading, Nov. 7.—Coal shipments over the main line of the Reading road are increasing rapidly. They have now reached 1,200 to 1,500 cars, or fully 35,000 tons a day.

THE DRAKE-GATES BETTING SYSTEM.

How the Chicago Millionaires Have Won Vast Sums at Horse Races.

What is now known as the Drake-Gates system of betting on horse races holds the attention of race followers throughout the country. This comes after the alleged cleaning up of $500,000 by Chicago people on the win of Savable in the sixty thousand dollar Futurity at Sheepshead Bay, New York, and on the results of several later races. John A. Drake is credited with being the largest winner, including the $45,000 his horse won for him.

Drake and Gates have carried into the thoroughbred game an unsurpassed bank roll, sound judgment, nerve and a love of simon pure gambling. Their success is credited large to a system of betting known and figured at some time or other by every man or woman that has bet on a horse race. It is credited also to the wonderful trainer, Enoch Wishard, and to the information brought to Drake by other owners concerning the condition of their horses in certain races. This latter information, of course, is handed to Drake for a consideration. That consideration may vary from a percentage of the money won or a certain sum if it proves true to an exchange of tips, permitting the original owner to bet his own money.

It was invariably noticed that Drake and his followers increased their wagers as they progressed on a losing series. In other words, they increased their bets sufficiently to clear up all past losses on each new bet. In the end a forty thousand dollar plunge would bob up a winner, backed from ten to even money or better, according to whether George Rose or Kid Weller was taking the money or whether it was spread over the New York ring.

This system is essentially the same as that outlined by hundreds of young men who have lacked the capital to make the start. Many have tried it with a small wad, only to bump up against short priced winners, cheap bookies who wouldn't take a large bet or some such mishap, or they have not followed their systems. Now come these two big gamblers of the period with unlimited capital, gained by aggressive hard work in ventures as essentially of a gambling nature as playing the horse races. They plan out this system of taking either their own pickings or those of a regular tipster and backing it till it wins. When a winner is picked, they are right, for their bet covers all past losses. That is why the New York field, with 200 bookmakers inside the dead line and backed by a strong association, offered a larger field than did Chicago, and that is why Drake and Gates are operating there instead of the latter place.

Drake says:

"Why doesn't everybody follow that system? It is a poor picker that does not name from one to three every day. We have tried it and win."

Is not Drake afraid that somebody will try his own system on his own book? It is a poor rule that does not work both ways.

It is to be taken for granted that the system proposed is not the broad and easy road to wealth generally considered. In the first place, a vast betting capital or bank roll is needed, then a reputation as a steady bettor or plunger, such as Drake has. This is to disabuse the bookmakers of the idea that a sure thing is being put through. Nothing causes the average bookmaker to climb a fence as does a new face handing up a big bet to him on a horse that on past form looks outside the money.

THE MILKY WAY.

A System Which Gives Us a Vague Idea of the Eternity of Space.

The Milky Way, the grandest feature of the "firmament which bends above us," the hazy path which so majestically bands the whole fabric of the skies together, is now known to be composed of a grand aggregation of at least 18,000,000 suns, each as large as or larger than that which makes vegetable and animal life an earthly possibility. One is apt when allowing the mind to revert to the contemplation of these misty and indistinct astronomical subjects to measure their magnitude or attempt to measure it by making terrestrial comparisons.

It is obvious, however, upon more mature reflection that such comparisons are worse than "odious." The bulk of our sun exceeds that of the earth 1,200,000 times, being 600 times greater than that of the bulk of his whole train of planets taken collectively. This being the case, what basis can we use for calculating the magnitude of 18,000,000 suns, each, as I have said before, probably larger than that which gives us heat and light?

The infinite number of suns which taken together, make up the Milky Way are not set at a uniform distance from our earth or even from our sun. In fact, they appear to work altogether independently of either this mundane sphere (or our "glorious orb of day." The majority of them are planted at a distance too remote to be even imperfectly measured or understood. Some of them are so near (?) that light, which travels at the rate of 185,000 miles per second, would cross the distance between us and them in the period of about an even ten years. Others, however, are so remote that it would take a full thousand years for their light to reach us.

A State Dinner In Venice.

In 1552 the patriarch of Aquileia feted Ranuccio Farnese, the pope's nephew, in the palace on the Giudecca. The rooms were decked with extraordinary sumptuousness, cloth of gold, paintings and illuminations adding to the effect produced by the patriarch's cooks. Among the guests were twelve gentlemen in fancy marine costumes of green satin with red lining, wearing caps of the same colors and each accompanied by a lady dressed in white. This repast lasted four hours, varied by music and the professional entertainers of the day. It ended with the cutting up of certain large pies from which live birds flew out into the room. The guests strove with each other to catch these birds.

Discourteous Courtier.

Once upon a time the prime minister went to the king and complained that a certain courtier, who was very hard of hearing, had been making very uncomplimentary remarks about his sovereign.

"Your majesty should speak to him about it," said the minister, "that it may cease, but you must needs speak loud."

"I will speak so loud," answered the king, "that I guarantee the offense will never be repeated."

He then sent the offending courtier to the guillotine.

A Pretty Custom.

South American lovers have a pretty custom. It is well known that when the petals of the great laurel magnolia are touched, however lightly, the result is a brown spot which develops in a few hours. The fact is taken advantage of by the lover, who pulls a magnolia flower and on one of its pure white petals writes a motto or message with a hard, sharp pointed pencil. Then he sends the flower, the young lady puts it in a vase of water, and in three or four hours the message written on the leaf becomes visible.

A Coincidence.

"So that young man wants to marry you?" said Mabel's father.

"Yes," was the reply.

"Do you know how much his salary is?"

"What do you mean?"

"Herbert asked the very same question about you."

SENSATIONAL CHARGE

DISTURBANCE AT POLLS CAUSE.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Nov. 7.—There was a sensation in court last evening when the members of the election board of the middle district of Wilkesbarre township entered and asked the judges to make a correction in the returns from their district, as they learned they had been tampered with. The election officers alleged that on the night of the election their polling place was attacked by Socialists, who claimed they were not getting a square deal. The windows and doors in the house were broken and the officers fled. When they returned they hastily placed the return sheets in an envelope and sent them to the prothonotary's office. Yesterday they were told that while they were absent from the polling place the returns were tampered with. An examination of the returns showed that they had been altered. The vote of James N. Holman, Democratic candidate for register, had been changed from 67 to 124, and the vote of his Republican opponent, John Mainwaring, had been changed from 21 to 10. The contest between Holman and Mainwaring is very close and it will take the official vote to decide who is elected. The official vote is now being counted under the direction of the judges of the court.

THE COMPLETE RETURNS.

Philadelphia, Nov. 7.—Complete returns from all counties in the state on the gubernatorial vote, except Armstrong, Allegheny, Chester and Washington, show a plurality of 94,342 for Pennypacker over Pattison. To this is added estimated pluralities for Pennypacker in the missing counties as follows: Armstrong, 1,700; Allegheny, 30,000; Chester, 1,000, and Washington, 2,100. This gives Pennypacker a plurality of 129,142.

In a number of counties the complete vote for lieutenant governor and secretary of internal affairs has not been completed, hence the pluralities for William M. Brown and Isaac B. Brown, respectively, for the offices, cannot now be given. Their pluralities, however, will not vary materially from that for governor.

The total vote in the state for governor exceeded 1,000,000.

Full Returns From Lycoming.

Dougherty Fails of Election.

Carlisle, Pa., Nov. 7.—Official returns show the election of Myers, Dem., and Binkerhoff, Rep., to the house of representatives, instead of Myers and Dougherty, Dems., as the unofficial returns indicated.

Congressman Rhea Re-Elected.

Wytheville, Va., Nov. 7.—Latest returns from the Ninth Virginia district indicate the re-election of Congressman Rhea by a majority of 25. Up to last night Judge Rhea was supposed to have been defeated by Colonel Slemp, Republican.

Returns From Delaware.

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 7.—Complete returns from Sussex county show the election of Thomas W. Jefferson, Democrat, as state senator from the Fifth district, by a plurality of seven votes over George E. Magee, an Addicks Republican. There are 52 members of the legislature and the vote on joint ballot will be 27 Republicans and 24 Democrats. OUR NATIVE TREES

THOMAS H. MACBRIDE, Ph. D.,

II.—The Fruits of Trees.

IN our northern woods all growth is conditioned by our alternating seasons. Growth in plants, as we know, begins or is renewed in spring and ceases at the approach of fall or winter. Renewal, apart now from the agency of seeds, comes about in various ways—by tubers, bulbs, by underground roots and stems. In the tree the renewal results, first, from the unfolding of buds formed in the axils of last year's leaves and all ready by expansion to furnish the foliage and twigs of the season, and, second, from the cambium and its associated living tissues, described in the preceding chapter. The buds contain at base and throughout a very great number of undifferentiated cells—like cambium cells, in fact—capable of growing so as to form different structures and organs. These carry forward the growth of the tree in height. The twigs stretch out from buds. All development upward takes origin in buds. In this respect, however, the development of a bud on a tree is different in nowise from the unfolding of the bud of the meanest weed stretching up to form its evanescent stem. In all the higher plants all length increase proceeds from buds. But the second factor in the tree's renewal is, as has been said, the peculiar characteristic of the tree, and to it we must now again give heed.

In spring no sooner the buds begin to swell and grow than the cambium and its kindred tissues likewise resume activity. The cambium in particular takes up its work just where it stopped the fall before, but under very different conditions. In autumn work is suspended, often suddenly, in the full tide of the tree's activity. Ever since June at least the foliage of the tree has been doing fullest duty. The roots have been equally vigorous, furnishing every active cell throughout the tree abundant material with which to build. The result is that the work done by the tree in the later months of summer is its best work. Then it is the cambium is richest, builds more bark and more wood. The wood also is better. The cells are not only much more numerous, but they are smaller, and their walls are very much thicker. Growing, as they do, under a constantly strengthening sheath of cortical tissues, the new wood cells are under ever increasing pressure. They are in most cases closely compacted together. There are no large vessels such as in early spring were especially needful to carry the vast amount of water demanded by myriad forming leaves. And now, when frost, shortening days and other autumnal conditions finally supervene, our tree is really at its best. But the north wind sounds retreat. The leaves fall; the naked buds appear; the ground freezes; the cambium rests. When spring returns, everything has changed. The bark has been checked and loosened by the storms and frosts of winter. The roots are fairly active, it is true, often more or less completely protected from the frost, but there are no leaves to furnish forth supplies of food for any active cells. Resumed activity depends for days entirely upon supplies left over from the year before, stored largely as starch, in the twigs and at their bases and in the medullary rays, to be further on described. As a consequence, most trees, not all, show in their structure the result of these changed conditions. One may see it on the smooth cut end of any stick or piece of wood.

The paler, whiter lines mark the places of earlier activity. Just outside each paler ring is a darker, denser line, a section of the autumn wood. Note how these succeed each other alternately to the limits of our section. It will be observed that growth seems to cease abruptly. It probably begins again quite vigorously and suddenly as the trees are roused by the warm suns of spring, but the transition from vernal wood to autumnal wood is evidently slow. In Germany in the spruce forests some effort has been made to restrain, if possible, the too early resumption of the work in the trees in spring, with the hope of securing a greater proportion of autumnal wood. Such experiments so far have proved instructive, but not otherwise of practical value.

The radiating lines in our figure show the place and arrangement of the medullary rays mentioned in the previous article. These serve a double purpose. They keep the living elements of the stem, both bark and wood, in direct communication with each other and so make possible the nutrition of all the cells and tissues. Besides, they serve mechanically to bind in one the otherwise easily separable layers of the tree's increase. If the vertical structure of the tree may be esteemed the warp, the medullary rays make up the woof to bind or weave in one the tissues of our plant. This is beautifully shown in Fig. 2, which is, of course, diagrammatic, but is nevertheless entirely truthful in the impression it conveys.

Notice that the bark has its rays as well as the wood and that the rays of the two structures are continuous. We must not forget that the bark is not a protective structure only. It is also nutritive, brings nutrition, especially from the leaves, and, largely by the rays, as just remarked, distributes to the growing wood its food supply. In the figure it will be observed that the earliest, longest rays connect directly with the medulla. Others as the demand increases are introduced in the succeeding years. The resin which is so characteristic of most coniferous trees, as pines, is found in intercellular spaces and is a kind of waste product in the economy of the tree.

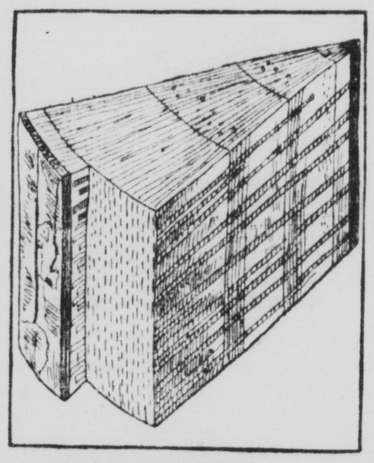

Fig. 2.—Diagrammatic View of Block From a Tree.

Such a structure as that just described can grow in one direction only—that is, in thickness. No tree stem lengthens. Wood once formed cannot stretch or be extended. A branch once pushed forth remains always at the same level. The reason why trees seem to carry up their branches will be shown later on.

But we are now in a position to discuss the age of trees and may conveniently make this the topic of the next chapter.

The Curse of a Treeless Region.

Any one who has traveled through the comparatively treeless countries around the Mediterranean, such as Spain, Sicily, Greece, northern Africa and large portions of Italy, must fervently pray that our own country may be preserved from so dismal a fate, says President Charles W. Eliot. It is not the loss of the forests only that is to be dreaded, but the loss of agricultural regions now fertile and populous, which may be desolated by the floods that rush down from bare hills and mountains, bringing with them vast quantities of sand and gravel to be spread over the lowlands. Tunis was once one of the richest granaries of the Roman empire. It now yields a scanty support for a sparse and semibarbarous population. The whole region roundabout is treeless. The care of the national forests is a provision for future generations, for the permanence over vast areas of our country of the great industries of agriculture and mining, upon which the prosperity of the country ultimately depends. A good forest administration would soon support itself, but it should be organized in the interests of the whole country, no matter what its cost.—Atlantic Monthly.

STOCK MARKET ERRATIC.

New York, Nov. 7.—The course of stock prices was exceedingly erratic all of yesterday and the closing prices were not far from Wednesday night's level. The constantly varying movement was seemingly due to the groping effects of the professional operators to discover the current in the market. The result of their experiments seemed to show that there was no current. Speculative sentiment has, in fact, come to a standstill and is waiting for new developments. The factors which have induced the recent downward tendency of prices are still in force to a greater or less extent, but the well established principle of speculative markets to discount the future makes it doubtful when a current movement of prices has run an adequate course to accomplish this object. Apprehension still exists that there will be large withdrawals of gold, with a resulting squeeze of money rates in the local market. The advancing tendency of wages and the high prices of material keep alive the uneasiness over the proportion of the earnings which will be left for stockholders. But it may be possible that the considerable decline in prices which has already occurred may be sufficient to discount these possibilities. At all events the bear operators who have gone short of the market took sufficient account of this possibility to want to buy stocks to cover their short contracts. The advances caused by this buying met renewed selling of a rather concentrated character. The origin of this selling was a mystery and opinion was divided as to whether it came from the bears or was further liquidation of long accounts. The stock most active in the trading were those which have been recent favorites in the speculation. There were gains of 1 to 1½ at one time in about a dozen railroad stocks and half as many specialties. Cotton Oil had the benefit of its dividend declaration. Sugar broke sharply after early strength, because of fears of a further cut in prices and rumors of a rate war at Missouri river points. The coilers were under some pressure, owing to reports of renewed troubles at the collieries of some of the independent operators, and Lackawanna suffered in addition on its showing of earnings for the September quarter, which revealed a reduction in net earnings compared with the corresponding period of last year of $1,700,000. Money rates were rather firm and foreign exchange was also firmly held.

SOME TRI-STATE EVENTS.

Mrs. Pauline James, of Kimball, W. Va., to be taken to the penitentiary to serve a two-year's sentence for forgery, escaped from jail.

At Loup Creek, W. Va., George Galloway shot and killed James Moss.

Prof. T. C. Dillon, superintendent of schools at Belmont, O., met death in a runaway.

Fire at Bellaire, O., destroyed the Travelers' hotel. Loss, $3,000.

Short Time From Columbus to Toledo.

Toledo, O., Nov. 7.—The Pennsylvania has under consideration plans, consummation of which will give that road the short line from Toledo to Columbus, in competition with the Hocking Valley and the Ohio Central lines, both of which are Morgan properties. By the recent acquisition of the Sandusky division of the Columbus, Sandusk and Hocking, the Pennsylvania has a line from Toledo to Columbus, 138 miles long, or 14 miles longer than the Hocking Valley. It is now proposed to build a line from Tiffin to Marion, a distance of 22 miles, which would make the new route to Columbus 110 miles, or 14 miles shorter than the Hocking Valley.

Death Resulted From Carelessness.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 7.—The coroner's jury, which investigated the deaths of Rev. W. C. Rabe and Miss Augusta Busch, returned a verdict that death resulted from asphyxiation by gas, through carelessness. Nothing which could throw any new lightupon the tragedy was brought out at the inquest.

Robbers Secured $3,800.

Heerington, Kan., Nov. 7.—Robbers blew open the safe of the Tampa State bank here and took about $3,800 in currency, escaping on a handcar. The safe was blown to pieces.

The famous Traubenkurs, of Germany, along the river Rhine, known here as Mull's Grape Tonic, cure the worst cases of Stomach Troubles, and all nervous diseases, at Hodson's Drug Store.

THE PUBLICATION OF MODERN ELOQUENCE (Ten Handsome Library Volumes) is an event of premier importance. For the first time the best After-Dinner Speeches, Lectures, Addresses, Anecdotes, Reminiscences and Repartee of America's and England's most brilliant men have been selected—edited—arranged—by an editorial board of men, themselves eloquent with word and pen—men who have achieved eminence in varied fields of activity.

These gems of spoken thought were fugitive from lack of proper preservative means, until the Hon. Thomas B. Reed, upon voluntarily retiring from the Speakership of the House of Representatives, gathered about him these men of mark and experience in literature, his friends and co-workers in other fields, and began the task of preparing this great work.

North, East, South and West, and the Mother Country as well, have been searched for gems in every field of eloquence.

Here was a lecture that had wrought upon the very souls of great audiences; there an after-dinner speech, which "between the lines" was freighted with the destinies of nations. Here was an eulogy expressing in few but virile words the love, the honor and the tears of millions, and there an address pregnant with the fruits of a strenuous life's work. Or, perchance, a reminiscence, keen, scintillant repartee, or a story, potent in significance, and aflame with human interest. Matter there was in abundance, for English-speaking peoples are eloquent, but the best, only the best, the great, the brilliant, the worthy to endure, has been the guiding rule of Mr. Reed and his colleagues. Their editorial labors have been immense.

While libraries and musty files were being delved into in a hundred places—while famous men were putting into manuscript their brain children—while reminiscence, repartee and story were being reduced to type, and speeches, addresses, and lectures, which money could not buy, were in friendship's name being offered, Mr. Reed was preparing for this work, his most ambitious contribution to literature—his piece de resistance—"The Influence and the History of Oratory." Prof. Lorenzo Sears, beloved and honored in many lands for his critical and contributory work in literature, was writing "The History of After-Dinner Speaking." So with Champ Clark, Edward Everett Hale, Senator Dolliver, and Hamilton Wright Mabie—each was producing a special contribution, which of itself is a gem of thought, a monument to research, study, and observant experience.

Whatever the viewpoint, this work is without precedent. It has no predecessor, no competitor. Speeches that have been flashed across continents, lectures that have been repeated over and over again to never-tiring audiences (but never published), addresses that made famous the man, the time, and the place—these are brought together for the first time, and with them a large number of the wittiest sayings of the wittiest men of the nineteenth century.

For an hour—for a whole evening in the easy chair at home—for the study of style and diction that have electrified brilliant assemblies, for the man ambitious to become a successful or popular public speaker, and for the one who has to prepare a toast or an address, this work is a never-failing source of charm and inspiration. Nor is this solely "a man's work." "The tenderest tribute to woman I have ever read," said Senator Dolliver when he read the manuscript of Joseph Choate's after-dinner speech, "The Pilgrim Mothers."

The stock most active in the trading were those which have been recent favorites in the speculation. There were gains of 1 to 1½ at one time in about a dozen railroad stocks and half as many specialties. Cotton Oil had the benefit of its dividend declaration. Sugar broke sharply after early strength, because of fears of a further cut in prices and rumors of a rate war at Missouri river points. The coalers were under some pressure, owing to reports of renewed troubles at the collieries of some of the independent operators, and Lackawanna suffered in addition on its showing of earnings for the September quarter, which revealed a reduction in net earnings compared with the corresponding period of last year of $1,700,000. Money rates were rather firm and foreign exchange was also firmly held.

Short Time From Columbus to Toledo.

Toledo, O., Nov. 7.—The Pennsylvania has under consideration plans, consummation of which will give that road the short line from Toledo to Columbus, in competition with the Hocking Valley and the Ohio Central lines, both of which are Morgan properties. By the recent acquisition of the Sandusky division of the Columbus, Sandusk and Hocking, the Pennsylvania has a line from Toledo to Columbus, 138 miles long, or 14 miles longer than the Hocking Valley. It is now proposed to build a line from Tiffin to Marion, a distance of 22 miles, which would make the new route to Columbus 110 miles, or 14 miles shorter than the Hocking Valley.

Death Resulted From Carelessness.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 7.—The coroner's jury, which investigated the deaths of Rev. W. C. Rabe and Miss Augusta Busch, returned a verdict that death resulted from asphyxiation by gas, through carelessness. Nothing which could throw any new lightupon the tragedy was brought out at the inquest.

THE PUBLICATION OF MODERN ELOQUENCE (Ten Handsome Library Volumes) is an event of premier importance. For the first time the best After-Dinner Speeches, Lectures, Addresses, Anecdotes, Reminiscences and Repartee of America's and England's most brilliant men have been selected—edited—arranged—by an editorial board of men, themselves eloquent with word and pen—men who have achieved eminence in varied fields of activity.

These gems of spoken thought were fugitive from lack of proper preservative means, until the Hon. Thomas B. Reed, upon voluntarily retiring from the Speakership of the House of Representatives, gathered about him these men of mark and experience in literature, his friends and co-workers in other fields, and began the task of preparing this great work.

North, East, South and West, and the Mother Country as well, have been searched for gems in every field of eloquence.

Here was a lecture that had wrought upon the very souls of great audiences; there an after-dinner speech, which "between the lines" was freighted with the destinies of nations. Here was an eulogy expressing in few but virile words the love, the honor and the tears of millions, and there an address pregnant with the fruits of a strenuous life's work. Or, perchance, a reminiscence, keen, scintillant repartee, or a story, potent in significance, and aflame with human interest. Matter there was in abundance, for English-speaking peoples are eloquent, but the best, only the best, the great, the brilliant, the worthy to endure, has been the guiding rule of Mr. Reed and his colleagues. Their editorial labors have been immense.

While libraries and musty files were being delved into in a hundred places—while famous men were putting into manuscript their brain children—while reminiscence, repartee and story were being reduced to type, and speeches, addresses, and lectures, which money could not buy, were in friendship's name being offered, Mr. Reed was preparing for this work, his most ambitious contribution to literature—his piece de resistance—"The Influence and the History of Oratory." Prof. Lorenzo Sears, beloved and honored in many lands for his critical and contributory work in literature, was writing "The History of After-Dinner Speaking." So with Champ Clark, Edward Everett Hale, Senator Dolliver, and Hamilton Wright Mabie—each was producing a special contribution, which of itself is a gem of thought, a monument to research, study, and observant experience.

Whatever the viewpoint, this work is without precedent. It has no predecessor, no competitor. Speeches that have been flashed across continents, lectures that have been repeated over and over again to never-tiring audiences (but never published), addresses that made famous the man, the time, and the place—these are brought together for the first time, and with them a large number of the wittiest sayings of the wittiest men of the nineteenth century.

For an hour—for a whole evening in the easy chair at home—for the study of style and diction that have electrified brilliant assemblies, for the man ambitious to become a successful or popular public speaker, and for the one who has to prepare a toast or an address, this work is a never-failing source of charm and inspiration. Nor is this solely "a man's work." "The tenderest tribute to woman I have ever read," said Senator Dolliver when he read the manuscript of Joseph Choate's after-dinner speech, "The Pilgrim Mothers."

CATTLE RATES LOW.

A. C. Bird Makes the Assertion Before Interstate Commercial Commission.

CAME AS A GREAT SUPRISE.

Says Cattle Do Not Pay Their Just Proportion of Transportation Charges—Deems Low Rate In Raw Material Wise Policy.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—The interstate commerce commission began a two-days' session in this city yesterday, with Chairman M. A. Knapp, J. D. Yeomans, C. A. Prouty and J. W. Fifer present. The morning session was devoted to the case of the Proprietary Medicine Association of America against the New York Central Railway company, in which the "medicine men" claim a discrimination is made against them by the railroads, and by the New York Central railroad in particular.

Declares Rates Unreasonable.

A. C. Bird, third vice president of the St. Paul road took a bold stand when the commission began an investigation into the rates on cattle and packing house products between Chicago and the Missouri river.

Mr. Bird was the first witness of importance before the commission, and when asked if he desired to defend the reasonableness of the St. Paul's live stock rates he declared that they were not reasonable.

"Not only are our live stock rates unreasonable," he declared, "but all our freight rates today are unreasonable, because they are entirely too low to compensate for the service rendered. All freight rates should be raised and I am surprised that the railroads don't make a combined effort and raise them."

Members of Commission Surprised.

This statement surprised the members of the commission, and they immediately started to ascertain Mr. Bird's reasons. The witness stated that it was unfair to take the past two years as a basis from which to judge the fairness of rates and the fairness of the remuneration derived by the railroads, for during that period railroading had not, as a general proposition, been remunerative. With respect to cattle rates, Mr. Bird asserted that cattle did not now, and had not for years, paid their just proportion of transportation charges, and that further to reduce the rates on cattle would be to make a bad situation worse. When asked what governed the scientific making of rates, he replied that he had not seen the time in 25 years when rates could be made on a scientific basis. On the contrary, rates are always based upon competition, comparison and compromise.

The present inquiry is at the instigation of the Chicago live stock exchange, which claims that the lower rate on packing house products that exists between Chicago and Missouri river points, relative to the rate on cattle, operates against the Chicago market. Under prevailing rates, packers can better afford to convert the live stock into packing house products at Missouri river points than at Chicago. While on the stand Mr. Bird explained that he had always deemed it a wise policy to make as low a rate on the raw material as on the finished products, but that when a rate on the latter, which was not remunerative, was forced upon the roads, he did not believe in also forcing down the live stock rates to maintain the relations.

Receivers For Boston Firm.

Boston, Nov. 7.—Receivers were appointed by Judge Colt in the United States court yesterday for the variously named concerns which centered around Frederick E. Betts and John M. Fisher, and which, it is claimed, were used to carry on a stock brokerage business to defraud.

Denies Acquisition of Road.

Toledo, O., Nov. 7.—President Norton, of the Clover Leaf, yesterday afternoon, when shown the Associated Press dispatch from Montreal, which stated that the Detroit and Toledo Shore line has been acquired jointly by the Grand Trunk and Clover Leaf, denied positively that the Clover Leaf had any connection with the deal.

Atlanta Gets Convention.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 7.—The executive committee of the Baptist Young People's Union of America, in session here yesterday, decided to hold the next annual convention of the society in Atlanta, in the second week of July, 1903. The convention will last four days.

Business Man Lost In Mountain.

Kalispell, Mont., Nov. 7.—Superintendent Egan, of the Great Northern, is lost in the mountains since Tuesday. A large searching party is out. Severe storms have been prevailing and it is feared he may have perished.

Silversmiths on Strike.

New York, Nov. 7.—All organized silver chasers who were not already out of the shops in which is now progressing the strike of silversmiths for nine hours a day instead of ten, left work yesterday.

THE WOODCOCK.

Where Does It Hide During the Molting Season?

It is during the months of August and September that the mystery of the woodcock's life begins. This is the molting season, when the bird changes its plumage before beginning its journey southward. At this time it leaves the swamps. Where does it go? That is a question which has never yet received a satisfactory answer, although each sportsman and naturalist has his own opinion, and many fine spun theories have been advanced. Some say that the birds move toward the north, some that they seek the mountain tops, coming into the swamps to feed only after nightfall; some that they seek the cornfields, and there have been many other such theories.

Probably the truth lies in a mean of all these statements. I think it probable that the birds know the loss of their feathers renders them to a certain extent helpless and more exposed to the attacks of their natural enemies, and they therefore leave the more open swamps and hide in the densest and most tangled thickets. It is certain that they scatter, for at this season single birds are found in the most unusual and unexpected places.

Years ago when shooting in Dutchess county, N. Y., I knew one or two swamps, which we called molting swamps, where in August we were sure to find a limited number of birds. These swamps were overgrown with rank marsh grass and were full of patches of wild rose and sweetbrier. If we killed the birds which we found there, we were sure in a week or ten days to find their places filled by about the same number.—Outing.

MILITARY DISPLAY.

There is no better place to mark the increasing love of military display and maneuvers than the lobby of a large hotel. The colored help in particular are great soldiers. In one of the Broadway hotels uptown the colored hallmen are changed at noon. Things were quiet in the lobby at that hotel today, for the clerks and bookkeepers were deep in their books, and the loungers were all sitting peacefully on the sofas when the steady tramp, tramp of what sounded like a regiment of infantry broke the stillness.

The regiment consisted of six colored hallmen in blue and brass, with an especially resplendent mulatto in a more gorgeous uniform walking at the head of the procession, says the New York correspondent of the Pittsburg Gazette. He lined his six men in front of a bench before the desk, looked them over sharply to see that they were "eyes front" and hissed "Attention!" Then as he clapped his hands once the six men hinged their legs simultaneously and drooped into their seats like a row of wooden soldiers.

The mulatto wiped his brow with a highly perfumed handkerchief, glanced at the head clerk for approval and as the first man responded with a jerk to the cry of "Front!" went to the main doorway to look at the sunlight of Broadway with the air of a successful major general. The whole performance was excruciatingly funny, but I am sure that mulatto would have committed assault and battery on any one who dared to laugh.

STARTLING EVIDENCE.

MASON WAS SEEN IN WAVERLY.

Police Investigation Reveals Fact That Watch of Murdered Agnes McPhee Was Pawned at the Same Shop.

Boston, Nov. 7.—Yesterday's developments in the case of Alan G. Mason, who is under arrest charged with the murder of Miss Clara Morton, a laundress at the McLean asylum in Waverly, last Saturday night, have been of a startling nature. It was announced first that the watch of the victim had been found in a Cambridge street pawn shop, where it had been pawned for $4 by a young colored man, and this discovery at once led to a general search of the city for this man by the entire police force, but without avail. But later developments were far more sensational. When the pawn broker's memory had been jogged a little and he had had time to think over the matter, he remembered that the watch had been brought to his office on last Saturday night between the hours of 11 and 11:30 by a white man and offered in pawn. Owing to the fact that it was after business hours he refused to receive it and after expressing disappointment the man departed, taking the watch with him.

On Monday morning the same watch was brought in by a colored man, about 21 years of age, of whom the pawn broker bought it for $4. A burly colored man, evidently a companion of the other, had been waiting outside the shop while the trade was being made and as soon as it was completed he entered and took the money, which the proprietor had passed over. Both men then departed.

Continuing their investigations, the officers made another startling discovery, which will have an important bearing on the case, to the effect that the watch of Miss Agnes McPhee, of Somerville, another "Jack the Slugger" victim, had been pawned at the same Cambridge street shop on Oct. 3, the day after her murder, by a white man, whose description tallied exactly with that of the man who brought the Morton watch to the pawn broker last Saturday night.

The descriptions of these men is said by the police to agree to a striking extent with that of the suspect Mason, and the pawn broker will be given a chance today to identify him, if possible, as his visitor.

The unexpected developments yesterday have been most unfavorable to the prisoner, although his friends still claim that he can fully establish an alibi. Search for the mysterious colored man is being carried on as vigorously as ever and all sections of the city were being closely watched by the police last night.

Two days ago the state police arrested A. G. Mason, the wealthy business man and club member of Boston, on suspicion of having killed Miss Morton. After a day's investigation the authorities were convinced that Mason could establish an alibi, and they announced that he would be released, but during the succeeding night witnesses were found who positively identified Mason as one whom they had seen in Waverly, where the murder was committed on Saturday night.

On the strength of the evidence Wednesday a warrant charging Mason with murder was issued and he was held without bail until Tuesday.

WITNESS CREATES SENSATION.

Testifies That Molineux Was Not the One Who Sent Poison Package.

New York, Nov. 7.—The greatest sensation in the second trial of Roland B. Molineux, charged with the murder of Mrs. Adams, came late yesterday, when Mrs Hannah Stephenson, the wife of a Broklyn policeman, was called to the stand by the defense and testified positively that Molineux was not the man who mailed the now famous poison package at the general postoffice on the evening of Dec. 23, 1898. Then the witness partially indentified Harry Cornish, who was asked to stand up in court, as the man whom she saw standing in front of her in the line at the postoffice and holding in his hand a package addressed to "Mr. Harry Cornish, Knickerbocker."

Newspaper Man Found Dead.

San Francisco, Nov. 7.—Charles O. Zeigenfuss, a well-known newspaper man, was found dead yesterday in his room in a downtown hotel. An open gas jet, which, it is believed, was left open intentionally, disclosed the manner of his death. Zeigenfuss had worked in various capacities on the principal newspapers of this country from New York to San Francisco, and his field of labor carried him also to Manila, where he edited a paper. A few years ago he managed the editorial department of a Honolulu daily.

AMICABLE AGREEMENT.

Satisfactory Solution Arrived at by Heirs of Millionaire Merchant.

New York, Nov. 7.—Notice of an agreement between the "half blood" and "full blood" heirs of George F. Gilman, the millionaire merchant, who died in his mansion, Black Rock, Bridgeport, Conn., leaving an estate over which was started a legal controversy that threatened to be long continued, was filed yesterday in the supreme court of Brooklyn. Under the new agreement the business formerly conducted by Mr. Gilman is to pass into the hands of a corporation, to be organized in New Jersey, with a capital of $2,100,000, $1,250,000 of which is to be issued to the administrators of the estate. They, in turn, are to divide the amount into fifths, four-fifths to be distributed among the "full blood" relatives and one-fifth, or $250,000, among the "half blood" relatives.

Ohio Teachers' Gathering.

Indianapolis, Nov. 7.—Indianapolis is thronged by Ohio pedagogues, who began arriving in the city yesterday, to attend the Central Teachers' association convention, which will convene here today. At noon yesterday a special train carrying 150 teachers from the Springfield, O., public schools arrived, and last evening 400 more came from Columbus and Central Ohio cities. All trains from Ohio during the night were crowded. The program for the association's meeting this evening includes an address, "School Spirit," by William Werthner, president Central Ohio Teachers' association; an address, "Ethics of the Teaching Profession," by William H. Maxwell, superintendent of the New York city schools.

Will Utilize Water of Glacier.

Boston, Nov. 7.—Engineers are being sent from this city to Tacoma and Seattle, to begin work on a project which has for its chief aim the harnessing of the waters of the Payallup glacier, on Mount Tacoma, state of Washington, for commercial purposes. It is claimed that if successful this will be the first instance where glacial waters have been used directly to provide power. Stone & Webster, of Boston, who have installed a great many street railways in all parts of the country, are undertaking the work in order to provide the cities of Tacoma and Seattle with electric light and power. The plan is to construct from the glacier a flume 14 miles long, through which a head of water will flow sufficient to generate 50,000 horse power. The water in running through the flume will drop 600 feet, and, through penstocks, will be diverted into turbines connected with electric generators. A three-phase alternating current will be transmitted at high voltage to Tacoma and Seattle.

COAL MINERS WERE EVICTED.

J. B. Markle & Co. Evict Six Families—Woman Moved From House on Bed.

Hazleton, Pa., Nov. 7.—Six families occupying company houses at Jeddo, who received notice recently from G. B. Markle & Co. to vacate within six days, but who failed to do so, were evicted yesterday by Sheriff Albert Jacobs, of Luzerne county. The six days expired on Monday.

The sheriff was assisted by special officers of the company, who placed the effects of the evicted families on the street. Mrs. Brannigan, a blind woman, who lived with her daughter, Mrs. Henry Coll, was moved from one of the houses on her bed. Rain set in last evening and to save the furniture of the evicted people neighbors took in the goods and provided shelter for the homeless men, women and children.

Murder Caused by Cattle War.

Guthrie, Okla., Nov. 7.—As a result, it is alleged, of the prolonged war between the cattlemen and homesteaders in Western Oklahoma, G. W. Lane, a leading figure among the homesteaders, was called to his door yesterday and shot dead, near Shirley, Dewey county. A prominent cattleman, named John Joy, has been arrested, charged with complicity in the crime. Mrs. Lane, the murdered man's wife, was also brought in by the officers.

CATTLE RATES LOW.

A. C. Bird Makes the Assertion Before Interstate Commercial Commission.

CAME AS A CREAT SUPRISE.

Says Cattle Do Not Pay Their Just Proportion of Transportation Charges—Deems Low Rate In Raw Material Wise Policy.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—The interstate commerce commission began a two-days' session in this city yesterday, with Chairman M. A. Knapp, J. D. Yeomans, C. A. Prouty and J. W. Fifer present. The morning session was devoted to the case of the Proprietary Medicine Association of America against the New York Central Railway company, in which the "medicine men" claim a discrimination is made against them by the railroads, and by the New York Central railroad in particular.

Declares Rates Unreasonable.

A. C. Bird, third vice president of the St. Paul road took a bold stand when the commission began an investigation into the rates on cattle and packing house products between Chicago and the Missouri river.

Mr. Bird was the first witness of importance before the commission, and when asked if he desired to defend the reasonableness of the St. Paul's live stock rates he declared that they were not reasonable.

"Not only are our live stock rates unreasonable," he declared, "but all our freight rates today are unreasonable, because they are entirely too low to compensate for the service rendered. All freight rates should be raised and I am surprised that the railroads don't make a combined effort and raise them."

Members of Commission Surprised.

This statement surprised the members of the commission, and they immediately started to ascertain Mr. Bird's reasons. The witness stated that it was unfair to take the past two years as a basis from which to judge the fairness of rates and the fairness of the remuneration derived by the railroads, for during that period railroading had not, as a general proposition, been remunerative. With respect to cattle rates, Mr. Bird asserted that cattle did not now, and had not for years, paid their just proportion of transportation charges, and that further to reduce the rates on cattle would be to make a bad situation worse. When asked what governed the scientific making of rates, he replied that he had not seen the time in 25 years when rates could be made on a scientific basis. On the contrary, rates are always based upon competition, comparison and compromise.

The present inquiry is at the instigation of the Chicago live stock exchange, which claims that the lower rate on packing house products that exists between Chicago and Missouri river points, relative to the rate on cattle, operates against the Chicago market. Under prevailing rates, packers can better afford to convert the live stock into packing house products at Missouri river points than at Chicago. While on the stand Mr. Bird explained that he had always deemed it a wise policy to make as low a rate on the raw material as on the finished products, but that when a rate on the latter, which was not remunerative, was forced upon the roads, he did not believe in also forcing down the live stock rates to maintain the relations.

Receivers For Boston Firm.

Boston, Nov. 7.—Receivers were appointed by Judge Colt in the United States court yesterday for the variously named concerns which centered around Frederick E. Betts and John M. Fisher, and which, it is claimed, were used to carry on a stock brokerage business to defraud.

Toledo, O., Nov. 7.—President Norton, of the Clover Leaf, yesterday afternoon, when shown the Associated Press dispatch from Montreal, which stated that the Detroit and Toledo Shore line has been acquired jointly by the Grand Trunk and Clover Leaf, denied positively that the Clover Leaf had any connection with the deal.

Atlanta Gets Convention.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 7.—The executive committee of the Baptist Young People's Union of America, in session here yesterday, decided to hold the next annual convention of the society in Atlanta, in the second week of July, 1903. The convention will last four days.

THE WOODCOCK.

Where Does It Hide During the Molting Season?

It is during the months of August and September that the mystery of the woodcock's life begins. This is the molting season, when the bird changes its plumage before beginning its journey southward. At this time it leaves the swamps. Where does it go? That is a question which has never yet received a satisfactory answer, although each sportsman and naturalist has his own opinion, and many fine spun theories have been advanced. Some say that the birds move toward the north, some that they seek the mountain tops, coming into the swamps to feed only after nightfall; some that they seek the cornfields, and there have been many other such theories.

Probably the truth lies in a mean of all these statements. I think it probable that the birds know the loss of their feathers renders them to a certain extent helpless and more exposed to the attacks of their natural enemies, and they therefore leave the more open swamps and hide in the densest and most tangled thickets. It is certain that they scatter, for at this season single birds are found in the most unusual and unexpected places.

Years ago when shooting in Dutchess county, N. Y., I knew one or two swamps, which we called molting swamps, where in August we were sure to find a limited number of birds. These swamps were overgrown with rank marsh grass and were full of patches of wild rose and sweetbrier. If we killed the birds which we found there, we were sure in a week or ten days to find their places filled by about the same number.—Outing.

MILITARY DISPLAY.

There is no better place to mark the increasing love of military display and maneuvers than the lobby of a large hotel. The colored help in particular are great soldiers. In one of the Broadway hotels uptown the colored hallmen are changed at noon. Things were quiet in the lobby at that hotel today, for the clerks and bookkeepers were deep in their books, and the loungers were all sitting peacefully on the sofas when the steady tramp, tramp of what sounded like a regiment of infantry broke the stillness.

The regiment consisted of six colored hallmen in blue and brass, with an especially resplendent mulatto in a more gorgeous uniform walking at the head of the procession, says the New York correspondent of the Pittsburg Gazette. He lined his six men in front of a bench before the desk, looked them over sharply to see that they were "eyes front" and hissed "Attention!" Then as he clapped his hands once the six men hinged their legs simultaneously and drooped into their seats like a row of wooden soldiers.

The mulatto wiped his brow with a highly perfumed handkerchief, glanced at the head clerk for approval and as the first man responded with a jerk to the cry of "Front!" went to the main doorway to look at the sunlight of Broadway with the air of a successful major general. The whole performance was excruciatingly funny, but I am sure that mulatto would have committed assault and battery on any one who dared to laugh.

STARTLING EVIDENCE.

MASON WAS SEEN IN WAVERLY.

Boston, Nov. 7.—Yesterday's developments in the case of Alan G. Mason, who is under arrest charged with the murder of Miss Clara Morton, a laundress at the McLean asylum in Waverly, last Saturday night, have been of a startling nature. It was announced first that the watch of the victim had been found in a Cambridge street pawn shop, where it had been pawned for $4 by a young colored man, and this discovery at once led to a general search of the city for this man by the entire police force, but without avail. But later developments were far more sensational. When the pawn broker's memory had been jogged a little and he had had time to think over the matter, he remembered that the watch had been brought to his office on last Saturday night between the hours of 11 and 11:30 by a white man and offered in pawn. Owing to the fact that it was after business hours he refused to receive it and after expressing disappointment the man departed, taking the watch with him.

On Monday morning the same watch was brought in by a colored man, about 21 years of age, of whom the pawn broker bought it for $4. A burly colored man, evidently a companion of the other, had been waiting outside the shop while the trade was being made and as soon as it was completed he entered and took the money, which the proprietor had passed over. Both men then departed.

Continuing their investigations, the officers made another startling discovery, which will have an important bearing on the case, to the effect that the watch of Miss Agnes McPhee, of Somerville, another "Jack the Slugger" victim, had been pawned at the same Cambridge street shop on Oct. 3, the day after her murder, by a white man, whose description tallied exactly with that of the man who brought the Morton watch to the pawn broker last Saturday night.

The descriptions of these men is said by the police to agree to a striking extent with that of the suspect Mason, and the pawn broker will be given a chance today to identify him, if possible, as his visitor.

The unexpected developments yesterday have been most unfavorable to the prisoner, although his friends still claim that he can fully establish an alibi. Search for the mysterious colored man is being carried on as vigorously as ever and all sections of the city were being closely watched by the police last night.

Two days ago the state police arrested A. G. Mason, the wealthy business man and club member of Boston, on suspicion of having killed Miss Morton. After a day's investigation the authorities were convinced that Mason could establish an alibi, and they announced that he would be released, but during the succeeding night witnesses were found who positively identified Mason as one whom they had seen in Waverly, where the murder was committed on Saturday night.

On the strength of the evidence Wednesday a warrant charging Mason with murder was issued and he was held without bail until Tuesday.

WITNESS CREATES SENSATION.

Testifies That Molineux Was Not the One Who Sent Poison Package.

New York, Nov. 7.—The greatest sensation in the second trial of Roland B. Molineux, charged with the murder of Mrs. Adams, came late yesterday, when Mrs Hannah Stephenson, the wife of a Broklyn policeman, was called to the stand by the defense and testified positively that Molineux was not the man who mailed the now famous poison package at the general postoffice on the evening of Dec. 23, 1898. Then the witness partially indentified Harry Cornish, who was asked to stand up in court, as the man whom she saw standing in front of her in the line at the postoffice and holding in his hand a package addressed to "Mr. Harry Cornish, Knickerbocker."

Newspaper Man Found Dead.

San Francisco, Nov. 7.—Charles O. Zeigenfuss, a well-known newspaper man, was found dead yesterday in his room in a downtown hotel. An open gas jet, which, it is believed, was left open intentionally, disclosed the manner of his death. Zeigenfuss had worked in various capacities on the principal newspapers of this country from New York to San Francisco, and his field of labor carried him also to Manila, where he edited a paper. A few years ago he managed the editorial department of a Honolulu daily.

AMICABLE AGREEMENT.

New York, Nov. 7.—Notice of an agreement between the "half blood" and "full blood" heirs of George F. Gilman, the millionaire merchant, who died in his mansion, Black Rock, Bridgeport, Conn., leaving an estate over which was started a legal controversy that threatened to be long continued, was filed yesterday in the supreme court of Brooklyn. Under the new agreement the business formerly conducted by Mr. Gilman is to pass into the hands of a corporation, to be organized in New Jersey, with a capital of $2,100,000, $1,250,000 of which is to be issued to the administrators of the estate. They, in turn, are to divide the amount into fifths, four-fifths to be distributed among the "full blood" relatives and one-fifth, or $250,000, among the "half blood" relatives.

Ohio Teachers' Gathering.

Indianapolis, Nov. 7.—Indianapolis is thronged by Ohio pedagogues, who began arriving in the city yesterday, to attend the Central Teachers' association convention, which will convene here today. At noon yesterday a special train carrying 150 teachers from the Springfield, O., public schools arrived, and last evening 400 more came from Columbus and Central Ohio cities. All trains from Ohio during the night were crowded. The program for the association's meeting this evening includes an address, "School Spirit," by William Werthner, president Central Ohio Teachers' association; an address, "Ethics of the Teaching Profession," by William H. Maxwell, superintendent of the New York city schools.

Will Utilize Water of Glacier.

Boston, Nov. 7.—Engineers are being sent from this city to Tacoma and Seattle, to begin work on a project which has for its chief aim the harnessing of the waters of the Payallup glacier, on Mount Tacoma, state of Washington, for commercial purposes. It is claimed that if successful this will be the first instance where glacial waters have been used directly to provide power. Stone & Webster, of Boston, who have installed a great many street railways in all parts of the country, are undertaking the work in order to provide the cities of Tacoma and Seattle with electric light and power. The plan is to construct from the glacier a flume 14 miles long, through which a head of water will flow sufficient to generate 50,000 horse power. The water in running through the flume will drop 600 feet, and, through penstocks, will be diverted into turbines connected with electric generators. A three-phase alternating current will be transmitted at high voltage to Tacoma and Seattle.

COAL MINERS WERE EVICTED.

J. B. Markle & Co. Evict Six Families—Woman Moved From House on Bed.

Hazleton, Pa., Nov. 7.—Six families occupying company houses at Jeddo, who received notice recently from G. B. Markle & Co. to vacate within six days, but who failed to do so, were evicted yesterday by Sheriff Albert Jacobs, of Luzerne county. The six days expired on Monday.

The sheriff was assisted by special officers of the company, who placed the effects of the evicted families on the street. Mrs. Brannigan, a blind woman, who lived with her daughter, Mrs. Henry Coll, was moved from one of the houses on her bed. Rain set in last evening and to save the furniture of the evicted people neighbors took in the goods and provided shelter for the homeless men, women and children.

Murder Caused by Cattle War.

Guthrie, Okla., Nov. 7.—As a result, it is alleged, of the prolonged war between the cattlemen and homesteaders in Western Oklahoma, G. W. Lane, a leading figure among the homesteaders, was called to his door yesterday and shot dead, near Shirley, Dewey county. A prominent cattleman, named John Joy, has been arrested, charged with complicity in the crime. Mrs. Lane, the murdered man's wife, was also brought in by the officers.

Miss Lizzie Campbell, a Well Known and Highly Respected Woman, Drowns Herself in the Ohio.

Miss Lizzie Campbell, aged 54 years, committed suicide this morning by jumping into the Ohio river at Wellsville. Her body was found shortly before 8 o'clock by George and Will Ingram, of Congo, who come over to Wellsville every morning in a skiff and attend school. Undertaker R. M. Haugh was notified at once and removed the body to his establishment.

Miss Campbell was a seamstress and had her rooms over Catlett's furniture store, on Main street, where she lived alone. She came to Wellsville in 1872, from Salineville. She was at that time employed by David Mannist and John Martin as vest maker. She was later employed by D. F. Steiner, and worked for him for several years.

Miss Campbell leaves two brothers, one at Monroeville, and the other at Minerva. She also leaves two nieces, Miss Anna Campbell, who resides in Wellsville, and her sister, Miss Margaret Campbell, of Monroeville.

When Miss Campbell's body was examined by Dr. Hutcheson, he stated that it had not been in river more than two or three hours. Therefore she must have committed suicide at about 6 o'clock.

She had at several times recently showed signs of being demented, and is said not to have been in her right mind for the past two years. One year ago a person at East Liverpool owed her considerable money which she was unable to collect. This is said to have prayed upon her mind greatly.

It is said that several months ago she left her rooms with the intention of committing suicide, but before she reached the river thought better of it.

Miss Campbell was a very prominent member of the First Presbyterian church, and her reputation is without a stain.

Coroner Straughn, of Lisbon, has been sent for. He will arrive in the city some time this afternoon and will hold an inquest over the remains. No funeral arrangements have been made.

TWO MORE WIVES ARE AFTER DIVORCE

One Says Husband's Bru'ality Began the Next Day After the Wedding.

Mrs. Maude Howell, of East Palestine, Left Her Husband in March, Fearing Bodily Harm—An Arrest Under Peace Act.

Lisbon, November 7.—(Special.)—Mrs. Barbara La Rue Frederick, of Washingtonville, filed a petition yesterday for a divorce from Joseph C. Frederick. They were married at Washingtonville 13 years ago and have two children. Plaintiff alleges unfaithfulness, in consequence of which she has not been living with him, naming as co-respondent Mary Groner, of Leetonia. The husband is a railroad conductor in the employ of the Pennsylvania company. She asks for a share of his property with the divorce.

Mrs. Maude Howell, of East Palestine, brought suit for divorce from William Howell, to whom she was married at East Palestine January 19, 1902. Extreme cruelty and gross neglect are charged, the petition setting up that the husband commenced to show his brutality the next day after the marriage, which continued until she went home last March. She says he followed her and was only restrained from doing her bodily harm by the interference of her friends and his subsequent arrest under the peace act. The defendant is alleged to be earning good wages in an East Palestine pottery. On these grounds the plaintiff asks the restoration of her maiden name of Maude Picket and reasonable alimony.

A CHOIR ROOM AT ST. STEPHEN'S

A PART OF THE BASEMENT

To Be Fitted Up for the Purpose—The Change Will Make the Church One of the Completest in the Ohio Diocese.

For several months Rev. Edwin Weary, rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal church, and the vested choir have had under consideration a plan by which the choir might have more agreeable quarters for the weekly practice, and last evening a conclusion was reached. As a result the improvement to the church under contemplation will be constructed.

It was decided to convert a portion of the basement, which is 40x20 feet and situated immediately to the rear of the chapel room, into the desired room. The cost of carrying out the plans will be no small amount and preparations have been made to meet all debts incurred. During December an organ recital will be given, led by musicians of note, and shortly after the holiday the choir will give a sacred cantata.

The new room when completed will not only serve as a practice room for the choir, but it will be open for the members of the church as a recreation room. It will be a great convenience to the choir. The members have heretofore been robing and vesting in the auditorium and as a result were compelled to go to the church unprotected. When this room is finished they can prepare for services and march upstairs from the basement without exposure to the cold. Many features new to the choir will be provided in the room. Each member will have private quarters and everything will be suited to the individual choice.

Just when the work will be commenced upon the room has not yet been decided, but it is probable that nothing more than the giving of the contracts will be done before the first of the year. The excavation for the building will require some time, the dirt being in rather close quarters and very hard to get at.

When the room is finished St. Stephen's church will be the most complete of any in the Ohio diocese. It will consist of a church proper, large enuogh to accommodate 600 people, chapel and choir room in the basement, a lavatory, organ room, parish building, Sunday school room, ladies' parlor and the rector's sanctum. The church and all of its accessories are a credit to the city and the members of the church have truly a just reason for feeling proud of their efforts. To Rev. Mr. Weary is due much of the credit. Never in East Liverpool's history did a man ever work more zealously for his church and congregation than he. To him the results are most pleasing and he has made a record which he should feel happy over.

Robert Hopkins, colored, charged with cutting Thomas Burgess with intent to maim, was arraigned before Mayor Davidson this morning for his preliminary hearing. He was represented by Attorney John Wallace. The case was thoroughly examined by both the state and the defense, at the conclusion of which court was adjourned until 2:30 p. m. when Mayor Davidson rendered a verdict clearing Hopkins from the charge. The mayor said:

"I find, after carefully reviewing the testimony, that there has been no evidence produced that incriminates the accused. The law informs me that one man's word is as good as another's, and as Burgess has failed to name a witness who was present I cannot take his word any quicker than Hopkins'. If anything, the evidence shows that Hopkins was not the aggressor. I believe that Hopkins has tried to act right, and simply because he has served a term in the penitentiary is no reason for me to stand against him."

Among the witnesses who testified were Thomas Burgess, the complainant; Frank Rigot, proprietor of the saloon in which the fight originated, and ended; Mrs. Rigot, wife of the proprietor; Dr. Hobbs, one of the physcians who dressed the wounded man's injuries; Billy Timmons, for whom the defendant worked; Mrs. Hopkins, the defendant's wife, and Jane Barger.

Burgess, without the least variation gave his statement as in the News Review last evening. He went to Rigot's saloon form the opera house. In the back room he saw Hopkins and heard him order three drinks. Hopkins gave Mrs. Rigot a quarter and when she went to get his change Hopkins called her a vulgar name. Burgess resented it and a fight followed.

Burgess, upon cross examination, stoutly denied that there was anyone in the room but himself and the negro.

Frank Rigot said: "I did not see

HALF A MILLION WILL BE SPENT

Opening Coal Mines and Building a Railroad Near Wellsburg.

LARGE TRACT PURCHASED

Which a Pittsburg Company Will Proceed to Develop—The New Railroad Will Run from the Panhandle to Bethany.

Pittsburg, November 7.—The Wellsburg Coal company has just been organized here and will open up several large coal mines on Buffalo creek on the Panhandle railroad about two miles from Wellsburg, W. Va.

The company has purchased 1,200 acres of coal on Buffalo creek and 135 acres of surface, and besides mining coal by electricity will erect 100 dwellings for its miners. Two mines are now being opened and are expected to be in operation by the first of the year. They will each have a capacity of 1,000 tons per day. The cost of the coal, mine equipment, etc., will total $250,000. The coal is the Pittsburg vein, 6½ feet thick, and will be mined by drift.

The officers and directors of the coal company are: Joseph A. West, president; W. Glyde Wilkins, vice president; L. F. Darrall, secretary, and C. C. Law, treasurer, the latter being also treasurer of the Mercantile Trust company of this city. Other directors are R. C. McLean and Drs. W. S. Huselton.

These men also constitute the Wellsburg & State Line Railroad company, recently chartered in West Virginia. The company will operate in conjunction with the coal company and will construct a railroad 7½ miles long, extending from Wellsburg to Bethany. Surveys of the road have been made and most of the right of way secured, the aim being to have the road completed as soon as possible. The construction of the railroad will open up about 30,000 acres of coal now unavailable, and the road will connect with the Panhandle at Wellsburg.

The two companies have opened up offices both in this city and Wellsburg. All stock in both corporations has been subscribed. The railroad and coal land developments will require an aggregate outlay of over $500,000.

SMALLPOX AT LISBON

The Scare Is Abating And the Sessions of the Schools Are Resumed.

Lisbon, November 7.—(Special.)—The smallpox scare in Lisbon is abating and the people are beginning to take a saner view of the situation. The schools resumed their sessions this morning and will continue, the board of health having decided that it would be much safer to have the pupils in school with the vaccination order enforced than to have them upon the streets.

Quarantine measures are being strictly enforced, and it is confidently believed that the further spread of the disease may be prevented.

HELPLESS AND HUNGRY

Aged Timothy Collins Applies for Aid And Is Sent to the Infirmary.

Oold and helpless, being too infirm to work for a livelihood, Timothy Collins applied to Trustee Albright yesterday for assistance, and in complying with the request the man was sent to the county infirmary.

He told Mr. Albright that for several weeks he had had scarcely anything to eat and that he had slept quite often out in the open air, but mostly in box cars. He is a well known character in the city.

New Panhandle Yards.

The Pennsylvania company has taken leases on a large acreage between Wheeling Junction and New Cumberland on the main line. It will commence at once the construction of a large freight yard at this point extending to Collier's.

Strikers Are Out.

The places of the nine girls, composing three transferring teams, who went out on strike yesterday morning at the Brunt pottery, were filled this morning. None of the other transferers, it is claimed, were getting three cents a dozen for decorating this scheme ware, so the demand for this price by these who struck was refused.

Taken to the Asylum.

THEFT OF $20

Charged Against Aged Thomas Sullivan, Whose Arrest Followed.

With the serious charge of stealing to the amount of $20 charged against him Thomas Sullivan, an aged man, who has been living in this city for several months, but whose home is in Pittsburg, will face the mayor this afternoon. He was arrested last evening at the solicitation of F. Wright by Officer Dawson. Wright appeared at central station and preferred the charge. He said last evening that Sullivan stole a gold coin worth $20 from him.

Sullivan stoutly denies the charge, and when arrested asked that he be searched. The officer did so, but did not find the coin.

THE OFFICIAL VOTE

Lisbon, November 7.—(Special.)—As an illustration of the accurate and systematic methods of the Republican committee in the management of county politics, Chairman McNutt's estimate of the vote on congressman at 1 o'clock, Wednesday morning was: Kennedy, 6,326; Foley, 2,222; Duffy, 2,134. The official figures are Kennedy, 6,325; Foley, 2,225; and Duffy 2,135.

The official vote for secretary of state is: Laylin, 6,856; Bigelow, 2,892.

Wife Would Make No Charge.

Jealous because his wife had been talking with another man a resident of Shantytown, known as Frankhouser, it is said, created a disturbance in that section of the city last night. It is claimed he gave his wife a sound thrashing and threatened to do worse. Officer McDermott was summoned, but found the man sitting quietly reading a newspaper and the wife unwilling to prefer a charge.

RIGHT TO OFFICE

Lisbon, November 7.—(Special.)—The case of the state of Ohio on rel of George Figley against George W. Conser was argued in circuit yesterday afternoon. It is an action in quo warranto to inquire into the right of George W. Conser, Republican, to hold the office of trustee in Hanover township. In support of the action it is set up that at the last township election George Figley, Democrat, was lawfully elected to the office of trustee, but the judges of election made an error of judgment in counting the ballots, which gave the election to Conser by a majority of one.

It is alleged that four or five of Figley's votes were thrown out, when the intent of the voter was plain. The court is asked to count these votes for Figley, and issue an order of ouster against Conser.

OVER STRIP OF LAND

A Dispute Between East Liverpool Property Owners Which Circuit Court Is to Decide.

Lisbon, November 7.—(Special.)—The case of Karl Barth against Hugh McFall, ex-county commissioner, and William Anderson, all of East Liverpool, taken up on appeal, was heard in circuit court yesterday afternoon. Barth asks the court to convey to him 236 feet of land fronting on the Jethro and camp meeting road, which he claims to be due on a real estate transfer. The defendants are willing to convey only 136 feet.

The land contract between the parties says 236 feet to the line of McBane and Milligan, and the defendants are willing to convey to plaintiff all land to that line, but say it should only be 136 feet, maintaining the person who wrote the agreement made it 100 feet too much, and that because the land contract says 236 feet the plaintiff demands 100 feet beyond the line in question. The court is to decide the point whether the figures of the land contract or the point fixed in the document shall stand. The land is worth $300.

Connolly, Who Escaped From Two Jails in Hancock County, Again a Prisoner.

TAKEN NEAR PITTSBURG

After a Desperate Struggle And Will Be Sent to Wheeling for Safe-Keeping—One of the Country's Worst Pickpockets.

The notorious pickpocket, Thomas Connelly, alias Bill Wilson, was again taken yesterday near Pittsburg after a desperate struggle by Railroad Detective Reeves and Officer Kent. It will be remembered that last June Connelly was caught in the act of stealing from a man by Detective Reeves while boarding an excursion train at Rock Springs park. He was placed in the Chester jail, from which he broke out the next day and was caught by Officers Elliott and Hassey after an exciting chase. He was afterwards taken to New Cumberland for trial and sentenced to jail. Thence he escaped in the morning of the day he was to have been taken to Wheeling, while the guards were eating breakfast.

Nothing more has been heard from him since. Detective Reeves remarked when he escaped the second time that he would hunt that man and take him if it was the last official act of his life.

Ex-Chief of Detectives O'Mara, of Pittsburg, says Connelly is a dangerous criminal and every precaution should be used in handling him. He refused to come to West Virginia yesterday without requisition papers. Papers were promptly made out by Gov. White and sent to Gov. Stone, of Pennsylvania, giving Connelly up to the West Virginia authorities. The prisoner will probably be taken to Wheeling today.

Sheriff C. F. Allison was called to Pittsburg this morning to assist in bringing Connelly to Hancock county, to answer to charges against him here.

WITH THE WORKMEN IN THE CLAY PLANTS

HORRIBLY INJURED.

Miss Pearl McCreary, of Seventeenth street, Beaver Falls, daughter of J. F. McCreary, and well known to East Liverpool pottery workers, met with a shocking accident at the works of the American Axe & Tool company, at Beaver Falls, last Friday, where she is employed. Miss McCreary is employed in the department where the axes are painted, and while at her work was accidentally jostled off a box upon which she was standing by a companion and fell upon the rack of glittering axes, placed in front of her. Involuntarily she threw out her hands to save herself and her hands coming in contact with the keen edge of the axes, were cut in a horrible manner. Her forehead struck one of the axes, but with such light force that only a slight cut was inflicted. Large gashes, however, were cut in the palms of both hands, and she bled profusely. Dr. J. S. Louthan dressed her injuries. It took several stitches to close the gashes.

CROOKSVILLE TO START.

Harry Frischler, the mouldmaker at the Crooksville pottery, was a recent visitor. He stated that they were delayed somewhat in starting by not being able to secure the piping for stillyards and steam fitting. It is now overcoming this as quick as possible, and will be in working order in the clay departments in a few weeks. Mr. Tritt, the manager of the plant, having received sufficient applications to operate the plant, will commence sending out notices to those selected to operate the plant to appear in the very near future. This plant, like many other new plants in course of construction, was delayed by the non-arrival of the material needed. Heavy freight traffic on all lines is the direct cause.

POTTERY MACHINERY.

Rex & Dean, machinists of this city, are very busy on pottery machinery. They have completed the six jiggers ordered by the Dresden Pottery company, of Salineville, and will ship them this month. The greater portion of their work comes from repairing machinery used in the potteries here. Two large sagger presses are being built at the Stevenson foundry, Wellsville, one to be shipped to Salineville, the other to be erected at the Sevres pottery at East Liverpool. One of the machines is in operation at one of the stoneware shops in Akron, and the dies used are the required size of the saggers. It will be several weeks before the machine is completed and ready for use.

MAKING THINGS PLEASANT.

Following the change of the management of the C. C. Thompson to Mr. Goodwin, many changes are being made that will result in a profitable manner to both the firm and the men. One change, that of giving the shop a cheerful aspect, is by order of Mr. Goodwin. The interior of the entire plant is being whitewashed. Previous to this the shop had a very depressing effect upon the workmen, owing to the gloomy appearance. The bisque ware house is being removed to a building more roomy and bright than the one being occupied at present. And as Mr. Goodwin said, "to accomplish good results one must make the task as agreeable as possible."

SEVERELY INJURED.

William Terrance, a batterout at Smith & Phillips,' was severely injured Wednesday while practicing with the Oakland Football team at Columbian park. A low place on the gridiron caused him to fall, severely straining his right ankle. He is the left tackle on the Oakland team, and his injury will severely handicap them. He will be laid up for several days.

ALMOST COMPLETED.

The new kiln being erected at the Edwin M. Knowles pottery, in Chester, is being pushed as rapidly as possible. The walls of the building were finished last week and the kiln was ready finished this week. Of course to line and crown the kiln will require a little more time. Material for that purpose has been placed in position.

RUSHING WORK.

Work on the West End pottery is being rushed to the limit by the contractor, and the new building to the north is taking on a very imposing appearance. Some of the old buildings are being demolished and work on this site will commenced at once.

AMONG THE POTTERS.

Will Davis, of the finishing department at Smith & Phillips', is off this week owing to sickness.

W. H. Smith, the well known presser at Smith & Phillips', has returned to work after a week's illness with stomach trouble.

John Barde, of the mixing room at Smith & Taylor's, has accepted a position as night watchman at the Wallace & Chetwynd plant.

James Prior, of the warehouse at Smith & Phillips', has resigned his position to accept one in the car barn of the East Liverpool Railway company. His companions in the warehouse regret to lose him, but wish him success in his new field.

Interesting Program Carried Out, In cluding an Address By Dr. Pratt.

The Epworth League of the First M E. church last evening held a very interesting business meeting. A program which had been previously arranged was as follows: Song; prayer Mrs. O'Brien; song; report of first vice president; song; report of second vice president; paper, "Why We Ought to Take the League Paper or Epworth Herald?" by C. L. Gray; report of third vice president; recitation, W. G. Morris; duet, Mrs. Haines and Mr. Blount; secretary's report; treasurer's report.

These reports were replete with interesting statistics. Rev. Dr. M. B. Pratt addressed the league. His subject was "Down Among the Magnolias." This talk was witty and eloquent, and described the Christian life of the southern negro. Dr. Pratt made an earnest plea for justice to the African.

St. Clair Township Farmers Reorganize for Protection Against Trespassers.

Interest in the Anti-Hunting league of St. Clair township has revived since the hunters began to spend their time in the woods. St. Clair township has always been a favorite resort for local hunters, and a few years ago the association was formed for the purpose of protecting the owners of farms there from careless men and boys who tear down fences and destroy much property. Outside of the hunting season little trespassing occurs, and consequently the members of the association hold no meetings.

A session was held Wednesday night and the following officers were elected: President, Thomas Huston; secretary, Emmett Hickman. Deputy game wardens were also appointed as follows from the different parts of the township: Eastern, Page Myler and Nody Wilson; central, David Green and Gus Faulk; western, H. L. Rose and A. A. Allison; northern, James Verness and George Guy.

Another new lot of men's nobby suits arrived this week. We want every swell dresser in town to come and see them.

EAST END

FREAK CALF SOLD

Unknown Parties Have Purchased It And It Will Probably Be Placed in a Museum.

The East End is to lose its freak calf, the property of Mrs. Weaver, who lives near the Klondike. The peculiarities of the animal and the numerous attempts to steal it has brought it into a great deal of prominence of late. Several days ago two men called at the Weaver home and after taking a look at the animal bargained for its purchase. They did not reveal their names, but left part of the purchase money, stating they would come for the calf in a few days. It is not known at this time what the future has in store for this queer freak of nature, but it is likely it is to be life in a museum. It was with a great deal of reluctance that Mrs. Weaver consented to part with it in spite of the trouble it has caused. It has been quite a pet and a favorite with all the members of the family.

A News Review reporter called at the Weaver home yesterday and was permitted to see the animal. Its color is a brick red without a spot of white. It is eight months old and will weigh in the neighborhood of 500 pounds. The head shows only a slight indication on the part of nature to provide it with eyes. There is a slight depression where the eyes should be and a slight opening, but instead of containing eye ball it tapers inward to a point. There is not the least indication of a tail. As is the case with human things who are blind its sense of hearing is wonderfully acute.

FEVER AGAIN EPIDEMIC

The scarlet fever epidemic has broken out again in the East End and a number of new cases are reported. A week ago the authorities thought the scourge was over and at that time there were no houses under quarantine. Later a case developed at the home of John McDole, just outside of the corporation line, and there are now a number of others. Mrs. J. T. White's daughter Nellie and Isaac Riley's daughter Ethel are ill with the disease.

In the Klondike there are several cases. The eight-year-old son of John Hughes and Hugh Clark's youngest son Hubert are among those afflicted. All the houses are under quarantine.

Old-Time Spelling Bee.

The last meeting of Eureka Circle, P. H. C., was as usual an interesting one. Several candidates were intiated and it was decided to have an old-time spelling bee for the entertainment at the meeting next Thursday night. The circles from Chester, Wellsville, Calcutta and East Liverpool have been invited to be present. A prize will be given to the contestant who stands up the longest and a booby prize will be provided for the one who goes down first. A pleasant time is expected.

Klondike Folks Will Attend.

Quite a number from the Klondike neighborhood will attend the oyster supper in the Masonic hall at Smith's Ferry next Tuesday evening. The social to be given by the Y. P. S. C. E. of the Smith's Ferry Presbyterian church. Oysters and ice cream and cake will be served and there will be a literary and musical program.

Judgment by Default.

The defendant failed to appear yesterday in the suit of John Farmer vs. W. B. Tompkins for money alleged to be due for cabbage sold him several months ago by the plaintiff and judgment for the full amount, $25.23, was rendered by 'Squire Carman. Attorney J. E. Davis appeared for the plaintiff.

Make It His Headquarters.

Rev. W. I. Powell, of Athens, Tenn., who has been visiting the family of his son, J. W. Powell, on Mulberry street, has concluded to make his headquarters in the East End. He is field agent for Grant university of Athens, and travels over a wide extent of territory.

Building Activity.

It is said there is more building going on now in the East End than at any time during the year. Before cold weather stops the workmen there will be at least 25 new houses ready for occupancy. It is predicted that the same activity will prevail next spring.

Rushing the Work.

Contractor McHenry is pushing the work on the house he is building in the Midway Land company's addition for Rev. D. W. McQuiston. The excavation has been made for the cellar and the stone masons are at work on the foundation.

One Candidate Initiated.

Ohio Valley Council No. 23, American Mechanics, held an interesting and important meeting last evening at their quarters in Larkins & Ferguson's hall. One candidate was inducted into the mysteries of the third degree.

Daniel Donehoo, now the oldest member of the Hancock county (W. Va.) bar, in point of practice, was 75 years of age this week.

The oldest man in West Virginia is Freeman Coulter, of Woodland, Marshall county. He is 102 and has been able to help in cutting corn this fall.

Elmer Campbell, of Holliday's Cove who has been teaching the Penrith school, has resigned to take a situation as mail clerk on the Panhandle rail road. Miss Jessie Smith, of New Cumberland, has taken his place as teacher at Penrith.

Wanted Another Wife.

A traveler in Persia tells the following: "My hunthi walks into the veranda. He is an aged man, wrapped in a long black cloak and wearing a green turban, denoting him a seyd, or a descendant of the prophet. He is very polished today. His beard is dyed the brightest orange with henna, and he tells a string of beads while he waits. We plunge into stories of the Caliphat and dictation written from left to right with a reed pen, and presently the reason of his smartness is told. He has a favor to ask. Would it please me to advance him three months' pay in order to buy a wife? He is old and he is poor, yet he has fallen a victim to the moon face and stag eyes of a damsel of fourteen, but her dowry is large. 'Why do you not support your old wife?' I inquired sternly. 'She is crippled and nearly blind. You do not give her sufficient sustenance, and I send many things to her.' 'She is too old,' he replies, with a shrug. 'She is ugly as an afreet. Added thereto she has no money or children, and of what good is an old woman unless she is rich?'"

What Education Will Do.

A railway company was erecting a line of new poles along a highway. One of the men engaged to fill in the dirt and clear up around the poles was an Irishman, new at the business and new to America. He had not got beyond his first pole, says the Philadelphia Times, but stood pondering how to dispose of the dirt which had filled the space now occupied by the pole.

His sense of the fitness of things must have been strong, for he was averse to piling the loose dirt around the base of the pole, as is the custom. A negro wayfarer stopped for a match, and the Irishman asked his advice.

"If I was a-doin' dat job, I'd jus' dig a hole 'bout where you ah standin' and shovel de dirt into it. Much bligе."

As the negro sauntered away the Irishman scratched his head and murmured:

"Well, it's not to be denied that eddication has been afther-r doin' a gr-r-eat deal for-r th' neygur-r!"

"THE GREAT REPUBLIC," FOUR VOLUMES, HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES, PREMIUM TO THE EVENING NEWS REVIEW.

Herrmann and Kellar.

The late Professor Herrmann, the magician, was possessed not only of great strength in his hands, but of such skill as would enable him to perform apparent feats of strength which would be impossible to a far stronger man.

His greatest feat along this line was to place two packs of cards together and tear them across.

The four sat down together, and Herrmann was at length induced to tear two packs of cards in half.

Then, as the rest glared amazedly at him, he remarked:

"I forgot to mention my name is Kellar."

Both Come In Bottles.

The father was testing his little boy's knowledge of the story of Noah, which he had carefully rehearsed. The boy had been thinking hard, and his answer to the first question showed that he had at least the virtue of originality.

"Now," said papa, "can you tell me how Noah knew that the waters had gone down?"

The boy hesitated a minute, as if seeking for proper words to express himself; then he said:

"Noah knew the waters had gone down because the dove came back bringing him a pickle."

Olives and pickles were synonymous terms in the small boy's mind for things which come in bottles and which he did not like.

A Hint to Mothers of Small Children.

Mrs. Joshua Nutter, of Swiftwater, N. H., says: "When our dealer did not have Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in stock we used another preparation in treating our children, but it did little or no good. We have used this remedy for colds and croup with the highest success, and do not feel safe without it in the house." Chamberlain's Cough Remedy always cures and is pleasant and safe to take. TWELVE PAGES.

During the last fiscal year the United States disposed of public lands which amounted in the aggregate to 19,488,535 acres, or 30,450 square miles. This is just about equal to the area of Indian territory and to that of the state of South Carolina. It exceeds the area of each of nine states and the combined area of several of them. It is greater than the area of any German state, except Prussia, is slightly greater than the area of Scotland, but little less than the area of Ireland, and much in excess of the area of Greece, Switzerland, Denmark or Belgium. But there is still plenty of land to spare. The total vacant land subject to entry comes to about nine hundred million acres, and though this includes three hundred and sixty-eight millions in Alaska and a considerable percentage of valueless territory, there is a large margin to the good. The vast government possessions, added to the tracts wholly or only partially developed under private ownership are an assurance that there is still plenty of room in the United States and no occasion for the present or many succeeding generations to worry over danger of being crowded or of not having land enough on which to raise food for all the people.

Some of the southern Democratic papers keep on saying that there is no use for the Republicans to try to capture any of the southern states in 1904. Possibly they are right, but even if they are, the fact will have no effect on national politics. The Republicans have shown more than once that they can win presidents and congresses without the aid of the south. They will probably be able to do this in 1904 and 1908. What will it avail the south to keep outside the Republican party if it at the same time keeps out of connection with the forces, moral, social and political, which are running this country and making it the biggest, greatest and most prosperous nation on the globe?

There is little doubt in the minds of engineers who have followed recent experiments that it is only a question of a short time when oil will take the place of coal as a fuel on all the larger passenger boats of the great lakes. Thus a new market will be opened for petroleum, one of the country's most important natural products.

Not only is the stock of gold in the United States treasury greater than ever, but the per capita circulation as well. Those who were once anxious to have the mints opened to the coinage of cheap dollars in unlimited quantities ought to be thankful that they did not succeed.

Tammany blames Hill for its defeat in New York, and a large section of the Ohio Democracy blames Tom Johnson for the poor showing the party made in this state. The spirit of fraternity is not growing conspicuously among the unterrified.

The late election gave no impetus to any Democratic presidential boom. Hill, Pattison, Johnson and Gorman all fell by the wayside. It may yet be necessary to nominate Bryan for a third defeat.

President Roosevelt, the busiest man in America, now has a business office apart from the historic White House. The innovation has been slow in coming, but it has long been sorely needed.

New York has had an unbroken succession of Republican governors since 1894. It is quite time to consider the Empire state out of the doubtful column.

Ohio Democrats might as well cease quarreling over the resposibility for their defeat. Republicans are proud and glad to assume that responsibility.

The annual report of Lieutenant General Miles reiterates what he said in 1896, that "the personnel of the army was never in better condition."

Hon. John Dalzell, of Pittsburg, is being boomed as Speaker Henderson's successor. This is satisfactory, but a good Ohio man would be more so.

A Chicago paper announces that one of its candidates swept that city clean Hercules never attempted or accomplished a greater task.

Porto Rico went Republican, Guam and the Philippines have not yet been heard from.

AN UNQUIET SPIRIT.

The Mysterious Light That For Years Haunted Cape Noir.

For many years on Cape Noir, the western point of Maria, a strange light was seen, dancing and moving about in the most unaccountable manner. At one moment it would rise like a column of fire into the air, and at another time it would fall like a meteor. Then it would seem to leap over the point and drop into the sea, afterward appearing again in the same spot on the hillside. The habitants tell this story about it:

In the time of the war for the possession of Canada a French vessel, pursued by an English warship, steered its course into the bay at this point for refuge. A boat was lowered from the side of the richly laden merchantman, and in this thirteen men swiftly rowed to the shore. Their object was to secrete a chest of gold which they had brought with them. On reaching the point they drew lots to see which of the men should remain to guard the treasure. The one to whom the lot fell was forced to swear a solemn oath, by land and sea, by night and day, by the ruler of the nether world, that he would be faithful to the trust through life, unless relieved by his returning comrades, and even after death would haunt the spot should no one come to take his place, says a writer in the Era.

To secure the fulfillment of this vow his wicked associates then and there put him to death and buried him with the treasure. The ghostly light was supposed to be the spirit of the murdered man, and many persons who, tempted by the hope of recovering the treasure, ventured into the haunted spot fled in terror and told blood curdling stories of the horrible phantoms and frightful sights which they had witnessed. The light is seen no longer. Perhaps some adventurer bolder than the rest succeeded in discovering the gold, carried it off and thus gave rest to the unquiet spirit.

Settled the Wing Question.

Two little Philadelphia girls the other day strayed into the realms of theology and anthropology, though of course they didn't know it.

"Say," said the first, "we's Dod's 'ittle angels, isn't we?"

"Yeth," lisped the second, "but we hasn't dot any feathers on uth, like the 'ittle angels my mamma showed me in a picture book."

"Well, we had once, don't oo know," returned the first, "but Dod pulled 'em all out before him sent us down here."

"What for did him do that?"

"So that we couldn't fly up in the trees when our mammas want us to come in and be washed!"

The Cannibal.

"And what," asked the cannibal chieftain in his kindest tones—"what was your business before you were captured by my men?"

"An editor?"

"No; merely a subeditor."

"Cheer up, young man! Shortly after my chef has finished his perusal of the cookbook you will be editor in chief."

Hopkins in the saloon. I went into the rear room after the fight was over and while there Hopkins made a motion as ir to strike me with a knife."

Mrs. Rigot hesitated at times in offering her testimony, and showed plainly that she did not wish to bring others into the case. She said:" Hopkins came into the saloon. I know him well and always joke with him. He appeared perfectly sober. He asked for a drink. I did not hear him use any vulgar language. Burgess was in the saloon when Hopkins entered. There were two in the room when Hopkins came. One of them was John Wise, who, after the fight, went after a physician."

Dr. Hobbs said: "When I was summoned by telephone I was not told that there was a man hurt. They simply said that some one was sick. Had I known that a man had been cut I wounld not have gone. I don't like to go over to Lisbon before the grand jury, and keep as far as possible out of all such cases. When I got to the saloon, together with Dr. Norris, I dressed the wounds. They were in no way dangerous. Mrs. Rigot and all of them in the saloon asked me not to say anything about the affair."

Hopkins in defense said: "I went to the show at the opera house and when it was out I went over to Rigot's saloon. I did not go in after a drink. I had some silver dollars which I wanted to get paper for and went into the saloon for no other purpose. Mrs. Rigot said: 'Hello! Schwartz.' That is the name she always calls me. She always treats me nicely, and I joked with her a few minutes. She got the paper money for me and then asked me to set them up. I finally told her that I would take a drink and ordered one. She brought it to me and I set it on the table. I did not drink a drop of it. I have drank nothing since I came home from the penitentiary. I have tried to do what is right.

"After Mrs. Rigot set my drink down she asked me to buy drinks for all of the people in house. There were six in there that I saw, including Mrs. Rigot and her daughter, Burgess, a girl and a white man and a woman. I tried to excuse myself from buying and Burgess said: 'Make him buy, Mrs. Rigot, or throw him out.' When Mrs. Rigot went after my change out of the quarter for my drink, Burgess jumped up and struck me with a chair. I started to back out of the room and in defense used my knife. I cut him and was still cutting him when I backed out into the alley. I then went straight home."

William Timmons and Mrs. Hopkins testified to the manner in which Hopkins has acted sinse his return home and both said that they thought he had not touched a drop.

TO CURE CORNS.

When the feet are pressed into tight fitting shoes—high heels make the pressure greater—by adding friction we have a needlelike point formed in the skin, and the greater the pressure the deeper the point will grow. The best preventive remedy known is really to go barefooted, but since this is not considered ethical in civilized life I will give a few simple remedies which may be of some value for the afflicted:

First.—Place on the corn a piece of cold, moist linen folded several times, wrap it up in dry linen, then go to bed. With this treatment the hard epidermis swells up, and after six or eight hours the outer covering of the corn can be removed with a dull knife. When this treatment has been followed for three or four days, a small needlelike growth (the corn) can be extracted without pain or bleeding. By washing the feet often in cold water the tender place will heal rapidly. After getting rid of this corn it is well to wear shoes which are neither too large nor so small so as to avoid excessive pressure or friction.

Second.—In place of the linen a crust of bread soaked in vinegar may be applied.

Third.—The best application is to soak a whole onion twenty-four hours in vinegar, then apply one of the layers of the onion to the corn and keep it in place by a bandage through the night. After repeating this procedure a few times the corn can be removed without any trouble. By either of these simple applications this troublesome agent can be removed without any danger of blood poison and "free of charge."—St. Louis Republic.

An Odd Nugget of Gold.

There have been many large and oddly shaped gold nuggets found in the United States and elsewhere, but the oddest of them all was that discovered at the Midhas mine, on Sulky gully, near Melbourne, Australia, in 1887. The nugget was flat and almost the exact counterpart in contour of a colossal human hand held open, with the exception of the thumb and forefinger, which were closed together in a manner so as to make it appear that the thumb was holding the finger in place. Its greatest length was 12½ inches and its greatest breadth 8 inches.

It was of the very purest gold, with but a little of foreign substances adhering, mostly between the "fingers," and weighed 617 ounces. It was found in the northwest main drive of the Midhas mine, 120 feet below the surface of the earth and at a spot only fifty feet from where the famous Lady Brassey nugget was discovered the year before. It weighed fifty-one pounds of pure gold.

Preliminary to the Baptism.

When Bishop Goe of Melbourne was a curate, a famous pugilist in the parish, who went by the name of Jim the Slogger and who had never darkened a church door, called at the parsonage asking him to baptize the baby. Accordingly the bishop repaired to Jim's house, but was surprised on being admitted to see Jim lock the door and pocket the key. "Be you the parson come to sprinkle that kid?" he asked. On the bishop assenting he continued, "You can't sprinkle that kid till you and me has had a fight, parson."

The unfortunate parson protested, but finding protest useless "stood up" to Jim. The battle went for the bishop, and Jim, pulling himself from the floor, muttered, "He's the parson for me." The baptism was proceeded with, and, as the story goes, Jim took to church going from that day.—Pall Mall Gazette.

WELLSVILLE

A LITTLE TOO STRONG

For the first time this season the crack bowling team, of Sebring, ran up against an aggregation just a little too hot for them last evening, when they stepped on to Campbell's alleys, and started a series of three games, with Captain Shingler's invincibles.

Sebring, having made quite a reputation during the fall months, having victory to its credit over East Liverpool, Salem, Alliance and others, and Wellsville, having won the championship of the district last season, a big crowd turned out to witness the contest. None were much disappointed. The generl impression was that Wellsville would come out victorious. And at the conclusion of the three games when the locals were declared the winners by 303 pins it did not result in a shock. The visitors had no show, whatever. But in the third, after Wellsville began to don the "don't care," having won the series, the visitors took advantage of the existing circumstances and started out at a pretty good speed. It did them no good, however, as the home team worked up along in the fifth frame and commenced bowling as in the first two games.

Captain Hostetter, of the Sebring team, stated that his team was scheduled to play a series with a team from Cleveland next week and consequently the return date with Wellsville will not come off until November 20.

The visitors applauded Dick Harsha many times. They all said that of all the men they ever saw, Dick detested throwing more than one ball a frame. Following are the total scores, individual sscore and individual averages:

FIVE MEMBERS FOR TOWN COUNCIL

THE QUESTION OF DAMAGE

Alleged to Have Been Caused to a Street By Contractor Freshwater Discussed — First Street Bridge Proposition—E. S. Good Is Scored.

Interesting matters were discussed in council last night. All the councilmen were present, except Mayor Shrader. After the minutes of the last meeting were read the reports of the committee was taken up.

Councilman Johnson, of the street committee, referred to council the statement that Contractor Freshwater had damaged the city to the amount of $200 or $300 by removing gravel from the sidewalk on California avenue, at Third sttreet, near E. S. Good's residence. He was very decisive in his remarks and said Mr. Freshwater would have to make good the damage to the town. Mr. Freshwater, who was present, and asked what he had to say about the matter. He replied that he was not aware of doing any damage to the town when he took the gravel away and stated that he was asked to remove the gravel by E. S. Good, who said that he owned it and wanted it removed.

This matter rested here and the committee on lights was heard. Hough was very emphatic in his denunciation of the present lights, and said he was in favor of throwing them away and getting new ones. Wells said Risinger Bros. had offered to put in new lights and repair the bad ones if they were protected. They claimed that during the paving the teamsters damaged the lights by running against the poles. This matter was left and unfinished business was taken up.

The First street bridge question was mentioned and Station Agent A. L. Skinner, who was present representing the railroad company, and read a communication from the officials, asking council to give a little more time, and asking council to meet them next week. Mr. Skinner stated they would come in a private car and asked council to meet them in their car at the station. It was made a motion and carried.

The sidewalk and street at California and Third streets, was again brought up. Mr. Freshwater stated he did not know anything about the grade there and was entirely innocent of doing any damage. This matter was finally left with Mr. Freshwater and the street committee to adjust.

Mr. Hough then moved that the street committee go ahead and put the street at this point to the required grade. He said they had been bluffed long enough by Mr. Good; that he never had shown council any respect and was eternally kicking about something. They would now call a halt and do something as they wished to do.

A bill of J. M. Williams of $112.40, for repairing Middle Run bridge was ordered paid.

Wells then cited council's attention to a lot at the corner of Carolina avenue and Sixth street, which was a mud hole and full of water. He moved that the sergeant be ordered to notify the owner to fill it up or council would do it at the owner's expense. The motion was carried.

Mr. Johnson then made a motion to reconsider the action of council taken in having ten councilmen. The motion carried. Mr. Riley then moved to have one councilman to each of the five wards to be elected annually. This was voted unanimously, after which council adjourned.

A Surgeon Not Needed.

Dr. Lewis was called hurridly to the mill yesterday with his surgical instruments to put together a man who had fallen through the mill in some way. He pronounced it a case of plain drunk when he saw him. The man was bruised some from the fall, but not serious.

Paving Being Pushed.

NOTED YOUNG ARTIST

Steubenville, November 7.—One of the leading young American artists is Bradford Johnson, who is becoming renowned, not only in his home city of Detroit, but among the artists of Paris where in a quaint old stone house with a wide open portico and a winding stairway leading to the upper part, trailing vines growing over the walls, and an entrancing view of gardens and gardens and nothing but gardens, he has established a delightful studio and is making a name that is growing famous as a portrait painter.

Bradford Johnson is the son of Dr. J. J. Johnson, formerly of this city, and the late Kate Doty Johnson, and he was born in Steubenville at the old Doty homestead 28 years ago. After his mother's death he spent much of his childhood at the old home of his grandfather, Calvin B. Doty, and early developed an artistic temperament which found an outlet in music and drawing and he became a devotee to both.

Ten years ago he went abroad to study, and that he has made good use of his time and undoubted talent has been proved in several ways, not the least of which has been the fact of having exhibited some half dozen times in the Salon. His name is not only in the front rank of American artists in the French capital, but is well known among the Parisians themselves, and for so young a man Mr. Johnson has been exceptionally fortunate in meeting with recognition, both in the artistic world and in substantial commissions.

SNAKE ABOUT HER NE

Steubenville, November 7. — Della Bickerstaff, of Steubenville, was given a divorce from George W. Bickerstaff and the custody of their two children. The testimony was that the defendant had frequently beat and kicked her and had threatened to kill her and their oldest child, that on one occasion he struck her with a knife and cut three large gashes in her coat, and on another occasion he pointed a loaded revolver at her and threatened to shoot her, while two weeks before their first child was born he choked and beat her and wrapped a live snake around her neck.

The evidence also showed that the defendant was an habitual drunkard had been guilty of unfaithfulness and had done nothing for three years toward the support of his family.

PROMINENT MAN ARRESTED

Charged With Breaking Into a House And Removing Furniture.

Steubenville, November 7.—C. W. Simmons, a prominent undertaker and furniture dealer of Toronto, was bound over to court yesterday in the sum of $500 for grand larceny. For two days Simmons has been on trial in the mayor's court and it was not until 1 o'clock Thursday morning that he was found guilty.

The case grew out of a sale of furniture made to Clyde Householder, a young resident of Toronto. The bill of goods amounted to considerable, but Householder did not pay the entire costs. Simmons learned that Householder was preparing to remove from the village and believing that he should receive some compensation for the goods sold him he went to the Householder home, it is alleged, forcibly entered through a door and carried away goods amounting to nearly $50.

When Householder returned home he found the goods missing, and learning the particulars of their absence he had a warrant issued for Simmons' arrest. The case had many complications and for this reason it was warmly contested, but the facts were such that Mayor Miller could do nothing but hold Simmons to court. The prisoner gave bond and was released.

Ronald Macdonald's new play, "The Sword of the King," is now the offering at Wallack's theater in this city. The star is Henrietta Crosman, and she is seen as Phillippa Drayton. The style best suited to Miss Crosman is that of "Mistress Nell," and in this play she has such another character to portray. Every emotion of a young girl is brought into play, and the gamut of human feeling is run during the three acts. No, I mistake. The prologue came in for its full share. I don't like prologues and think them very unnecessary, and this one was no exception. It was well played, but should be left out.

The time is 1685, when people talked backward, did the most unconven-

tional things and trapdoors were always on hand for the concealment of villains of some sort. A woman in male attire, plainly recognizable to the audience, was a stranger to the eyes of her lover, and a sword in the hands of a girl meant death and destruction to any one who came within reach of its point.

Miss Crosman was charming and never looked prettier. The part fit her to perfection, but the play is not coherent, and the burden of the interest fell on the star. She carried it well, but it did not seem fair for some of it not to be shared by the many stalwart men. There was a breath of familiar situations more than once during the course of the evening, and I caught myself almost shaking hands with old acquaintances. The hiding of the lover in the bed to prevent his arrest suggested "Du Barry." The praise of the absent mistress by her lover to herself as a boy made Rosalind rise before me, and the slaps on the back of the supposed man with the action necessitated by it gave us the glow of a meeting with an old friend.

Aubrey Boucicault as Edward Royston gave a pleasing performance, but not up to his usual standard. Henry Bergman as De Rondiniacque and Sheridan Block as William of Orange were excellent, and the rest of the cast were good. The play is handsomely mounted, and Miss Crosman has a role in which she cannot be surpassed.

Ethel Barrymore is now at the Savoy theater in "A Country Mouse," preceded by a one act "study" called "Carrots." The role of Carrots is, of course, taken by the star, and she gives a very real picture of a boy whose hacked and miserable condition evidences the effect of misunderstood child nature by a mother who imagines herself ill used and unloved. This creates a false condition. She loses the love of child and husband and crushes every impulse for effort in both, but principally in the child. It all ends as it should and is a good picture, which, viewed in the right light, will benefit parents in this selfish world. Fanny Addison Pitt as the mother and Bruce McRae as the father gave excellent performances.

The play "A Country Mouse" followed, and gave Miss Barrymore an opportunity of showing an unsophisticated country girl in London for the first time in the unearthly atmosphere of so called fashionable society. Love has here no attraction to these London men if a woman is single; but given the savor of impropriety they are willing to embark on the sea of flirtation. It is disgusting. To hear the remarks put into the mouths of these stage social swells is to cause a person of decency to blush. Into this fetid atmosphere the country girl, Angela Muir, is invited, and causes no little stir by the way she expresses her opinions, accepts compliments, kisses, embraces, etc., because her chaperons tell her it is customary and proper in London.

Miss Barrymore would improve the part if she imbued it with a little more life, but following Carrots so closely it is much the same lackadaisical tone of the cowed boy. The play is spicy, bright and amusing, and, but for its bad moral teaching, without any beneficial lesson, would be enjoyable.

The cast is strong, especially the women. Fanny Addison Pitt as the cockney janitress is inimitable, and Adelaide Prince and May Lambert, as Sylvia Bowlby and Violet Aynsley respectively, are excellent.

MARY A. BARTOW.

New York.

One Brick Short.

Richard M. Hunt, the architect, used to relate that in his younger days, while supervising the erection of a brick building, a recent arrival from Cork applied for a job and was employed as a hodcarrier after being instructed that he must always carry up fourteen bricks in his hod. One morning the supply of bricks ran out, and, do his best, the new man could find but thirteen to put in his hod. In answer to a loud yell from the street one of the masons on the sixth story shrieked down:

"What do you want?"

Indians Hold Election.

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Tuesday was an important day on the Cattaragus and Alleganey reservations in Western New York, the Indians holding their election. They used the blanket ballot. The Alleganey reservation Indians voted at the council house in Cold Springs, while the Indians of the Cattaragus reservation voted at the council house in Versailles. A bitter contest was on between the Democratic and Republican factions of the tribes. Elijah Turkey was the Democratic candidate for President, while Frank Paterson, Republican, was a candidate for re-election. The election resulted in a triumph for the Republican ticket.

Grandin, Mo., Nov. 7.—Joseph Farrow and Marion Dun engaged in a duel with pistols on the streets here yesterday, as the result of which both men were killed. EFFORT TO COMBINE GROCERS.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 7.—The Free Press said today that George B. Hanford, the New York Man, of 25 Broad street, who arranged a conference of wholesale grocers of eight middle and eastern states in Detroit Wednesday, has gone to Chicago to endeavor to interest the western grocers' association and the National Grocers' company in his proposed grocery combine and get them to enter the deal. At the Detroit meeting Hanford arranged with those present to make out statements showing the liabilities, assets and earnings of their respective concerns and forward them to him within 30 days, the basis on which the concerns can enter the combine to be determined from these statements. The Free Press casts considerable doubt on the probability of the two combines which have head quarters in Chicago taking up Hanford's project. Hanford is expected to visit Detroit again in 30 days.

ENOCH SMITH HELD FOR TRIAL

'Squire McCarron's court room was packed to its fullest capacity yesterday afternoon when the case of the state of Ohio against Enoch Smith was called for a hearing. Smith was arrested to two charges, one for attempting a felony and the other for assault and battery on Miss Elizabeth Broadbent.

The accused was represented by an attorney and a thorough examination was made of all the witnesses present. After carefully considering the argument of the defense's attorney and the testimony offered, the 'squire eliminated the first charge, but felt that he was justified in bounding the young man over to common pleas court in the sum of $100 on the second charge. The bond was readily furnished, being signed by Smith's uncle, and he was released to appear at Lisbon at the next meeting of court.

The testimony given in the case was corroborative in every particular of the exclusive story of the affair published in the News Review. John Williams was the first witness called. He said:

"I saw Edna Broadbent go out past my house, which is a short distance up California hollow, on the night of October 26. She was closely followed by two young men. Who the fellows were I don't know, and I am not willing to swear that I could identify them."

The next withness examined and cross-examined was Joseph Kline. He said: "I live in California hollow. On the night of October 26 I was standing near the old ice plant with three other persons. While standing there we heard somebody coming down the turn. Before reaching us they stopped and I heard two people talking. I heard a girl cry out: 'I will shout for papa.' Then I heard a man's voice say: 'O! come on.' A few minutes later I saw Edna Broadbent ran past us crying and a little later I heard a fellow running down the road."

Isaac Kline gave the same story.

The plaintiff's witness was next called and she in a straightforward manner said: "I had been to church in town and was on my way home. When I got down to the head of the hollow I motioned for my brother, who was standing there, to come and go home with me. He did not do it. I started out alone and had gone but a short distance when two boys followed me. One of them soon dropped behind and one of them caught up with me. After speaking to me first, he asked me if I knew a Smith girl. He said that he was her brother. I kept walking along and he asked me to go across the run with him. I refused and he grabbed me by the hand. He caught hold of my dress, but he did not strike me."

When the witness was about to be cross-examined her parents objected to male listeners being present and they were excluded.

The defendant when called denied every accusation of a criminal nature but stated that he had been with her and that he had her hand in his.

The attorney, when arguing the case asked that his client be dismissed, inasumch as there was no evidence showing that he was guilty on either charge. The justice could not see it in that light, and did as above stated.

An amusing feature of the hearing occurred when one of the ladies who was in company with the Klines appeared to testify, and before allowing a question to be asked her demanded her fee be paid. The 'squire told the plaintiff's father that if he wanted the girl's testimony he would have to produce the 50 cents. The father studied quite a while and concluded by saying: "I don't want her testimony. It would not be worth that much." With that the girl left the court room. She had consulted an attorney, and it is said that he advised her to pursue the plan.

VERY WARM DISCUSSION

Marked the Proceedings of Last Night's Meeting, But the Conservative Element Came Out on Top And Arranged Peaceful Solution.

The most important meeting in the history of the journeymen barbers' union was held last night, and it is said there was not an absentee noted.

The main topic of discussion was the new scale which the employes formulated some time ago, and which they proposed to put in force this month. The News Review made exclusive mention several days ago of the fact that the boss barbers, upon receipt of the proposed scale of the journeymen, prepared a counter proposition which differed to a marked degree from that of the men. In fact, there was no similarity with the exception of the matter of wages, which the proprietors conceded. On all other points the scales differed. The journeymen had asked that all shops be closed on legal holidays, and the bosses emphatically declared they would not submit to this. The change in the closing hour for Saturday night from 11:30 to 11 o'clock was also objected to by the bosses, who declared their shops belonged to them, and that the hours which should govern was a matter not in the jurisdiction of the men so long as they were not required to remain after a certain time. In other words, the right of the men to say what hours they should work was not denied, but the employing barbers maintained that they could keep their establishments open and stay there themselves as long as they liked.

At the meeting of the journeymen last night these points were discussed at length, and a definite line of action mapped out. At times the discussions were heated, and on several occasions it looked as though the members would be unable to get together. There were those present who favored turning down the bosses' proposition without consideration. This element, while in the minority, was none the less aggressive. They insisted upon the bosses' list being returned with the information that the journeymen would stand by their scale to the letter, and if it was not signed up by the 19th of this month, the date of the expiration of the present regulations, they would refuse to continue to work. The radical faction was soon subdued, and the advice and counsel of the more conservative ones was followed out. There are a number of matters covered in the bosses' proposal which will not materially affect the journeymen, and they are willing to concede them to the shop owners. On the other hand there are clauses which will not be conceded to under any circumstances.

The session of last night lasted until between 11 and 12 o'clock, and when it was at an end every member knew exactly what was expected of him, and was thoroughly posted upon the details of the program to be followed out by the union. A committee of three was appointed to confer with the bosses looking to a compromise. This committee has been vested with full power to act, and they will request that a conference be held next Thursday evening. They have been instructed upon certain matters, however, and will be firm on these points. It is expected that an amicable settlement can be reached.

SOCIAL EVENTS

CROWDS WERE HUNGRY

At the Y. M. C. A. And Ate All the Provisions—Fine Entertainment to Be Repeated Tonight.

The Y. M. C. A. ladies' auxiliary chrysanthemum show and turkey supper opened last evening and will continue tonight. Preparations had been made for feeding a multitude, but not such a multitude as attended. The 17 turkeys and the rest of the "feed" that had been prepared was speedily exhausted and it became necessary to do some hustling to provide for tonight. But there will be enough and to spare this evening.

The chrysanthemum booth presided over by Mrs. Edwin M. Knowles and Miss Simms, assisted by Misses Margaret Pope, Emma Bloor, Clara Wagner, Eleanor Orr, Maude Carr and Mesdames Homer J. Taylor and H. H. Knowles, was well patronized. So was the candy booth, with the following ladies as attendants: Misses Martha Porter, Nell Porter, Minnie Milligan, Sarah Simms and Susan Wilson. A neat sum will be realized from the sales.

After the supper a superb musical program, arranged by Mrs. E. M. Knowles and Prof. H. F. Laughlin, was rendered. It included: Gwendolyn quartet, composed of Misses Margaret Harrison, Margaret Baxter, Claire Scott, Annie James; piano duet, by Mesdames Holloway and Miss Ida Huston; bass solo by Edward Adams; baritone solo by Mr. Williams; contralto solo by Miss Margaret Baxter; baritone solo by Edward McIntosh. All the performers acquitted themselves finely and encores and applause abounded. The entertainment was a pronounced success, exceeding all anticipations.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

A very enjoyable party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Robinson, on Lincoln avenue, it being the occasion of their nineteenth wedding anniversary. An elaborate and sumptuous supper was served, which was enjoyed by about 20 guests, nearly all of whom were members of the family. The remainder of the evening was spent in various games, and the guests enjoyed themselves to the fullest extent.

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson were the recipients of a large number of handsome and costly presents.

Whist Club Entertained.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gass, of Walnut street, pleasantly entertained the Whist club last evening. About 30 guests were present and a series of interesting games was played. The prizes went to Joshua Poole and Miss Thompson. Choice refreshments were served.

Obliging.

At a musicale where a priest was a guest a young woman with a robust soprano voice did most of the entertaining. She was very proud of her accomplishments and her musical education. She sang songs in German, Italian, French and English. When she appeared to have exhausted her repertory and the company present were wishing for a change in the programme, the clergyman paid her some compliments and added:

The Amish, a peculiar religious sect, have a colony in Stark county, in the vicinity of Louisville. The people of this colony number several hundred, and are engaged in farming and stock raising, at which occupation they are eminently successful.

In dress and costume they are very much like Quakers. The Amish came originally from the south of Prussia early in the history of this country, settling in eastern Pennsylvania. Their language is German, or rather the dialect known "as Pennsylvania Dutch." From the original Amish settlement in Pennsylvania they emigrated in bands of a half dozen families or more to other states, Ohio having several settlements, the largest being in Holmes county, where probably one-fourth of the population belong to this sect. Indiana and most of the other states of the central west have a large number.

As one of the strictest rules of the Amish religion is one which prohibits marriage outside of the sect, there is a relationship more or less distant between the inhabitants of these colonies. The names of a few of the parent families now largely predominate among these people. Among the most prominent of these are the names of Miller, Voder, Hostetler, Hershberger.

The Amish are very thrifty and economical and wherever a community is started it is usually the case that members of the sect acquire control of many of the farms contiguous to the land originally held. An Amish boy is usually given enough when he reaches his majority to make a small payment on a farm near his parents and the balance of the payments he makes by tilling the soil.

It is against the rules of the church to go into the courts and an Amishman will never bring suit against anyone who has wronged him. They will not go to war, nor does their religion allow them to serve on a jury or take an oath. In none of the Amish settlements has it been known that one of the sect has been an inmate of a county infirmary, as the church takes care of its very few indigents. No debt of an Amishman to anyone out of the church remains unpaid, as others of the sect will join together and pay any such creditor, if the debtor is unable to do so. None of the members of this sect will take out a life insurance policy, nor will they protect their property in a fire insurance company. If an Amishman meets a loss by fire his neighbors will assist him to rebuild and restock his barn or house.

The manner of dress is one of the strictest requirements which a member of the sect is required to follow. The men all wear long hair and beard, but are not allowed to grow a moustache. The plain black, wide brimmed hat is the only style which is sanctioned, and the manufacturer never changes the block. A short coat of black without a collar, and trousers and vest of the same material, all being fastened with hooks and eyes instead of buttons. Buttons on a garment are considered a matter of pride, which is one of the things which above all others an Amish man or woman is not allowed to cultivate. The overcoats are worn long, and with a large cape. No genuine Amishman ever wore a linen collar or necktie.

The dress of the women has not changed a particle in style in the history of the sect. Dresses are all made shortwaisted, and always of unfigured cloth. A favorite costume with all Amish women is a dress of black, with a triangular piece of blue, yellow or purple from the neck to the waist in front and back. The short skirt has always been in vogue among the Amish. The headdress of the women consists of a black and in some cases a purple bonnet. This is used as an outer covering, while a small cap of white is always worn underneath, tied under the chin with a white bow. The white cap is not removed in the house or church. The hair is worn in a braid down the back. Jewelry of any sort is not tolerated, and if an Amish maiden should wear a ring it would probably result in her expulsion from the church.

The style of architecture used by the Amish in building their homes has not changed any since the time of log cabins. They are built with a porch the entire length of the house both in front and back. The building is always painted white.

The Stark county community has a church building, which is plain, but substantial. The manner of choosing the minister who preaches at the church services seems peculiar to those unacquainted with the Amish custom. The ministers of this sect are not paid and are chosen by lot.

The marriage ceremony is the only occasion of display among these people. The wedding are largely attended, and the ceremonies extend over two days, concluding with a banquet which lasts all night. Courtship among the Amish is one of the most sacred of the sect. The young Amish swain makes his entrance to the abode of his sweetheart through the window of her boudoir, and exit is made in the same manner.

FOOTBALL ON SATURDAY

The East Liverpool and Steubenville foot ball teams will for the second time this season meet on the gridiron at West End park next Saturday afternoon. More than the usual amount of interest is being manifested in the event, as the result of the hard games that they have played in the past, and at all times neither team showing any marked superiority. "Slab" Burns, one of the best players in the country, who voluntarily left the W. & J. team this year, and Tommie Needham, well known in East Liverpool as a base ball player, will be in the game for Steubenville, and that they will greatly strengthen the visiting bunch is conceded.

Growing Walking Canes.

Few men who use walking canes are aware that the growing of walking stalks is a special industry and that certain kinds of canes are not merely collected as they may be found growing in forests. One may find at any store where the sticks are sold many canes of almost precisely the same length, weight, shape and material. Canes having a tangle of roots at the handle, for instance, are much sold in England. They are grown by a "farmer" who makes it a specialty to trim and shape young ash plants.

FALSE ARREST CHARGED

Youngstown, November 7.—As the outcome of the arrest of Dr. John M. Evans, of Phoenix, Ariz., on complaint of the directors of the Keystone Gold and Copper Mining company, charging misappropriation and larceny of some $45,000 of the funds of the company, Evans has brought suit against Chief of Police McDowell, of Youngstown; Charles B. McLean, W. S. Huselton, S. Strasberger and W. J. Strasberger, for $50,000 damages, filed by Jones & Anderson.

The petition alleges that Evans was falsely and maliciously arrested on October 7, 1902, and has been illegally held ever since. It is claimed in the petition that Dr. Evans before the arrest had always borne a good name and that as a result of the conspiracy against him he will be followed by the odium of arrest.

The hearing started yesterday and is continuing today. Dr. Evans was placed on the witness stand and told his side of the controversy regarding the sale of the different mines of the Keystone Copper and Gold Mining company to that company. He said that he had invested his money in them and then had sold them out to the company. The ground on which the requisition papers are being fought is that they are not sufficient to take Evans into Pennsylvania and that he is not a fugutive from justice.

Hard on the Parson.

Just after the battle of Perryville, in October, 1862, says a Georgia exchange, Dr. Savage, a strong Union man, was at one of his appointments to baptize some children. There was a large crowd, and a sturdy southern matron brought her four children to the altar. "Name this child," said the Union preacher, laying his hand on the boy's head. "Simon Bolivar Buckner," was the reply, which caused a smile to come over the congregation, but the brave preacher went on with his duty.

"Name this child," taking the next in order. "Pierre Gustave Toutant Beauregard." And the smile grew into a snicker, while Dr. Savage became red in the face. He baptized the young namesake of the soldier and went on with the ceremony. "Name this one," he gasped, reaching for the third. "Albert Sidney Johnson," came the answer. The smile became audible and the preacher apoplectic. Heaving a sigh of relief, he took the fourth child, a little girl, whose gender he fondly supposed would preclude a continuation of heroic reproduction and said, "Name this child." "Mary Stonewall Jackson Lee," came the response that set the congregation in a roar, while the Union parson thought he had held in his arms the whole Southern Confederacy.

UNIQUE CAMPAIGN OF A. H. JACKSON

GIRLS HELPED HIM LARGELY

The New Congressman Was Once a Peddler, But Had Pluck And Perseverance, And Won His Way to Success—His Remarkable Victory.

Sandusky, November 7.—Far more successful than Tom L. Johnson in a circus campaign was A. H. Jackson, of Fremont, Sandusky county, whose election as congressman, over James A. Norton, of Tiffin, was the culmination of one of the most remarkable contests in recent political history.

It required just such a man as Jackson and just such a campaign as he conducted to do the trick. Incidentally, it must be said that women played no small part in the campaign. Jackson employs a couple of thousand of young women in his factories in different cities in the district, and they were enthusiastic supporters of his candidacy. That they influenced the voters there can be little doubt.

Few people believed that Jackson could be elected. James A. Norton was running for the fourth time. He had made a good record in congress, and, although in the minority, had accomplished much for Sandusky. In Erie county he stood especially high, having done much for the chamber of commerce, both in securing harbor appropriations, and the preliminary steps for a new government building.

Two years ago Norton was elected by over 6,000 plurality, but this was to be cut down in a way little dreamed of a week ago.

The outlook for a Republican victory in the district was not very bright early in the fall when the leaders commenced casting about for a candidate. Little interest was manifested. The name of Jackson, an underwear manufacturer of Fremont, had been suggested, and the Fremont people, with local pride, boomed his candidacy.

Jackson had plenty of money, and he was willing to spend it. He purchased a large tallyho, with a capacity for 20 men, and four bay horses were engaged. With a band and a corps of speakers the underwear merchant started out to tour the district. With a blare of trumpets the tallyho would dash into town, parade the streets while the band played, and then, as the crowd collected, the addresses would be made.

Jackson wore a cylinder hat, to which he constantly referred. He told the people of his early struggles in life, of the fortune which he had amassed, the factories he had built, the girls he employed, and he promised government buildings and harbor improvements that would make Norton turn green green with envy.

Jackson's career is an interesting one. Born in 1847, in Delaware county, New York, his family moved to Steuben county, when he was but 7 years old, later moving to Corning. The family of boys had but little training in the country schools. Young Jackson was apprenticed as a carpenter, and, like Garfield, drove canal mules. At the age of 19 Jackson decided to go west. He had saved up $500, but while asleep in Kansas City, he was robbed of this. He went to work to recuperate his fortune, and finally engaged on a small scale in peddling.

Later he bought a horse and wagon, and took up the selling of suspenders, making a great success. He also became an auctioneer, being known as the "Auctioneer King," and in 1872 located in Fremont. When he had accumulated about $25,000, he decided to engage in the circus business, but bad weather and other conditions ruined this and he lost every cent. He again took up peddling, having a gorgeous wagon built for the purpose, and finally got possession of a stock of dry goods. He was forced to make an assignment in this, and while left stranded, he hit upon a new idea, that of making bustles of wire. He soon had 300 people employed in this, and then the bustle fad died out. Jackson was left with a big stock of goods on hand, together with machines, and he finally went into the business of manufacturing underwear. In this he has been so successful that he now owns fine brick factory buildings in Fremont, employing a couple of thousand people. He has just built in Fremont a $50,000 fraternity home, where his employes are boarded at actual cost.

A Pretty Custom.

SENSATIONAL CHARGE

DISTURBANCE AT POLLS CAUSE.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Nov. 7.—There was a sensation in court last evening when the members of the election board of the middle district of Wilkesbarre township entered and asked the judges to make a correction in the returns from their district, as they learned they had been tampered with. The election officers alleged that on the night of the election their polling place was attacked by Socialists, who claimed they were not getting a square deal. The windows and doors in the house were broken and the officers fled. When they returned they hastily placed the return sheets in an envelope and sent them to the prothonotary's office. Yesterday they were told that while they were absent from the polling place the returns were tampered with. An examination of the returns showed that they had been altered. The vote of James N. Holman, Democratic candidate for register, had been changed from 67 to 124, and the vote of his Republican opponent, John Mainwaring, had been changed from 21 to 10. The contest between Holman and Mainwaring is very close and it will take the official vote to decide who is elected. The official vote is now being counted under the direction of the judges of the court.

THE COMPLETE RETURNS.

Philadelphia, Nov. 7.—Complete returns from all counties in the state on the gubernatorial vote, except Armstrong, Allegheny, Chester and Washington, show a plurality of 94,342 for Pennypacker over Pattison. To this is added estimated pluralities for Pennypacker in the missing counties as follows: Armstrong, 1,700; Allegheny, 30,000; Chester, 1,000, and Washington, 2,100. This gives Pennypacker a plurality of 129,142.

In a number of counties the complete vote for lieutenant governor and secretary of internal affairs has not been completed, hence the pluralities for William M. Brown and Isaac B. Brown, respectively, for the offices, cannot now be given. Their pluralities, however, will not vary materially from that for governor.

Full Returns From Lycoming.

Dougherty Fails of Election.

Carlisle, Pa., Nov. 7.—Official returns show the election of Myers, Dem., and Binkerhoff, Rep., to the house of representatives, instead of Myers and Dougherty, Dems., as the unofficial returns indicated.

Congressman Rhea Re-Elected.

Wytheville, Va., Nov. 7.—Latest returns from the Ninth Virginia district indicate the re-election of Congressman Rhea by a majority of 25. Up to last night Judge Rhea was supposed to have been defeated by Colonel Slemp, Republican.

Returns From Delaware.

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 7.—Complete returns from Sussex county show the election of Thomas W. Jefferson, Democrat, as state senator from the Fifth district, by a plurality of seven votes over George E. Magee, an Addicks Republican. There are 52 members of the legislature and the vote on joint ballot will be 27 Republicans and 24 Democrats. The Republicans will have a majority of one, but as seven are "regular Republicans" and opposed to Adicks, his chances of election to the United States senate are still further reduced by Jefferson's election.

Oklahoma Results In Doubt.

Guthrie, Okla., Nov. 7.—There is a bitter struggle in Oklahoma for the election of a delegate to congress. The result is still in doubt, with the complete returns in the west and southwest counties yet to be received. The Republicans claim McGuire's election by 1,000 and the Democrats claim Cross by 1,400.

Coal Shipments Increasing.

Reading, Nov. 7.—Coal shipments over the main line of the Reading road are increasing rapidly. They have now reached 1,200 to 1,500 cars, or fully 35,000 tons a day.

THE DRAKE-GATES BETTING SYSTEM.

What is now known as the Drake-Gates system of betting on horse races holds the attention of race followers throughout the country. This comes after the alleged cleaning up of $500,000 by Chicago people on the win of Savable in the sixty thousand dollar Futurity at Sheepshead Bay, New York, and on the results of several later races. John A. Drake is credited with being the largest winner, including the $45,000 his horse won for him.

Drake and Gates have carried into the thoroughbred game an unsurpassed bank roll, sound judgment, nerve and a love of simon pure gambling. Their success is credited large to a system of betting known and figured at some time or other by every man or woman that has bet on a horse race. It is credited also to the wonderful trainer, Enoch Wishard, and to the information brought to Drake by other owners concerning the condition of their horses in certain races. This latter information, of course, is handed to Drake for a consideration. That consideration may vary from a percentage of the money won or a certain sum if it proves true to an exchange of tips, permitting the original owner to bet his own money.

It was invariably noticed that Drake and his followers increased their wagers as they progressed on a losing series. In other words, they increased their bets sufficiently to clear up all past losses on each new bet. In the end a forty thousand dollar plunge would bob up a winner, backed from ten to even money or better, according to whether George Rose or Kid Weller was taking the money or whether it was spread over the New York ring.

This system is essentially the same as that outlined by hundreds of young men who have lacked the capital to make the start. Many have tried it with a small wad, only to bump up against short priced winners, cheap bookies who wouldn't take a large bet or some such mishap, or they have not followed their systems. Now come these two big gamblers of the period with unlimited capital, gained by aggressive hard work in ventures as essentially of a gambling nature as playing the horse races. They plan out this system of taking either their own pickings or those of a regular tipster and backing it till it wins. When a winner is picked, they are right, for their bet covers all past losses. That is why the New York field, with 200 bookmakers inside the dead line and backed by a strong association, offered a larger field than did Chicago, and that is why Drake and Gates are operating there instead of the latter place.

Drake says:

"Why doesn't everybody follow that system? It is a poor picker that does not name from one to three every day. We have tried it and win."

Is not Drake afraid that somebody will try his own system on his own book? It is a poor rule that does not work both ways.

It is to be taken for granted that the system proposed is not the broad and easy road to wealth generally considered. In the first place, a vast betting capital or bank roll is needed, then a reputation as a steady bettor or plunger, such as Drake has. This is to disabuse the bool makers of the idea that a sure thing is being put through. Nothing causes the average bookmaker to climb a fence as does a new face handing up a big bet to him on a horse that on past form looks outside the money.

THE MILKY WAY.

A System Which Gives Us a Vague Idea of the Eternity of Space.

The Milky Way, the grandest feature of the "firmament which bends above us," the hazy path which so majestically bands the whole fabric of the skies together, is now known to be composed of a grand aggregation of at least 18,000,000 suns, each as large as or larger than that which makes vegetable and animal life an earthly possibility. One is apt when allowing the mind to revert to the contemplation of these misty and indistinct astronomical subjects to measure their magnitude or attempt to measure it by making terrestrial comparisons.

It is obvious, however, upon more mature reflection that such comparisons are worse than "odious." The bulk of our sun exceeds that of the earth 1,200,000 times, being 600 times greater than that of the bulk of his whole train of planets taken collectively. This being the case, what basis can we use for calculating the magnitude of 18,000,000 suns, each, as I have said before, probably larger than that which gives us heat and light?

The infinite number of suns which taken together, make up the Milky Way are not set at a uniform distance from our earth or even from our sun. In fact, they appear to work altogether independently of either this mundane sphere or our "glorious orb of day." The majority of them are planted at a distance too remote to be even imperfectly measured or understood. Some of them are so near (?) that light, which travels at the rate of 185,000 miles per second, would cross the distance between us and them in the period of about an even ten years. Others, however, are so remote that it would take a full thousand years for their light to reach us.

A State Dinner In Venice.

In 1552 the patriarch of Aquileia feted Ranuccio Farnese, the pope's nephew, in the palace on the Giudecca. The rooms were decked with extraordinary sumptuousness, cloth of gold, paintings and illuminations adding to the effect produced by the patriarch's cooks. Among the guests were twelve gentlemen in fancy marine costumes of green satin with red lining, wearing caps of the same colors and each accompanied by a lady dressed in white. This repast lasted four hours, varied by music and the professional entertainers of the day. It ended with the cutting up of certain large pies from which live birds flew out into the room. The guests strove with each other to catch these birds.

Discourteous Courtier.

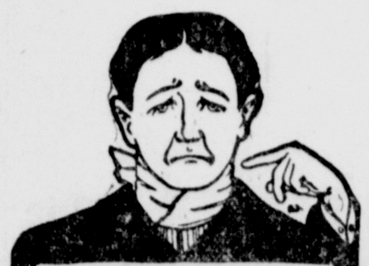

Once upon a time the prime minister went to the king and complained that a certain courtier, who was very hard of hearing, had been making very uncomplimentary remarks about his sovereign.

"Your majesty should speak to him about it," said the minister, "that it may cease, but you must needs speak loud."

"I will speak so loud," answered the king, "that I guarantee the offense will never be repeated."

He then sent the offending courtier to the guillotine.

OUR NATIVE TREES

... By ...

THOMAS H. MACBRIDE, Ph. D.,

II.—The Fruits of Trees.

IN our northern woods all growth is conditioned by our alternating seasons. Growth in plants, as we know, begins or is renewed in spring and ceases at the approach of fall or winter. Renewal, apart now from the agency of seeds, comes about in various ways—by tubers, bulbs, by underground roots and stems. In the tree the renewal results, first, from the unfolding of buds formed in the axils of last year's leaves and all ready by expansion to furnish the foliage and twigs of the season, and, second, from the cambium and its associated living tissues, described in the preceding chapter. The buds contain at base and throughout a very great number of undifferentiated cells—like cambium cells, in fact—capable of growing so as to form different structures and organs. These carry forward the growth of the tree in height. The twigs stretch out from buds. All development upward takes origin in buds. In this respect, however, the development of a bud on a tree is different in nowise from the unfolding of the bud of the meanest weed stretching up to form its evanescent stem. In all the higher plants all length increase proceeds from buds. But the second factor in the tree's renewal is, as has been said, the peculiar characteristic of the tree, and to it we must now again give heed.

In spring no sooner the buds begin to swell and grow than the cambium and its kindred tissues likewise resume activity. The cambium in particular takes up its work just where it stopped the fall before, but under very different conditions. In autumn work is suspended, often suddenly, in the full tide of the tree's activity. Ever since June at least the foliage of the tree has been doing fullest duty. The roots have been equally vigorous, furnishing every active cell throughout the tree abundant material with which to build. The result is that the work done by the tree in the later months of summer is its best work. Then it is the cambium is richest, builds more bark and more wood. The wood also is better. The cells are not only much more numerous, but they are smaller, and their walls are very much thicker. Growing, as they do, under a constantly strengthening sheath of cortical tissues, the new wood cells are under ever increasing pressure. They are in most cases closely compacted together. There are no large vessels such as in early spring were especially needful to carry the vast amount of water demanded by myriad forming leaves. And now, when frost, shortening days and other autumnal conditions finally supervene, our tree is really at its best. But the north wind sounds retreat. The leaves fall; the naked buds appear; the ground freezes; the cambium rests. When spring returns, everything has changed. The bark has been checked and loosened by the storms and frosts of winter. The roots are fairly active, it is true, often more or less completely protected from the frost, but there are no leaves to furnish forth supplies of food for any active cells. Resumed activity depends for days entirely upon supplies left over from the year before, stored largely as starch, in the twigs and at their bases and in the medullary rays, to be further on described. As a consequence, most trees, not all, show in their structure the result of these changed conditions. One may see it on the smooth cut end of any stick or piece of wood.

The paler, whiter lines mark the places of earlier activity. Just outside each paler ring is a darker, denser line, a section of the autumn wood. Note how these succeed each other alternately to the limits of our section. It will be observed that growth seems to cease abruptly. It probably begins again quite vigorously and suddenly as the trees are roused by the warm suns of spring, but the transition from vernal wood to autumnal wood is evidently slow. In Germany in the spruce forests some effort has been made to restrain, if possible, the too early resumption of the work in the trees in spring, with the hope of securing a greater proportion of autumnal wood. Such experiments so far have proved instructive, but not otherwise of practical value.

The radiating lines in our figure show the place and arrangement of the medullary rays mentioned in the previous article. These serve a double purpose. They keep the living elements of the stem, both bark and wood, in direct communication with each other and so make possible the nutrition of all the cells and tissues. Besides, they serve mechanically to bind in one the otherwise easily separable layers of the tree's increase. If the vertical structure of the tree may be esteemed the warp, the medullary rays make up the woof to bind or weave in one the tissues of our plant. This is beautifully shown in Fig. 2, which is, of course, diagrammatic, but is nevertheless entirely truthful in the impression it conveys.

Notice that the bark has its rays as well as the wood and that the rays of the two structures are continuous. We must not forget that the bark is not a protective structure only. It is also nutritive, brings nutrition, especially from the leaves, and, largely by the rays, as just remarked, distributes to the growing wood its food supply. In the figure it will be observed that the earliest, longest rays connect directly with the medulla. Others as the demand increases are introduced in the succeeding years. The resin which is so characteristic of most coniferous trees, as pines, is found in intercellular spaces and is a kind of waste product in the economy of the tree.

Such a structure as that just described can grow in one direction only—that is, in thickness. No tree stem lengthens. Wood once formed cannot stretch or be extended. A branch once pushed forth remains always at the same level. The reason why trees seem to carry up their branches will be shown later on.

But we are now in a position to discuss the age of trees and may conveniently make this the topic of the next chapter.

The Curse of a Treeless Region.

Any one who has traveled through the comparatively treeless countries around the Mediterranean, such as Spain, Sicily, Greece, northern Africa and large portions of Italy, must fervently pray that our own country may be preserved from so dismal a fate, says President Charles W. Eliot. It is not the loss of the forests only that is to be dreaded, but the loss of agricultural regions now fertile and populous, which may be desolated by the floods that rush down from bare hills and mountains, bringing with them vast quantities of sand and gravel to be spread over the lowlands. Tunis was once one of the richest granaries of the Roman empire. It now yields a scanty support for a sparse and semibarbarous population. The whole region roundabout is treeless. The care of the national forests is a provision for future generations, for the permanence over vast areas of our country of the great industries of agriculture and mining, upon which the prosperity of the country ultimately depends. A good forest administration would soon support itself, but it should be organized in the interests of the whole country, no matter what its cost.—Atlantic Monthly.

STOCK MARKET ERRATIC.

New York, Nov. 7.—The course of stock prices was exceedingly erratic all of yesterday and the closing prices were not far from Wednesday night's level. The constantly varying movement was seemingly due to the groping effects of the professional operators to discover the current in the market. The result of their experiments seemed to show that there was no current. Speculative sentiment has, in fact, come to a standstill and is waiting for new developments. The factors which have induced the recent downward tendency of prices are still in force to a greater or less extent, but the well established principle of speculative markets to discount the future makes it doubtful when a current movement of prices has run an adequate course to accomplish this object. Apprehension still exists that there will be large withdrawals of gold, with a resulting squeeze of money rates in the local market. The advancing tendency of wages and the high prices of material keep alive the uneasiness over the proportion of the earnings which will be left for stockholders. But it may be possible that the considerable decline in prices which has already occurred may be sufficient to discount these possibilities. At all events the bear operators who have gone short of the market took sufficient account of this possibility to want to buy stocks to cover their short contracts. The advances caused by this buying met renewed selling of a rather concentrated character. The origin of this selling was a mystery and opinion was divided as to whether it came from the bears or was further liquidation of long accounts. The stock most active in the trading were those which have been recent favorites in the speculation. There were gains of 1 to 1½ at one time in about a dozen railroad stocks and half as many specialties. Cotton Oil had the benefit of its dividend declaration. Sugar broke sharply after early strength, because of fears of a further cut in prices and rumors of a rate war at Missouri river points. The coolers were under some pressure, owing to reports of renewed troubles at the collieries of some of the independent operators, and Lackawanna suffered in addition on its showing of earnings for the September quarter, which revealed a reduction in net earnings compared with the corresponding period of last year of $1,700,000. Money rates were rather firm and foreign exchange was also firmly held.

Short Time From Columbus to Toledo.

Toledo, O., Nov. 7.—The Pennsylvania has under consideration plans consummation of which will give that road the short line from Toledo to Columbus, in competition with the Hocking Valley and the Ohio Central lines, both of which are Morgan properties. By the recent acquisition of the Sandusky division of the Columbus, Sandusk and Hocking, the Pennsylvania has a line from Toledo to Columbus, 138 miles long, or 14 miles longer than the Hocking Valley. It is now proposed to build a line from Tiffin to Marion, a distance of 22 miles, which would make the new route to Columbus 110 miles, or 14 miles shorter than the Hocking Valley.

Death Resulted From Carelessness.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 7.—The coroner's jury, which investigated the deaths of Rev. W. C. Rabe and Miss Augusta Busch, returned a verdict that death resulted from asphyxiation by gas, through carelessness. Nothing which could throw any new light upon the tragedy was brought out at the inquest.

THE PUBLICATION OF MODERN ELOQUENCE (Ten Handsome Library Volumes) is an event of premier importance. For the first time the best After-Dinner Speeches, Lectures, Addresses, Anecdotes, Reminiscences and Repartee of America's and England's most brilliant men have been selected—edited—arranged—by an editorial board of men, themselves eloquent with word and pen—men who have achieved eminence in varied fields of activity.

These gems of spoken thought were fugitive from lack of proper preservative means, until the Hon. Thomas B. Reed, upon voluntarily retiring from the Speakership of the House of Representatives, gathered about him these men of mark and experience in literature, his friends and co-workers in other fields, and began the task of preparing this great work.

North, East, South and West, and the Mother Country as well, have been searched for gems in every field of eloquence.

Here was a lecture that had wrought upon the very souls of great audiences; there an after-dinner speech, which "between the lines" was freighted with the destinies of nations. Here was an eulogy expressing in few but virile words the love, the honor and the tears of millions, and there an address pregnant with the fruits of a strenuous life's work. Or, perchance, a reminiscence, keen, scintillant repartee, or a story, potent in significance, and aflame with human interest. Matter there was in abundance, for English-speaking peoples are eloquent, but the best, only the best, the great, the brilliant, the worthy to endure, has been the guiding rule of Mr. Reed and his colleagues. Their editorial labors have been immense.

While libraries and musty files were being delved into in a hundred places—while famous men were putting into manuscript their brain children—while reminiscence, repartee and story were being reduced to type, and speeches, addresses, and lectures, which money could not buy, were in friendship's name being offered, Mr. Reed was preparing for this work, his most ambitious contribution to literature—his piece de resistance—"The Influence and the History of Oratory." Prof. Lorenzo Sears, beloved and honored in many lands for his critical and contributory work in literature, was writing "The History of After-Dinner Speaking." So with Champ Clark, Edward Everett Hale, Senator Dolliver, and Hamilton Wright Mabie—each was producing a special contribution, which of itself is a gem of thought, a monument to research, study, and observant experience.

Whatever the viewpoint, this work is without precedent. It has no predecessor, no competitor. Speeches that have been flashed across continents, lectures that have been repeated over and over again to never-tiring audiences (but never published), addresses that made famous the man, the time, and the place—these are brought together for the first time, and with them a large number of the wittiest sayings of the wittiest men of the nineteenth century.

For an hour—for a whole evening in the easy chair at home—for the study of style and diction that have electrified brilliant assemblies, for the man ambitious to become a successful or popular public speaker, and for the one who has to prepare a toast or an address, this work is a never-failing source of charm and inspiration. Nor is this solely "a man's work." "The tenderest tribute to woman I have ever read," said Senator Dolliver when he read the manuscript of Joseph Choate's after-dinner speech, "The Pilgrim Mothers."

CATTLE RATES LOW.

A. C. Bird Makes the Assertion Before Interstate Commercial Commission.

Says Cattle Do Not Pay Their Just Proportion of Transportation Charges—Deems Low Rate In Raw Material Wise Policy.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—The interstate commerce commission began a two-days' session in this city yesterday, with Chairman M. A. Knapp, J. D. Yeomans, C. A. Prouty and J. W. Fifer present. The morning session was devoted to the case of the Proprietary Medicine Association of America against the New York Central Railway company, in which the "medicine men" claim a discrimination is made against them by the railroads, and by the New York Central railroad in particular.

Declares Rates Unreasonable.

A. C. Bird, third vice president of the St. Paul road took a bold stand when the commission began an investigation into the rates on cattle and packing house products between Chicago and the Missouri river.

Mr. Bird was the first witness of importance before the commission, and when asked if he desired to defend the reasonableness of the St. Paul's live stock rates he declared that they were not reasonable.

"Not only are our live stock rates unreasonable," he declared, "but all our freight rates today are unreasonable, because they are entirely too low to compensate for the service rendered. All freight rates should be raised and I am surprised that the railroads don't make a combined effort and raise them."

Members of Commission Surprised.

This statement surprised the members of the commission, and they immediately started to ascertain Mr. Bird's reasons. The witness stated that it was unfair to take the past two years as a basis from which to judge the fairness of rates and the fairness of the remuneration derived by the railroads, for during that period railroading had not, as a general proposition, been remunerative. With respect to cattle rates, Mr. Bird asserted that cattle did not now, and had not for years, paid their just proportion of transportation charges, and that further to reduce the rates on cattle would be to make a bad situation worse. When asked what governed the scientific making of rates, he replied that he had not seen the time in 25 years when rates could be made on a scientific basis. On the contrary, rates are always based upon competition, comparison and compromise.

The present inquiry is at the instigation of the Chicago live stock exchange, which claims that the lower rate on packing house products that exists between Chicago and Missouri river points, relative to the rate on cattle, operates against the Chicago market. Under prevailing rates, packers can better afford to convert the live stock into packing house products at Missouri river points than at Chicago. While on the stand Mr. Bird explained that he had always deemed it a wise policy to make as low a rate on the raw material as on the finished products, but that when a rate on the latter, which was not remunerative, was forced upon the roads, he did not believe in also forcing down the live stock rates to maintain the relations.

Receivers For Boston Firm.

Boston, Nov. 7.—Receivers were appointed by Judge Colt in the United States court yesterday for the variously named concerns which centered around Frederick E. Betts and John M. Fisher, and which, it is claimed, were used to carry on a stock brokerage business to defraud.

Denies Acquisition of Road.

Toledo, O., Nov. 7.—President Norton, of the Clover Leaf, yesterday afternoon, when shown the Associated Press dispatch from Montreal, which stated that the Detroit and Toledo Shore line has been acquired jointly by the Grand Trunk and Clover Leaf, denied positively that the Clover Leaf had any connection with the deal.

Atlanta Gets Convention.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 7.—The executive committee of the Baptist Young People's Union of America, in session here yesterday, decided to hold the next annual convention of the society in Atlanta, in the second week of July, 1903. The convention will last four days.

Business Man Lost In Mountain.

Kalispell, Mont., Nov. 7.—Superintendent Egan, of the Great Northern, is lost in the mountains since Tuesday. A large searching party is out. Severe storms have been prevailing and it is feared he may have perished.

Silversmiths on Strike.

New York, Nov. 7.—All organized silver chasers who were not already out of the shops in which is now progressing the strike of silversmiths for nine hours a day instead of ten, left work yesterday.

THE WOODCOCK.

It is during the months of August and September that the mystery of the woodcock's life begins. This is the molting season, when the bird changes its plumage before beginning its journey southward. At this time it leaves the swamps. Where does it go? That is a question which has never yet received a satisfactory answer, although each sportsman and naturalist has his own opinion, and many fine spun theories have been advanced. Some say that the birds move toward the north, some that they seek the mountain tops, coming into the swamps to feed only after nightfall; some that they seek the cornfields, and there have been many other such theories.

Probably the truth lies in a mean of all these statements. I think it probable that the birds know the loss of their feathers renders them to a certain extent helpless and more exposed to the attacks of their natural enemies, and they therefore leave the more open swamps and hide in the densest and most tangled thickets. It is certain that they scatter, for at this season single birds are found in the most unusual and unexpected places.

Years ago when shooting in Dutchess county, N. Y., I knew one or two swamps, which we called molting swamps, where in August we were sure to find a limited number of birds. These swamps were overgrown with rank marsh grass and were full of patches of wild rose and sweetbrier. If we killed the birds which we found there, we were sure in a week or ten days to find their places filled by about the same number.—Outing.

MILITARY DISPLAY.

There is no better place to mark the increasing love of military display and maneuvers than the lobby of a large hotel. The colored help in particular are great soldiers. In one of the Broadway hotels uptown the colored hallmen are changed at noon. Things were quiet in the lobby at that hotel today, for the clerks and bookkeepers were deep in their books, and the loungers were all sitting peacefully on the sofas when the steady tramp, tramp of what sounded like a regiment of infantry broke the stillness.

The regiment consisted of six colored hallmen in blue and brass, with an especially resplendent mulatto in a more gorgeous uniform walking at the head of the procession, says the New York correspondent of the Pittsburg Gazette. He lined his six men in front of a bench before the desk, looked them over sharply to see that they were "eyes front" and hissed "Attention!" Then as he clapped his hands once the six men hinged their legs simultaneously and drooped into their seats like a row of wooden soldiers.

The mulatto wiped his brow with a highly perfumed handkerchief, glanced at the head clerk for approval and as the first man responded with a jerk to the cry of "Front!" went to the main doorway to look at the sunlight of Broadway with the air of a successful major general. The whole performance was excruciatingly funny, but I am sure that mulatto would have committed assault and battery on any one who dared to laugh.

STARTLING EVIDENCE.

MASON WAS SEEN IN WAVERLY.

Boston, Nov. 7.—Yesterday's developments in the case of Alan G. Mason, who is under arrest charged with the murder of Miss Clara Morton, a laundress at the McLean asylum in Waverly, last Saturday night, have been of a startling nature. It was announced first that the watch of the victim had been found in a Cambridge street pawn shop, where it had been pawned for $4 by a young colored man, and this discovery at once led to a general search of the city for this man by the entire police force, but without avail. But later developments were far more sensational. When the pawn broker's memory had been jogged a little and he had had time to think over the matter, he remembered that the watch had been brought to his office on last Saturday night between the hours of 11 and 11:30 by a white man and offered in pawn. Owing to the fact that it was after business hours he refused to receive it and after expressing disappointment the man departed, taking the watch with him.

On Monday morning the same watch was brought in by a colored man, about 21 years of age, of whom the pawn broker bought it for $4. A burly colored man, evidently a companion of the other, had been waiting outside the shop while the trade was being made and as soon as it was completed he entered and took the money, which the proprietor had passed over. Both men then departed.

Continuing their investigations, the officers made another startling discovery, which will have an important bearing on the case, to the effect that the watch of Miss Agnes McPhee, of Somerville, another "Jack the Slugger" victim, had been pawned at the same Cambridge street shop on Oct. 3, the day after her murder, by a white man, whose description tallied exactly with that of the man who brought the Morton watch to the pawn broker last Saturday night.

The descriptions of these men is said by the police to agree to a striking extent with that of the suspect Mason, and the pawn broker will be given a chance today to identify him, if possible, as his visitor.

The unexpected developments yesterday have been most unfavorable to the prisoner, although his friends still claim that he can fully establish an alibi. Search for the mysterious colored man is being carried on as vigorously as ever and all sections of the city were being closely watched by the police last night.

Two days ago the state police arrested A. G. Mason, the wealthy business man and club member of Boston, on suspicion of having killed Miss Morton. After a day's investigation the authorities were convinced that Mason could establish an alibi, and they announced that he would be released, but during the succeeding night witnesses were found who positively identified Mason as one whom they had seen in Waverly, where the murder was committed on Saturday night.

On the strength of the evidence Wednesday a warrant charging Mason with murder was issued and he was held without bail until Tuesday.

WITNESS CREATES SENSATION.

Testifies That Molineux Was Not the One Who Sent Poison Package.

New York, Nov. 7.—The greatest sensation in the second trial of Roland B. Molineux, charged with the murder of Mrs. Adams, came late yesterday, when Mrs Hannah Stephenson, the wife of a Broklyn policeman, was called to the stand by the defense and testified positively that Molineux was not the man who mailed the now famous poison package at the general postoffice on the evening of Dec. 23, 1898. Then the witness partially indentified Harry Cornish, who was asked to stand up in court, as the man whom she saw standing in front of her in the line at the postoffice and holding in his hand a package addressed to "Mr. Harry Cornish, Knickerbocker."

Newspaper Man Found Dead.

San Francisco, Nov. 7.—Charles O. Zeigenfuss, a well-known newspaper man, was found dead yesterday in his room in a downtown hotel. An open gas jet, which, it is believed, was left open intentionally, disclosed the manner of his death. Zeigenfuss had worked in various capacities on the principal newspapers of this country from New York to San Francisco, and his field of labor carried him also to Manila, where he edited a paper. A few years ago he managed the editorial department of a Honolulu daily.

AMICABLE AGREEMENT.

New York, Nov. 7.—Notice of an agreement between the "half blood" and "full blood" heirs of George F. Gilman, the millionaire merchant, who died in his mansion, Black Rock, Bridgeport, Conn., leaving an estate over which was started a legal controversy that threatened to be long continued, was filed yesterday in the supreme court of Brooklyn. Under the new agreement the business formerly conducted by Mr. Gilman is to pass into the hands of a corporation, to be organized in New Jersey, with a capital of $2,100,000, $1,250,000 of which is to be issued to the administrators of the estate. They, in turn, are to divide the amount into fifths, four-fifths to be distributed among the "full blood" relatives and one-fifth, or $250,000, among the "half blood" relatives.

Ohio Teachers' Gathering.

Indianapolis, Nov. 7.—Indianapolis is thronged by Ohio pedagogues, who began arriving in the city yesterday, to attend the Central Teachers' association convention, which will convene here today. At noon yesterday a special train carrying 150 teachers from the Springfield, O., public schools arrived, and last evening 400 more came from Columbus and Central Ohio cities. All trains from Ohio during the night were crowded. The program for the association's meeting this evening includes an address, "School Spirit," by William Werthner, president Central Ohio Teachers' association; an address, "Ethics of the Teaching Profession," by William H. Maxwell, superintendent of the New York city schools.

Will Utilize Water of Glacier.

Boston, Nov. 7.—Engineers are being sent from this city to Tacoma and Seattle, to begin work on a project which has for its chief aim the harnessing of the waters of the Payallup glacier, on Mount Tacoma, state of Washington, for commercial purposes. It is claimed that if successful this will be the first instance where glacial waters have been used directly to provide power. Stone & Webster, of Boston, who have installed a great many street railways in all parts of the country, are undertaking the work in order to provide the cities of Tacoma and Seattle with electric light and power. The plan is to construct from the glacier a flume 14 miles long, through which a head of water will flow sufficient to generate 50,000 horse power. The water in running through the flume will drop 600 feet, and, through penstocks, will be diverted into turbines connected with electric generators. A three-phase alternating current will be transmitted at high voltage to Tacoma and Seattle.

COAL MINERS WERE EVICTED.

J. B. Markle & Co. Evict Six Families—Woman Moved From House on Bed.

Hazleton, Pa., Nov. 7.—Six families occupying company houses at Jeddo, who received notice recently from G. B. Markle & Co. to vacate within six days, but who failed to do so, were evicted yesterday by Sheriff Albert Jacobs, of Luzerne county. The six days expired on Monday.

The sheriff was assisted by special officers of the company, who placed the effects of the evicted families on the street. Mrs. Brannigan, a blind woman, who lived with her daughter, Mrs. Henry Coll, was moved from one of the houses on her bed. Rain set in last evening and to save the furniture of the evicted people neighbors took in the goods and provided shelter for the homeless men, women and children.

Murder Caused by Cattle War.

Guthrie, Okla., Nov. 7.—As a result, it is alleged, of the prolonged war between the cattlemen and homesteaders in Western Oklahoma, G. W. Lane, a leading figure among the homesteaders, was called to his door yesterday and shot dead, near Shirley, Dewey county. A prominent cattleman, named John Joy, has been arrested, charged with complicity in the crime. Mrs. Lane, the murdered man's wife, was also brought in by the officers.

Miss Lizzie Campbell, a Well Known and Highly Respected Woman, Drowns Herself in the Ohio.

Miss Lizzie Campbell, aged 54 years, committed suicide this morning by jumping into the Ohio river at Wellsville. Her body was found shortly before 8 o'clock by George and Will Ingram, of Congo, who come over to Wellsville every morning in a skiff and attend school. Undertaker R. M. Haugh was notified at once and removed the body to his establishment.

Miss Campbell was a seamstress and had her rooms over Catlett's furniture store, on Main street, where she lived alone. She came to Wellsville in 1872, from Salineville. She was at that time employed by David Mannist and John Martin as vest maker. She was later employed by D. F. Steiner, and worked for him for several years.

Miss Campbell leaves two brothers, one at Monroeville, and the other at Minerva. She also leaves two nieces, Miss Anna Campbell, who resides in Wellsville, and her sister, Miss Margaret Campbell, of Monroeville.

When Miss Campbell's body was examined by Dr. Hutcheson, he stated that it had not been in river more than two or three hours. Therefore she must have committed suicide at about 6 o'clock.

She had at several times recently showed signs of being demented, and is said not to have been in her right mind for the past two years. One year ago a person at East Liverpool owed her considerable money which she was unable to collect. This is said to have prayed upon her mind greatly.

It is said that several months ago she left her rooms with the intention of committing suicide, but before she reached the river thought better of it.

Miss Campbell was a very prominent member of the First Presbyterian church, and her reputation is without a stain.

Coroner Straughn, of Lisbon, has been sent for. He will arrive in the city some time this afternoon and will hold an inquest over the remains. No funeral arrangements have been made.

TWO MORE WIVES ARE AFTER DIVORCE

One Says Husband's Brutality Began the Next Day After the Wedding.

MARRIED PRESENT YEAR

Mrs. Maude Howell, of East Palestine, Left Her Husband in March, Fearing Bodily Harm—An Arrest Under Peace Act.

Lisbon, November 7.—(Special.)—Mrs. Barbara La Rue Frederick, of Washingtonville, filed a petition yesterday for a divorce from Joseph C. Frederick. They were married at Washingtonville 13 years ago and have two children. Plaintiff alleges unfaithfulness, in consequence of which she has not been living with him, naming as co-respondent Mary Groner, of Leetonia. The husband is a railroad conductor in the employ of the Pennsylvania company. She asks for a share of his property with the divorce.

Mrs. Maude Howell, of East Palestine, brought suit for divorce from William Howell, to whom she was married at East Palestine January 19, 1902. Extreme cruelty and gross neglect are charged, the petition setting up that the husband commenced to show his brutality the next day after the marriage, which continued until she went home last March. She says he followed her and was only restrained from doing her bodily harm by the interference of her friends and his subsequent arrest under the peace act. The defendant is alleged to be earning good wages in an East Palestine pottery. On these grounds the plaintiff asks the restoration of her maiden name of Maude Picket and reasonable alimony.

A CHOIR ROOM AT ST. STEPHEN'S

A PART OF THE BASEMENT

To Be Fitted Up for the Purpose—The Change Will Make the Church One of the Completest in the Ohio Diocese.

For several months Rev. Edwin Weary, rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal church, and the vested choir have had under consideration a plan by which the choir might have more agreeable quarters for the weekly practice, and last evening a conclusion was reached. As a result the improvement to the church under contemplation will be constructed.

It was decided to convert a portion of the basement, which is 40x20 feet and situated immediately to the rear of the chapel room, into the desired room. The cost of carrying out the plans will be no small amount and preparations have been made to meet all debts incurred. During December an organ recital will be given, led by musicians of note, and shortly after the holiday the choir will give a sacred cantata.

The new room when completed will not only serve as a practice room for the choir, but it will be open for the members of the church as a recreation room. It will be a great convenience to the choir. The members have heretofore been robing and vesting in the auditorium and as a result were compelled to go to the church unprotected. When this room is finished they can prepare for services and march upstairs from the basement without exposure to the cold. Many features new to the choir will be provided in the room. Each member will have private quarters and everything will be suited to the individual choice.

Just when the work will be commenced upon the room has not yet been decided, but it is probable that nothing more than the giving of the contracts will be done before the first of the year. The excavation for the building will require some time, the dirt being in rather close quarters and very hard to get at.

When the room is finished St. Stephen's church will be the most complete of any in the Ohio diocese. It will consist of a church proper, large enuogh to accommodate 600 people, chapel and choir room in the basement, a lavatory, organ room, parish building, Sunday school room, ladies' parlor and the rector's sanctum. The church and all of its accessories are a credit to the city and the members of the church have truly a just reason for feeling proud of their efforts. To Rev. Mr. Weary is due much of the credit. Never in East Liverpool's history did a man ever work more zealously for his church and congregation than he. To him the results are most pleasing and he has made a record which he should feel happy over.

Robert Hopkins, colored, charged with cutting Thomas Burgess with intent to maim, was arraigned before Mayor Davidson this morning for his preliminary hearing. He was represented by Attorney John Wallace. The case was thoroughly examined by both the state and the defense, at the conclusion of which court was adjourned until 2:30 p. m. when Mayor Davidson rendered a verdict clearing Hopkins from the charge. The mayor said:

"I find, after carefully reviewing the testimony, that there has been no evidence produced that incriminates the accused. The law informs me that one man's word is as good as another's, and as Burgess has failed to name a witness who was present I cannot take his word any quicker than Hopkins'. If anything, the evidence shows that Hopkins was not the aggressor. I believe that Hopkins has tried to act right, and simply because he has served a term in the penitentiary is no reason for me to stand against him."

Among the witnesses who testified were Thomas Burgess, the complainant; Frank Rigot, proprietor of the saloon in which the fight originated, and ended; Mrs. Rigot, wife of the proprietor; Dr. Hobbs, one of the physcians who dressed the wounded man's injuries; Billy Timmons, for whom the defendant worked; Mrs. Hopkins, the defendant's wife, and Jane Barger.

Burgess, without the least variation gave his statement as in the News Review last evening. He went to Rigot's saloon form the opera house. In the back room he saw Hopkins and heard him order three drinks. Hopkins gave Mrs. Rigot a quarter and when she went to get his change Hopkins called her a vulgar name. Burgess resented it and a fight followed.

Burgess, upon cross examination, stoutly denied that there was anyone in the room but himself and the negro.

Frank Rigot said: "I did not see

Opening Coal Mines and Building a Railroad Near Wellsburg.

LARGE TRACT PURCHASED

Which a Pittsburg Company Will Proceed to Develop—The New Railroad Will Run from the Panhandle to Bethany.

Pittsburg, November 7.—The Wellsburg Coal company has just been organized here and will open up several large coal mines on Buffalo creek on the Panhandle railroad about two miles from Wellsburg, W. Va.

The company has purchased 1,200 acres of coal on Buffalo creek and 135 acres of surface, and besides mining coal by electricity will erect 100 dwellings for its miners. Two mines are now being opened and are expected to be in operation by the first of the year. They will each have a capacity of 1,000 tons per day. The cost of the coal, mine equipment, etc., will total $250,000. The coal is the Pittsburg vein, 6½ feet thick, and will be mined by drift.

The officers and directors of the coal company are: Joseph A. West, president; W. Glyde Wilkins, vice president; L. F. Darrall, secretary, and C. C. Law, treasurer, the latter being also treasurer of the Mercantile Trust company of this city. Other directors are R. C. McLean and Drs. W. S. Huselton.

These men also constitute the Wellsburg & State Line Railroad company, recently chartered in West Virginia. The company will operate in conjunction with the coal company and will construct a railroad 7½ miles long, extending from Wellsburg to Bethany. Surveys of the road have been made and most of the right of way secured, the aim being to have the road completed as soon as possible. The construction of the railroad will open up about 30,000 acres of coal now unavailable, and the road will connect with the Panhandle at Wellsburg.

The two companies have opened up offices both in this city and Wellsburg. All stock in both corporations has been subscribed. The railroad and coal land developments will require an aggregate outlay of over $500,000.

Quarantine measures are being strictly enforced, and it is confidently believed that the further spread of the disease may be prevented.

RIGHT TO OFFICE

Lisbon, November 7.—(Special.)—The case of the state of Ohio on rel of George Figley against George W. Conser was argued in circuit yesterday afternoon. It is an action in quo warranto to inquire into the right of George W. Conser, Republican, to hold the office of trustee in Hanover township. In support of the action it is set up that at the last township election George Figley, Democrat, was lawfully elected to the office of trustee, but the judges of election made an error of judgment in counting the ballots which gave the election to Conser by a majority of one.

It is alleged that four or five of Figley's votes were thrown out, when the intent of the voter was plain. The court is asked to count these votes for Figley, and issue an order of ouster against Conser.

OVER STRIP OF LAND

A Dispute Between East Liverpool Property Owners Which Circuit Court Is to Decide.

Lisbon, November 7.—(Special.)—The case of Karl Barth against Hugh McFall, ex-county commissioner, and William Anderson, all of East Liverpool, taken up on appeal, was heard in circuit court yesterday afternoon. Barth asks the court to convey to him 236 feet of land fronting on the Jethro and camp meeting road, which he claims to be due on a real estate transfer. The defendants are willing to convey only 136 feet.

The land contract between the parties says 236 feet to the line of McBane and Milligan, and the defendants are willing to convey to plaintiff all land to that line, but say it should only be 136 feet, maintaining the person who wrote the agreement made it 100 feet too much, and that because the land contract says 236 feet the plaintiff demands 100 feet beyond the line in question. The court is to decide the point whether the figures of the land contract or the point fixed in the document shall stand. The land is worth $300.

TAKEN NEAR PITTSBURG

After a Desperate Struggle And Will Be Sent to Wheeling for Safe-Keeping—One of the Country's Worst Pickpockets.

The notorious pickpocket, Thomas Connelly, alias Bill Wilson, was again taken yesterday near Pittsburg after a desperate struggle by Railroad Detective Reeves and Officer Kent. It will be remembered that last June Connelly was caught in the act of stealing from a man by Detective Reeves while boarding an excursion train at Rock Springs park. He was placed in the Chester jail, from which he broke out the next day and was caught by Officers Elliott and Hassey after an exciting chase. He was afterwards taken to New Cumberland for trial and sentenced to jail. Thence he escaped in the morning of the day he was to have been taken to Wheeling, while the guards were eating breakfast.

Nothing more has been heard from him since. Detective Reeves remarked when he escaped the second time that he would hunt that man and take him if it was the last official act of his life.

Ex-Chief of Detectives O'Mara, of Pittsburg, says Connelly is a dangerous criminal and every precaution should be used in handling him. He refused to come to West Virginia yesterday without requisition papers. Papers were promptly made out by Gov. White and sent to Gov. Stone, of Pennsylvania, giving Connelly up to the West Virginia authorities. The prisoner will probably be taken to Wheeling today.

Sheriff C. F. Allison was called to Pittsburg this morning to assist in bringing Connelly to Hancock county, to answer to charges against him here.

WITH THE WORKMEN IN THE CLAY PLANTS

HORRIBLY INJURED.

Miss Pearl McCreary, of Seventeenth street, Beaver Falls, daughter of J. F. McCreary, and well known to East Liverpool pottery workers, met with a shocking accident at the works of the American Axe & Tool company, at Beaver Falls, last Friday, where she is employed. Miss McCreary is employed in the department where the axes are painted, and while at her work was accidentally jostled off a box upon which she was standing by a companion and fell upon the rack of glittering axes, placed in front of her. Involuntarily she threw out her hands to save herself and her hands coming in contact with the keen edge of the axes, were cut in a horrible manner. Her forehead struck one of the axes, but with such light force that only a slight cut was inflicted. Large gashes, however, were cut in the palms of both hands, and she bled profusely. Dr. J. S. Leuthan dressed her injuries. It took several stitches to close the gashes.

CROOKSVILLE TO START.

Harry Frischler, the mouldmaker at the Crooksville pottery, was a recent visitor. He stated that they were delayed somewhat in starting by not being able to secure the piping for stillyards and steam fitting. It is now overcoming this as quick as possible, and will be in working order in the clay departments in a few weeks. Mr. Tritt, the manager of the plant, having received sufficient applications to operate the plant, will commence sending out notices to those selected to operate the plant to appear in the very near future. This plant, like many other new plants in course of construction, was delayed by the non-arrival of the material needed. Heavy freight traffic on all lines is the direct cause.

POTTERY MACHINERY.

Rex & Dean, machinists of this city, are very busy on pottery machinery. They have completed the six jiggers ordered by the Dresden Pottery company, of Salineville, and will ship them this month. The greater portion of their work comes from repairing machinery used in the potteries here. Two large sagger presses are being built at the Stevenson foundry, Wellsville, one to be shipped to Salineville, the other to be erected at the Sevres pottery at East Liverpool. One of the machines is in operation at one of the stoneware shops in Akron, and the dies used are the required size of the saggers. It will be several weeks before the machine is completed and ready for use.

MAKING THINGS PLEASANT.

Following the change of the management of the C. C. Thompson to Mr. Goodwin, many changes are being made that will result in a profitable manner to both the firm and the men. One change, that of giving the shop a cheerful aspect, is by order of Mr. Goodwin. The interior of the entire plant is being whitewashed. Previous to this the shop had a very depressing effect upon the workmen, owing to the gloomy appearance. The bisque ware house is being removed to a building more roomy and bright than the one being occupied at present. And as Mr. Goodwin said, "to accomplish good results one must make the task as agreeable as possible."

SEVERELY INJURED.

ALMOST COMPLETED.

The new kiln being erected at the Edwin M. Knowles pottery, in Chester, is being pushed as rapidly as possible. The walls of the building were finished last week and the kiln was ready finished this week. Of course to line and crown the kiln will require a little more time. Material for that purpose has been placed in position.

RUSHING WORK.

Work on the West End pottery is being rushed to the limit by the contractor, and the new building to the north is taking on a very imposing appearance. Some of the old buildings are being demolished and work on this site will commenced at once.

AMONG THE POTTERS.

Will Davis, of the finishing department at Smith & Phillips', is off this week owing to sickness.

W. H. Smith, the well known presser at Smith & Phillips', has returned to work after a week's illness with stomach trouble.

John Barde, of the mixing room at Smith & Taylor's, has accepted a position as night watchman at the Wallace & Chetwynd plant.

James Prior, of the warehouse at Smith & Phillips', has resigned his position to accept one in the car barn of the East Liverpool Railway company. His companions in the warehouse regret to lose him, but wish him success in his new field.

Interesting Program Carried Out, Including an Address By Dr. Pratt.

The Epworth League of the First M E. church last evening held a very interesting business meeting. A program which had been previously arranged was as follows: Song; prayer Mrs. O'Brien; song; report of first vice president; song; report of second vice president; paper, "Why We Ought to Take the League Paper or Epworth Herald?" by C. L. Gray; report of third vice president; recitation, W. G. Morris; duet, Mrs. Haines and Mr. Blount; secretary's report; treasurer's report.

These reports were replete with interesting statistics. Rev. Dr. M. B. Pratt addressed the league. His subject was "Down Among the Magnolias." This talk was witty and eloquent, and described the Christian life of the southern negro. Dr. Pratt made an earnest plea for justice to the African.

St. Clair Township Farmers Reorganize for Protection Against Trespassers.

Interest in the Anti-Hunting league of St. Clair township has revived since the hunters began to spend their time in the woods. St. Clair township has always been a favorite resort for local hunters, and a few years ago the association was formed for the purpose of protecting the owners of farms there from careless men and boys who tear down fences and destroy much property. Outside of the hunting season little trespassing occurs, and consequently the members of the association hold no meetings.

A session was held Wednesday night and the following officers were elected: President, Thomas Huston; secretary, Emmett Hickman. Deputy game wardens were also appointed as follows from the different parts of the township: Eastern, Page Myler and Nody Wilson; central, David Green and Gus Faulk; western, H. L. Rose and A. A. Allison; northern, James Verness and George Guy.

Another new lot of men's nobby suits arrived this week. We want every swell dresser in town to come and see them.

EAST END

FREAK CALF SOLD

Unknown Parties Have Purchased It And It Will Probably Be Placed in a Museum.

The East End is to lose its freak calf, the property of Mrs. Weaver, who lives near the Klondike. The peculiarities of the animal and the numerous attempts to steal it has brought it into a great deal of prominence of late. Several days ago two men called at the Weaver home and after taking a look at the animal bargained for its purchase. They did not reveal their names, but left part of the purchase money, stating they would come for the calf in a few days. It is not known at this time what the future has in store for this queer freak of nature, but it is likely it is to be life in a museum. It was with a great deal of reluctance that Mrs. Weaver consented to part with it in spite of the trouble it has caused. It has been quite a pet and a favorite with all the members of the family.

A News Review reporter called at the Weaver home yesterday and was permitted to see the animal. Its color is a brick red without a spot of white. It is eight months old and will weigh in the neighborhood of 500 pounds. The head shows only a slight indication on the part of nature to provide it with eyes. There is a slight depression where the eyes should be and a slight opening, but instead of containing eye ball it tapers inward to a point. There is not the least indication of a tail. As is the case with human things who are blind its sense of hearing is wonderfully acute.

FEVER AGAIN EPIDEMIC

The scarlet fever epidemic has broken out again in the East End and a number of new cases are reported. A week ago the authorities thought the scourge was over and at that time there were no houses under quarantine. Later a case developed at the home of John McDole, just outside of the corporation line, and there are now a number of others. Mrs. J. T. White's daughter Nellie and Isaac Riley's daughter Ethel are ill with the disease.

In the Klondike there are several cases. The eight-year-old son of John Hughes and Hugh Clark's youngest son Hubert are among those afflicted. All the houses are under quarantine.

Old-Time Spelling Bee.

The last meeting of Eureka Circle, P. H. C., was as usual an interesting one. Several candidates were intiated and it was decided to have an old-time spelling bee for the entertainment at the meeting next Thursday night. The circles from Chester, Wellsville, Calcutta and East Liverpool have been invited to be present. A prize will be given to the contestant who stands up the longest and a booby prize will be provided for the one who goes down first. A pleasant time is expected.

Klondike Folks Will Attend.

Quite a number from the Klondike neighborhood will attend the oyster supper in the Masonic hall at Smith's Ferry next Tuesday evening. The social to be given by the Y. P. S. C. E. of the Smith's Ferry Presbyterian church. Oysters and ice cream and cake will be served and there will be a literary and musical program.

Judgment by Default.

The defendant failed to appear yesterday in the suit of John Farmer vs. W. B. Tompkins for money alleged to be due for cabbage sold him several months ago by the plaintiff and judgment for the full amount, $25.23, was rendered by 'Squire Carman. Attorney J. E. Davis appeared for the plaintiff.

Make It His Headquarters.

Rev. W. I. Powell, of Athens, Tenn., who has been visiting the family of his son, J. W. Powell, on Mulberry street, has concluded to make his headquarters in the East End. He is field agent for Grant university of Athens, and travels over a wide extent of territory.

Building Activity.

It is said there is more building going on now in the East End than at any time during the year. Before cold weather stops the workmen there will be at least 25 new houses ready for occupancy. It is predicted that the same activity will prevail next spring.

Rushing the Work.

Contractor McHenry is pushing the work on the house he is building in the Midway Land company's addition for Rev. D. W. McQuiston. The excavation has been made for the cellar and the stone masons are at work on the foundation.

One Candidate Initiated.

Ohio Valley Council No. 23, American Mechanics, held an interesting and important meeting last evening at their quarters in Larkins & Ferguson's hall. One candidate was inducted into the mysteries of the third degree.

EAST END AFFAIRS.

Mrs. Charles McGaffic, of Klondike, is visiting her son at Esther, Pa.

Rev. D. W. McQuiston, of the Second U. P. church, has been quite ill for several days with a severe cold.

Mrs. S. G. Colwig returned to her home in Barnesville yesterday after a visit with her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Powell, of Mulberry street.

J. M. Buckle and William Wade were out with their shot guns yesterday hunting rabbits. History does not state how many they brought home.

Rev. D. H. Snowden, of Sterling Kas., formerly a resident of Hancock county, will preach to the G. A. R. at New Cumberland Saturday. He is a veteran of the Twelfth West Virginia regiment.

Elmer Campbell, of Holliday's Cove who has been teaching the Penrith school, has resigned to take a situation as mail clerk on the Panhandle rail road. Miss Jessie Smith, of New Cumberland, has taken his place as teacher at Penrith.

Wanted Another Wife.

A traveler in Persia tells the following: "My hunthi walks into the veranda. He is an aged man, wrapped in a long black cloak and wearing a green turban, denoting him a seyd, or a descendant of the prophet. He is very polished today. His beard is dyed the brightest orange with henna, and he tells a string of beads while he waits. We plunge into stories of the Caliphat and dictation written from left to right with a reed pen, and presently the reason of his smartness is told. He has a favor to ask. Would it please me to advance him three months' pay in order to buy a wife? He is old and he is poor, yet he has fallen a victim to the moon face and stag eyes of a damsel of fourteen, but her dowry is large. 'Why do you not support your old wife?' I inquired sternly. 'She is crippled and nearly blind. You do not give her sufficient sustenance, and I send many things to her.' 'She is too old,' he replies, with a shrug. 'She is ugly as an afreet. Added thereto she has no money or children, and of what good is an old woman unless she is rich?'"

What Education Will Do.

A railway company was erecting a line of new poles along a highway. One of the men engaged to fill in the dirt and clear up around the poles was an Irishman, new at the business and new to America. He had not got beyond his first pole, says the Philadelphia Times, but stood pondering how to dispose of the dirt which had filled the space now occupied by the pole.

His sense of the fitness of things must have been strong, for he was averse to piling the loose dirt around the base of the pole, as is the custom. A negro wayfarer stopped for a match, and the Irishman asked his advice.

"If I was a-doin' dat job, I'd jus' dig a hole 'bout where you ah standin' and shovel de dirt into it. Much bligе."

As the negro sauntered away the Irishman scratched his head and murmured:

Herrmann and Kellar.

The late Professor Herrmann, the magician, was possessed not only of great strength in his hands, but of such skill as would enable him to perform apparent feats of strength which would be impossible to a far stronger man.

His greatest feat along this line was to place two packs of cards together and tear them across.

The four sat down together, and Herrmann was at length induced to tear two packs of cards in half.

Then, as the rest glared amazedly at him, he remarked:

The father was testing his little boy's knowledge of the story of Noah, which he had carefully rehearsed. The boy had been thinking hard, and his answer to the first question showed that he had at least the virtue of originality.

"Now," said papa, "can you tell me how Noah knew that the waters had gone down?"

The boy hesitated a minute, as if seeking for proper words to express himself; then he said:

"Noah knew the waters had gone down because the dove came back bringing him a pickle."

Olives and pickles were synonymous terms in the small boy's mind for things which come in bottles and which he did not like.

Mrs. Joshua Nutter, of Swiftwater, N. H., says: "When our dealer did not have Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in stock we used another preparation in treating our children, but it did little or no good. We have used this remedy for colds and croup with the highest success, and do not feel safe without it in the house." Chamberlain's Cough Remedy always cures and is pleasant and safe to take. FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1902.

TWELVE PAGES.

During the last fiscal year the United States disposed of public lands which amounted in the aggregate to 19,488,535 acres, or 30,450 square miles. This is just about equal to the area of Indian territory and to that of the state of South Carolina. It exceeds the area of each of nine states and the combined area of several of them. It is greater than the area of any German state, except Prussia, is slightly greater than the area of Scotland, but little less than the area of Ireland, and much in excess of the area of Greece, Switzerland, Denmark or Belgium. But there is still plenty of land to spare. The total vacant land subject to entry comes to about nine hundred million acres, and though this includes three hundred and sixty-eight millions in Alaska and a considerable percentage of valueless territory, there is a large margin to the good. The vast government possessions, added to the tracts wholly or only partially developed under private ownership are an assurance that there is still plenty of room in the United States and no occasion for the present or many succeeding generations to worry over danger of being crowded or of not having land enough on which to raise food for all the people.

Some of the southern Democratic papers keep on saying that there is no use for the Republicans to try to capture any of the southern states in 1904. Possibly they are right, but even if they are, the fact will have no effect on national politics. The Republicans have shown more than once that they can win presidents and congresses without the aid of the south. They will probably be able to do this in 1904 and 1908. What will it avail the south to keep outside the Republican party if it at the same time keeps out of connection with the forces, moral, social and political, which are running this country and making it the biggest, greatest and most prosperous nation on the globe?

There is little doubt in the minds of engineers who have followed recent experiments that it is only a question of a short time when oil will take the place of coal as a fuel on all the larger passenger boats of the great lakes. Thus a new market will be opened for petroleum, one of the country's most important natural products.

Not only is the stock of gold in the United States treasury greater than ever, but the per capita circulation as well. Those who were once anxious to have the mints opened to the coinage of cheap dollars in unlimited quantities ought to be thankful that they did not succeed.

Tammany blames Hill for its defeat in New York, and a large section of the Ohio Democracy blames Tom Johnson for the poor showing the party made in this state. The spirit of fraternity is not growing conspicuously among the unterrified.

The late election gave no impetus to any Democratic presidential boom. Hill, Pattison, Johnson and Gorman all fell by the wayside. It may yet be necessary to nominate Bryan for a third defeat.

President Roosevelt, the busiest man in America, now has a business office apart from the historic White House. The innovation has been slow in coming, but it has long been sorely needed.

New York has had an unbroken succession of Republican governors since 1894. It is quite time to consider the Empire state out of the doubtful column.

The annual report of Lieutenant General Miles reiterates what he said in 1896, that "the personnel of the army was never in better condition."

A Chicago paper announces that one of its candidates swept that city clean Hercules never attempted or accomplished a greater task.

Porto Rico went Republican. Guam and the Philippines have not yet been heard from.

AN UNQUIET SPIRIT.

The Mysterious Light That For Years Haunted Cape Noir.

For many years on Cape Noir, the western point of Maria, a strange light was seen, dancing and moving about in the most unaccountable manner. At one moment it would rise like a column of fire into the air, and at another time it would fall like a meteor. Then it would seem to leap over the point and drop into the sea, afterward appearing again in the same spot on the hillside. The habitants tell this story about it:

In the time of the war for the possession of Canada a French vessel, pursued by an English warship, steered its course into the bay at this point for refuge. A boat was lowered from the side of the richly laden merchantman, and in this thirteen men swiftly rowed to the shore. Their object was to secrete a chest of gold which they had brought with them. On reaching the point they drew lots to see which of the men should remain to guard the treasure. The one to whom the lot fell was forced to swear a solemn oath, by land and sea, by night and day, by the ruler of the nether world, that he would be faithful to the trust through life, unless relieved by his returning comrades, and even after death would haunt the spot should no one come to take his place, says a writer in the Era.

To secure the fulfillment of this vow his wicked associates then and there put him to death and buried him with the treasure. The ghostly light was supposed to be the spirit of the murdered man, and many persons who, tempted by the hope of recovering the treasure, ventured into the haunted spot fled in terror and told blood curdling stories of the horrible phantoms and frightful sights which they had witnessed. The light is seen no longer. Perhaps some adventurer bolder than the rest succeeded in discovering the gold, carried it off and thus gave rest to the unquiet spirit.

Settled the Wing Question.

Two little Philadelphia girls the other day strayed into the realms of theology and anthropology, though of course they didn't know it.

"Say," said the first, "we's Dod's 'ittle angels, isn't we?"

"Yeth," lisped the second, "but we hasn't dot any feathers on uth, like the 'ittle angels my mamma showed me in a picture book."

"Well, we had once, don't oo know," returned the first, "but Dod pulled 'em all out before him sent us down here."

"What for did him do that?"

"So that we couldn't fly up in the trees when our mammas want us to come in and be washed!"

The Cannibal.

"And what," asked the cannibal chieftain in his kindest tones—"what was your business before you were captured by my men?"

"An editor?"

"No; merely a subeditor."

"Cheer up, young man! Shortly after my chef has finished his perusal of the cookbook you will be editor in chief."

Hopkins in the saloon. I went into the rear room after the fight was over and while there Hopkins made a motion as ir to strike me with a knife."

Mrs. Rigot hesitated at times in offering her testimony, and showed plainly that she did not wish to bring others into the case. She said: "Hopkins came into the saloon. I know him well and always joke with him. He appeared perfectly sober. He asked for a drink. I did not hear him use any vulgar language. Burgess was in the saloon when Hopkins entered. There were two in the room when Hopkins came. One of them was John Wise, who, after the fight, went after a physician."

Dr. Hobbs said: "When I was summoned by telephone I was not told that there was a man hurt. They simply said that some one was sick. Had I known that a man had been cut I wounld not have gone. I don't like to go over to Lisbon before the grand jury, and keep as far as possible out of all such cases. When I got to the saloon, together with Dr. Norris, I dressed the wounds. They were in no way dangerous. Mrs. Rigot and all of them in the saloon asked me not to say anything about the affair."

Hopkins in defense said: "I went to the show at the opera house and when it was out I went over to Rigot's saloon. I did not go in after a drink. I had some silver dollars which I wanted to get paper for and went into the saloon for no other purpose. Mrs. Rigot said: 'Hello! Schwartz.' That is the name she always calls me. She always treats me nicely, and I joked with her a few minutes. She got the paper money for me and then asked me to set them up. I finally told her that I would take a drink and ordered one. She brought it to me and I set it on the table. I did not drink a drop of it. I have drank nothing since I came home from the penitentiary. I have tried to do what is right.

"After Mrs. Rigot set my drink down she asked me to buy drinks for all of the people in house. There were six in there that I saw, including Mrs. Rigot and her daughter, Burgess, a girl and a white man and a woman. I tried to excuse myself from buying and Burgess said: 'Make him buy, Mrs. Rigot, or throw him out.' When Mrs. Rigot went after my change out of the quarter for my drink, Burgess jumped up and struck me with a chair. I started to back out of the room and in defense used my knife. I cut him and was still cutting him when I backed out into the alley. I then went straight home."

William Timmons and Mrs. Hopkins testified to the manner in which Hopkins has acted sinse his return home and both said that they thought he had not touched a drop.

TO CURE CORNS.

When the feet are pressed into tight fitting shoes—high heels make the pressure greater—by adding friction we have a needlelike point formed in the skin, and the greater the pressure the deeper the point will grow. The best preventive remedy known is really to go barefooted, but since this is not considered ethical in civilized life I will give a few simple remedies which may be of some value for the afflicted:

First.—Place on the corn a piece of cold, moist linen folded several times, wrap it up in dry linen, then go to bed. With this treatment the hard epidermis swells up, and after six or eight hours the outer covering of the corn can be removed with a dull knife. When this treatment has been followed for three or four days, a small needlelike growth (the corn) can be extracted without pain or bleeding. By washing the feet often in cold water the tender place will heal rapidly. After getting rid of this corn it is well to wear shoes which are neither too large nor too small so as to avoid excessive pressure or friction.

Second.—In place of the linen a crust of bread soaked in vinegar may be applied.

Third.—The best application is to soak a whole onion twenty-four hours in vinegar, then apply one of the layers of the onion to the corn and keep it in place by a bandage through the night. After repeating this procedure a few times the corn can be removed without any trouble. By either of these simple applications this troublesome agent can be removed without any danger of blood poison and "free of charge."—St. Louis Republic.

An Odd Nugget of Gold.

There have been many large and oddly shaped gold nuggets found in the United States and elsewhere, but the oddest of them all was that discovered at the Midhas mine, on Sulky gully, near Melbourne, Australia, in 1887. The nugget was flat and almost the exact counterpart in contour of a colossal human hand held open, with the exception of the thumb and forefinger, which were closed together in a manner so as to make it appear that the thumb was holding the finger in place. Its greatest length was 12½ inches and its greatest breadth 8 inches.

It was of the very purest gold, with but a little of foreign substances adhering, mostly between the "fingers," and weighed 617 ounces. It was found in the northwest main drive of the Midhas mine, 120 feet below the surface of the earth and at a spot only fifty feet from where the famous Lady Brassey nugget was discovered the year before. It weighed fifty-one pounds of pure gold.

Preliminary to the Baptism.

When Bishop Goe of Melbourne was a curate, a famous pugilist in the parish, who went by the name of Jim the Slogger and who had never darkened a church door, called at the parsonage asking him to baptize the baby. Accordingly the bishop repaired to Jim's house, but was surprised on being admitted to see Jim lock the door and pocket the key. "Be you the parson come to sprinkle that kid?" he asked. On the bishop assenting he continued, "You can't sprinkle that kid till you and me has had a fight, parson."

The unfortunate parson protested, but finding protest useless "stood up" to Jim. The battle went for the bishop, and Jim, pulling himself from the floor, muttered, "He's the parson for me." The baptism was proceeded with, and, as the story goes, Jim took to church going from that day.—Pall Mall Gazette.

WELLSVILLE

A LITTLE TOO STRONG

For the first time this season the crack bowling team, of Sebring, ran up against an aggregation just a little too hot for them last evening, when they stepped on to Campbell's alleys, and started a series of three games, with Captain Shingler's invincibles.

Sebring, having made quite a reputation during the fall months, having victory to its credit over East Liverpool, Salem, Alliance and others, and Wellsville, having won the championship of the district last season, a big crowd turned out to witness the contest. None were much disappointed. The generl impression was that Wellsville would come out victorious. And at the conclusion of the three games when the locals were declared the winners by 303 pins it did not result in a shock. The visitors had no show, whatever. But in the third, after Wellsville began to don the "don't care," having won the series, the visitors took advantage of the existing circumstances and started out at a pretty good speed. It did them no good, however, as the home team worked up along in the fifth frame and commenced bowling as in the first two games.

Captain Hostetter, of the Sebring team, stated that his team was scheduled to play a series with a team from Cleveland next week and consequently the return date with Wellsville will not come off until November 20.

The visitors applauded Dick Harsha many times. They all said that of all the men they ever saw, Dick detested throwing more than one ball a frame. Following are the total scores, individual sscore and individual averages:

LITERATURE AND HISTORY

Interesting Discussion At the Meeting of the Twentieth Century Club.

The third regular meeting of the Twentieth Century club was held last evening at the home of Miss Jean Moore, Ninth and Front streets. A very pleasant evening was spent, Miss Moore proving herself an able hostess.

A paper upon the life of Benjamin Franklin was the opening number of the program for the evening. It was very good. Miss Jean K. Denham read a paper upon the life of Washington Irving and described some of his best books. The papers were then discussed. Mrs. G. L. Howe read an original poem which was much appreciated. The general topic of geography and geology of Ohio was then taken up and discussed. A social session followed. Refreshments were served.

Bruno A. C. Ball.

Arrangements have now been completed for the first annual dance to be given in the city hall next Tuesday evening, by the Bruno Athletic club. Good music has been secured. The hall is to be decorated in purple and white, the colors of the club. Special cars have been arranged for to accommodate the large crowd expected from East Liverpool. The dancing will be from 8 to 12 o'clock. Three hundred invitations have been sent out.

Colored Man Goose-Pastured.

Walter Manley, a colored waiter, employed at the restaurant of the Third street C. & P. depot, was decoyed at night by a large crowd of his colored friends to Spring Grove camp ground, between this city and East Liverpool, where Manley expected to meet a girl. As he was walking up the dark path his friends sprang out of the bushes and chased him nearly to Wellsville.

Suit Over Doctors' Bill.

Fraser, of this city, against William Dray, of East Liverpool, to recover $27.50 on a bill for attending Mrs. Dray, was given a hearing last evening at 6:30, before 'Squireackenzie. Attorney Charles Boyd represented the plaintiff and Attorney Charles McGregor represented the defendant. Dray thought that he did not owe as much as the bill called for. Judgment was given the plaintiff for the amount of the bill.

FIVE MEMBERS FOR TOWN COUNCIL

THE QUESTION OF DAMAGE

Alleged to Have Been Caused to a Street By Contractor Freshwater Discussed — First Street Bridge Proposition—E. S. Good Is Scored.

Interesting matters were discussed in council last night. All the councilmen were present, except Mayor Shrader. After the minutes of the last meeting were read the reports of the committee was taken up.

Councilman Johnson, of the street committee, referred to council the statement that Contractor Freshwater had damaged the city to the amount of $200 or $300 by removing gravel from the sidewalk on California avenue, at Third sttreet, near E. S. Good's residence. He was very decisive in his remarks and said Mr. Freshwater would have to make good the damage to the town. Mr. Freshwater, who was present, and asked what he had to say about the matter. He replied that he was not aware of doing any damage to the town when he took the gravel away and stated that he was asked to remove the gravel by E. S. Good, who said that he owned it and wanted it removed.

This matter rested here and the committee on lights was heard. Hough was very emphatic in his denunciation of the present lights, and said he was in favor of throwing them away and getting new ones. Wells said Risinger Bros. had offered to put in new lights and repair the bad ones if they were protected. They claimed that during the paving the teamsters damaged the lights by running against the poles. This matter was left and unfinished business was taken up.

The First street bridge question was mentioned and Station Agent A. L. Skinner, who was present representing the railroad company, and read a communication from the officials, asking council to give a little more time, and asking council to meet them next week. Mr. Skinner stated they would come in a private car and asked council to meet them in their car at the station. It was made a motion and carried.

The sidewalk and street at California and Third streets, was again brought up. Mr. Freshwater stated he did not know anything about the grade there and was entirely innocent of doing any damage. This matter was finally left with Mr. Freshwater and the street committee to adjust.

Mr. Hough then moved that the street committee go ahead and put the street at this point to the required grade. He said they had been bluffed long enough by Mr. Good; that he never had shown council any respect and was eternally kicking about something. They would now call a halt and do something as they wished to do.

A bill of J. M. Williams of $112.46, for repairing Middle Run bridge was ordered paid.

Wells then cited council's attention to a lot at the corner of Carolina avenue and Sixth street, which was a mud hole and full of water. He moved that the sergeant be ordered to notify the owner to fill it up or council would do it at the owner's expense. The motion was carried.

Mr. Johnson then made a motion to reconsider the action of council taken in having ten councilmen. The motion carried. Mr. Riley then moved to have one councilman to each of the five wards to be elected annually. This was voted unanimously, after which council adjourned.

A Surgeon Not Needed.

Dr. Lewis was called hurridly to the mill yesterday with his surgical instruments to put together a man who had fallen through the mill in some way. He pronounced it a case of plain drunk when he saw him. The man was bruised some from the fall, but not serious.

Paving Being Pushed.

The paving gang made the turn from First street into Virginia avenue yesterday afternoon and are pushing along work on that avenue as fast as possible. The street railway company is removing the old bricks from the tracks in front of Rock Springs park and replacing them with new ones.

To Be Tried Monday.

NOTED YOUNG ARTIST

Steubenville, November 7.—One of the leading young American artists is Bradford Johnson, who is becoming renowned, not only in his home city of Detroit, but among the artists of Paris where in a quaint old stone house with a wide open portico and a winding stairway leading to the upper part, trailing vines growing over the walls, and an entrancing view of gardens and gardens and nothing but gardens, he has established a delightful studio and is making a name that is growing famous as a portrait painter.

Bradford Johnson is the son of Dr. J. J. Johnson, formerly of this city, and the late Kate Doty Johnson, and he was born in Steubenville at the old Doty homestead 28 years ago. After his mother's death he spent much of his childhood at the old home of his grandfather, Calvin B. Doty, and early developed an artistic temperament which found an outlet in music and drawing and he became a devotee to both.

Ten years ago he went abroad to study, and that he has made good use of his time and undoubted talent has been proved in several ways, not the least of which has been the fact of having exhibited some half dozen times in the Salon. His name is not only in the front rank of American artists in the French capital, but is well known among the Parisians themselves, and for so young a man Mr. Johnson has been exceptionally fortunate in meeting with recognition, both in the artistic world and in substantial commissions.

SNAKE ABOUT HER NE

Steubenville, November 7. — Della Bickerstaff, of Steubenville, was given a divorce from George W. Bickerstaff and the custody of their two children. The testimony was that the defendant had frequently beat and kicked her and had threatened to kill her and their oldest child, that on one occasion he struck her with a knife and cut three large gashes in her coat, and on another occasion he pointed a loaded revolver at her and threatened to shoot her, while two weeks before their first child was born he choked and beat her and wrapped a live snake around her neck.

The evidence also showed that the defendant was an habitual drunkard had been guilty of unfaithfulness and had done nothing for three years toward the support of his family.

PROMINENT MAN ARRESTED

Charged With Breaking Into a House And Removing Furniture.

Steubenville, November 7.—C. W. Simmons, a prominent undertaker and furniture dealer of Toronto, was bound over to court yesterday in the sum of $500 for grand larceny. For two days Simmons has been on trial in the mayor's court and it was not until 1 o'clock Thursday morning that he was found guilty.

The case grew out of a sale of furniture made to Clyde Householder, a young resident of Toronto. The bill of goods amounted to considerable, but Householder did not pay the entire costs. Simmons learned that Householder was preparing to remove from the village and believing that he should receive some compensation for the goods sold him he went to the Householder home, it is alleged, forcibly entered through a door and carried away goods amounting to nearly $50.

When Householder returned home he found the goods missing, and learning the particulars of their absence he had a warrant issued for Simmons' arrest. The case had many complications and for this reason it was warmly contested, but the facts were such that Mayor Miller could do nothing but hold Simmons to court. The prisoner gave bond and was released.

Ronald Macdonald's new play, "The Sword of the King," is now the offering at Wallack's theater in this city. The star is Henrietta Crosman, and she is seen as Phillippa Drayton. The style best suited to Miss Crosman is that of "Mistress Nell," and in this play she has such another character to portray. Every emotion of a young girl is brought into play, and the gamut of human feeling is run during the three acts. No, I mistake. The prologue came in for its full share. I don't like prologues and think them very unnecessary, and this one was no exception. It was well played, but should be left out.

The time is 1685, when people talked backward, did the most unconven-

tional things and trapdoors were always on hand for the concealment of villains of some sort. A woman in male attire, plainly recognizable to the audience, was a stranger to the eyes of her lover, and a sword in the hands of a girl meant death and destruction to any one who came within reach of its point.

Miss Crosman was charming and never looked prettier. The part fit her to perfection, but the play is not coherent, and the burden of the interest fell on the star. She carried it well, but it did not seem fair for some of it not to be shared by the many stalwart men. There was a breath of familiar situations more than once during the course of the evening, and I caught myself almost shaking hands with old acquaintances. The hiding of the lover in the bed to prevent his arrest suggested "Du Barry." The praise of the absent mistress by her lover to herself as a boy made Rosalind rise before me, and the slaps on the back of the supposed man with the action necessitated by it gave us the glow of a meeting with an old friend.

Aubrey Boucicault as Edward Royston gave a pleasing performance, but not up to his usual standard. Henry Bergman as De Rondiniacque and Sheridan Block as William of Orange were excellent, and the rest of the cast were good. The play is handsomely mounted, and Miss Crosman has a role in which she cannot be surpassed.

Ethel Barrymore is now at the Savoy theater in "A Country Mouse," preceded by a one act "study" called "Carrots." The role of Carrots is, of course, taken by the star, and she gives a very real picture of a boy whose hacked and miserable condition evidences the effect of misunderstood child nature by a mother who imagines herself ill used and unloved. This creates a false condition. She loses the love of child and husband and crushes every impulse for effort in both, but principally in the child. It all ends as it should and is a good picture, which, viewed in the right light, will benefit parents in this selfish world. Fanny Addison Pitt as the mother and Bruce McRae as the father gave excellent performances.

The play "A Country Mouse" followed, and gave Miss Barrymore an opportunity of showing an unsophisticated country girl in London for the first time in the unearthly atmosphere of so called fashionable society. Love has here no attraction to these London men if a woman is single; but given the savor of impropriety they are willing to embark on the sea of flirtation. It is disgusting. To hear the remarks put into the mouths of these stage social swells is to cause a person of decency to blush. Into this fetid atmosphere the country girl, Angela Muir, is invited, and causes no little stir by the way she expresses her opinions, accepts compliments, kisses, embraces, etc., because her chaperons tell her it is customary and proper in London.

Miss Barrymore would improve the part if she imbued it with a little more life, but following Carrots so closely it is much the same lackadaisical tone of the cowed boy. The play is spicy, bright and amusing, and, but for its bad moral teaching, without any beneficial lesson, would be enjoyable.

The cast is strong, especially the women. Fanny Addison Pitt as the cockney janitress is inimitable, and Adelaide Prince and May Lambert, as Sylvia Bowlby and Violet Aynsley respectively, are excellent.

One Brick Short.

Richard M. Hunt, the architect, used to relate that in his younger days, while supervising the erection of a brick building, a recent arrival from Cork applied for a job and was employed as a hodcarrier after being instructed that he must always carry up fourteen bricks in his hod. One morning the supply of bricks ran out, and, do his best, the new man could find but thirteen to put in his hod. In answer to a loud yell from the street one of the masons on the sixth story shrieked down:

"What do you want?"

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 7.—The Free Press said today that George B. At the Detroit meeting Hanford arranged with those present to make out statements showing the liabilities, assets and earnings of their respective concerns and forward them to him within 30 days, the basis on which the concerns can enter the combine to be determined from these statements. The Free Press casts considerable doubt on the probability of the two combines which have head quarters in Chicago taking up Hanford's project. Hanford is expected to visit Detroit again in 30 days.

ENOCH SMITH HELD FOR TRIAL

'Squire McCarron's court room was packed to its fullest capacity yesterday afternoon when the case of the state of Ohio against Enoch Smith was called for a hearing. Smith was arrested to two charges, one for attempting a felony and the other for assault and battery on Miss Elizabeth Broadbent.

The accused was represented by an attorney and a thorough examination was made of all the witnesses present. After carefully considering the argument of the defense's attorney and the testimony offered, the 'squire eliminated the first charge, but felt that he was justified in bounding the young man over to common pleas court in the sum of $100 on the second charge. The bond was readily furnished, being signed by Smith's uncle, and he was released to appear at Lisbon at the next meeting of court.

The testimony given in the case was corroborative in every particular of the exclusive story of the affair published in the News Review. John Williams was the first witness called. He said:

"I saw Edna Broadbent go out past my house, which is a short distance up California hollow, on the night of October 26. She was closely followed by two young men. Who the fellows were I don't know, and I am not willing to swear that I could identify them."

The next withness examined and cross-examined was Joseph Kline. He said: "I live in California hollow. On the night of October 26 I was standing near the old ice plant with three other persons. While standing there we heard somebody coming down the turn. Before reaching us they stopped and I heard two people talking. I heard a girl cry out: 'I will shout for papa.' Then I heard a man's voice say: 'O! come on.' A few minutes later I saw Edna Broadbent ran past us crying and a little later I heard a fellow running down the road."

Isaac Kline gave the same story.

The plaintiff's witness was next called and she in a straightforward manner said: "I had been to church in town and was on my way home. When I got down to the head of the hollow I motioned for my brother, who was standing there, to come and go home with me. He did not do it. I started out alone and had gone but a short distance when two boys followed me. One of them soon dropped behind and one of them caught up with me. After speaking to me first, he asked me if I knew a Smith girl. He said that he was her brother. I kept walking along and he asked me to go across the run with him. I refused and he grabbed me by the hand. He caught hold of my dress, but he did not strike me."

When the witness was about to be cross-examined her parents objected to male listeners being present and they were excluded.

The defendant when called denied every accusation of a criminal nature but stated that he had been with her and that he had her hand in his.

The attorney, when arguing the case asked that his client be dismissed, inasumch as there was no evidence showing that he was guilty on either charge. The justice could not see it in that light, and did as above stated.

An amusing feature of the hearing occurred when one of the ladies who was in company with the Klines appeared to testify, and before allowing a question to be asked her demanded her fee be paid. The 'squire told the plaintiff's father that if he wanted the girl's testimony he would have to produce the 50 cents. The father studied quite a while and concluded by saying: "I don't want her testimony. It would not be worth that much." With that the girl left the court room. She had consulted an attorney, and it is said that he advised her to pursue the plan.

VERY WARM DISCUSSION

Marked the Proceedings of Last Night's Meeting, But the Conservative Element Came Out on Top And Arranged Peaceful Solution.

The most important meeting in the history of the journeymen barbers' union was held last night, and it is said there was not an absentee noted.

The main topic of discussion was the new scale which the employes formulated some time ago, and which they proposed to put in force this month. The News Review made exclusive mention several days ago of the fact that the boss barbers, upon receipt of the proposed scale of the journeymen, prepared a counter proposition which differed to a marked degree from that of the men. In fact, there was no similarity with the exception of the matter of wages, which the proprietors conceded. On all other points the scales differed. The journeymen had asked that all shops be closed on legal holidays, and the bosses emphatically declared they would not submit to this. The change in the closing hour for Saturday night from 11:30 to 11 o'clock was also objected to by the bosses, who declared their shops belonged to them, and that the hours which should govern was a matter not in the jurisdiction of the men so long as they were not required to remain after a certain time. In other words, the right of the men to say what hours they should work was not denied, but the employing barbers maintained that they could keep their establishments open and stay there themselves as long as they liked.

At the meeting of the journeymen last night these points were discussed at length, and a definite line of action mapped out. At times the discussions were heated, and on several occasions it looked as though the members would be unable to get together. There were those present who favored turning down the bosses' proposition without consideration. This element, while in the minority, was none the less aggressive. They insisted upon the bosses' list being returned with the information that the journeymen would stand by their scale to the letter, and if it was not signed up by the 19th of this month, the date of the expiration of the present regulations, they would refuse to continue to work. The radical faction was soon subdued, and the advice and counsel of the more conservative ones was followed out. There are a number of matters covered in the bosses' proposal which will not materially affect the journeymen, and they are willing to concede them to the shop owners. On the other hand there are clauses which will not be conceded to under any circumstances.

The session of last night lasted until between 11 and 12 o'clock, and when it was at an end every member knew exactly what was expected of him, and was thoroughly posted upon the details of the program to be followed out by the union. A committee of three was appointed to confer with the bosses looking to a compromise. This committee has been vested with full power to act, and they will request that a conference be held next Thursday evening. They have been instructed upon certain matters, however, and will be firm on these poin ts. It is expected that an amicable settlement can be reached.

At the Y. M. C. A. And Ate All the Provisions—Fine Entertainment to Be Repeated Tonight.

The Y. M. C. A. ladies' auxiliary chrysanthemum show and turkey supper opened last evening and will continue tonight. Preparations had been made for feeding a multitude, but not such a multitude as attended. The 17 turkeys and the rest of the "feed" that had been prepared was speedily exhausted and it became necessary to do some hustling to provide for tonight. But there will be enough and to spare this evening.

The chrysanthemum booth presided over by Mrs. Edwin M. Knowles and Miss Simms, assisted by Misses Margaret Pope, Emma Bloor, Clara Wagner, Eleanor Orr, Maude Carr and Mesdames Homer J. Taylor and H. H. Knowles, was well patronized. So was the candy booth, with the following ladies as attendants: Misses Martha Porter, Nell Porter, Minnie Milligan, Sarah Simms and Susan Wilson. A neat sum will be realized from the sales.

After the supper a superb musical program, arranged by Mrs. E. M. Knowles and Prof. H. F. Laughlin, was rendered. It included: Gwendolyn quartet, composed of Misses Margaret Harrison, Margaret Baxter, Claire Scott, Annie James; piano duet, by Mesdames Holloway and Miss Ida Huston; bass solo by Edward Adams; baritone solo by Mr. Williams; contralto solo by Miss Margaret Baxter; baritone solo by Edward McIntosh. All the performers acquitted themselves finely and encores and applause abounded. The entertainment was a pronounced success, exceeding all anticipations.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

A very enjoyable party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Robinson, on Lincoln avenue, it being the occasion of their nineteenth wedding anniversary. An elaborate and sumptuous supper was served, which was enjoyed by about 20 guests, nearly all of whom were members of the family. The remainder of the evening was spent in various games, and the guests enjoyed themselves to the fullest extent.

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson were the recipients of a large number of handsome and costly presents.

Whist Club Entertained.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gass, of Walnut street, pleasantly entertained the Whist club last evening. About 30 guests were present and a series of interesting games was played. The prizes went to Joshua Poole and Miss Thompson. Choice refreshments were served.

Obliging.

At a musicale where a priest was a guest a young woman with a robust soprano voice did most of the entertaining. She was very proud of her accomplishments and her musical education. She sang songs in German, Italian, French and English. When she appeared to have exhausted her repertory and the company present were wishing for a change in the programme, the clergyman paid her some compliments and added:

The Amish, a peculiar religious sect, have a colony in Stark county, in the vicinity of Louisville. The people of this colony number several hundred, and are engaged in farming and stock raising, at which occupation they are eminently successful.

In dress and costume they are very much like Quakers. The Amish came originally from the south of Prussia early in the history of this country, settling in eastern Pennsylvania. Their language is German, or rather the dialect known "as Pennsylvania Dutch." From the original Amish settlement in Pennsylvania they emigrated in bands of a half dozen families or more to other states, Ohio having several settlements, the largest being in Holmes county, where probably one-fourth of the population belong to this sect. Indiana and most of the other states of the central west have a large number.

As one of the strictest rules of the Amish religion is one which prohibits marriage outside of the sect, there is a relationship more or less distant between the inhabitants of these colonies. The names of a few of the parent families now largely predominate among these people. Among the most prominent of these are the names of Miller, Yoder, Hostetler, Hershberger.

The Amish are very thrifty and economical and wherever a community is started it is usually the case that members of the sect acquire control of many of the farms contiguous to the land originally held. An Amish boy is usually given enough when he reaches his majority to make a small payment on a farm near his parents and the balance of the payments he makes by tilling the soil.

It is against the rules of the church to go into the courts and an Amishman will never bring suit against anyone who has wronged him. They will not go to war, nor does their religion allow them to serve on a jury or take an oath. In none of the Amish settlements has it been known that one of the sect has been an inmate of a county infirmary, as the church takes care of its very few indigents. No debt of an Amishman to anyone out of the church remains unpaid, as others of the sect will join together and pay any such creditor, if the debtor is unable to do so. None of the members of this sect will take out a life insurance policy, nor will they protect their property in a fire insurance company. If an Amishman meets a loss by fire his neighbors will assist him to rebuild and restock his barn or house.

The manner of dress is one of the strictest requirements which a member of the sect is required to follow. The men all wear long hair and beard, but are not allowed to grow a moustache. The plain black, wide brimmed hat is the only style which is sanctioned, and the manufacturer never changes the block. A short coat of black without a collar, and trousers and vest of the same material, all being fastened with hooks and eyes instead of buttons. Buttons on a garment are considered a matter of pride, which is one of the things which above all others an Amish man or woman is not allowed to cultivate. The overcoats are worn long, and with a large cape. No genuine Amishman ever wore a linen collar or necktie.

The dress of the women has not changed a particle in style in the history of the sect. Dresses are all made shortwaisted, and always of unfigured cloth. A favorite costume with all Amish women is a dress of black, with a triangular piece of blue, yellow or purple from the neck to the waist in front and back. The short skirt has always been in vogue among the Amish. The headdress of the women consists of a black and in some cases a purple bonnet. This is used as an outer covering, while a small cap of white is always worn underneath, tied under the chin with a white bow. The white cap is not removed in the house or church. The hair is worn in a braid down the back. Jewelry of any sort is not tolerated, and if an Amish maiden should wear a ring it would probably result in her expulsion from the church.

The style of architecture used by the Amish in building their homes has not changed any since the time of log cabins. They are built with a porch the entire length of the house both in front and back. The building is always painted white.

The Stark county community has a church building, which is plain, but substantial. The manner of choosing the minister who preaches at the church services seems peculiar to those unacquainted with the Amish custom. The ministers of this sect are not paid and are chosen by lot.

The marriage ceremony is the only occasion of display among these people. The wedding are largely attended, and the ceremonies extend over two days, concluding with a banquet which lasts all night. Courtship among the Amish is one of the most sacred of the sect. The young Amish swain makes his entrance to the abode of his sweetheart through the window of her boudoir, and exit is made in the same manner.

FOOTBALL ON SATURDAY

The East Liverpool and Steubenville foot ball teams will for the second time this season meet on the gridiron at West End park next Saturday afternoon. More than the usual amount of interest is being manifested in the event, as the result of the hard games that they have played in the past, and at all times neither team showing any marked superiority. "Slab" Burns, one of the best players in the country, who voluntarily left the W. & J. team this year, and Tommie Needham, well known in East Liverpool as a base ball player, will be in the game for Steubenville, and that they will greatly strengthen the visiting bunch is conceded.

Growing Walking Canes.

Few men who use walking canes are aware that the growing of walking stalks is a special industry and that certain kinds of canes are not merely collected as they may be found growing in forests. One may find at any store where the sticks are sold many canes of almost precisely the same length, weight, shape and material. Canes having a tangle of roots at the handle, for instance, are much sold in England. They are grown by a "farmer" who makes it a specialty to trim and shape young ash plants.

FALSE ARREST CHARGED

Youngstown, November 7.—As the outcome of the arrest of Dr. John M. Evans, of Phoenix, Ariz., on complaint of the directors of the Keystone Gold and Copper Mining company, charging misappropriation and larceny of some $45,000 of the funds of the company, Evans has brought suit against Chief of Police McDowell, of Youngstown; Charles B. McLean, W. S. Huselton, S. Strasberger and W. J. Strasberger, for $50,000 damages, filed by Jones & Anderson.

The petition alleges that Evans was falsely and maliciously arrested on October 7, 1902, and has been illegally held ever since. It is claimed in the petition that Dr. Evans before the arrest had always borne a good name and that as a result of the conspiracy against him he will be followed by the odium of arrest.

The hearing started yesterday and is continuing today. Dr. Evans was placed on the witness stand and told his side of the controversy regarding the sale of the different mines of the Keystone Copper and Gold Mining company to that company. He said that he had invested his money in them and then had sold them out to the company. The ground on which the requisition papers are being fought is that they are not sufficient to take Evans into Pennsylvania and that he is not a fugutive from justice.

Hard on the Parson.

Just after the battle of Perryville, in October, 1862, says a Georgia exchange, Dr. Savage, a strong Union man, was at one of his appointments to baptize some children. There was a large crowd, and a sturdy southern matron brought her four children to the altar. "Name this child," said the Union preacher, laying his hand on the boy's head. "Simon Bolivar Buckner," was the reply, which caused a smile to come over the congregation, but the brave preacher went on with his duty.

"Name this child," taking the next in order. "Pierre Gustave Toutant Beauregard." And the smile grew into a snicker, while Dr. Savage became red in the face. He baptized the young namesake of the soldier and went on with the ceremony. "Name this one," he gasped, reaching for the third. "Albert Sidney Johnson," came the answer. The smile became audible and the preacher apoplectic. Heaving a sigh of relief, he took the fourth child, a little girl, whose gender he fondly supposed would preclude a continuation of heroic reproduction and said, "Name this child." "Mary Stonewall Jackson Lee," came the response that set the congregation in a roar, while the Union parson thought he had held in his arms the whole Southern Confederacy.

Doing Nature's Work.

In the year 1900 no less than 4,000 trees were planted in New York city under the auspices of the tree planting society of that town. Some complaint has arisen over the deadly effect of escaping gas upon the roots, but very few trees comparatively have perished from this cause.

UNIQUE CAMPAIGN OF A. H. JACKSON

GIRLS HELPED HIM LARGELY

The New Congressman Was Once a Peddler, But Had Pluck And Perseverance, And Won His Way to Success—His Remarkable Victory.

Sandusky, November 7.—Far more successful than Tom L. Johnson in a circus campaign was A. H. Jackson, of Fremont, Sandusky county, whose election as congressman, over James A. Norton, of Tiffin, was the culmination of one of the most remarkable contests in recent political history.

It required just such a man as Jackson and just such a campaign as he conducted to do the trick. Incidentally, it must be said that women played no small part in the campaign. Jackson employs a couple of thousand of young women in his factories in different cities in the district, and they were enthusiastic supporters of his candidacy. That they influenced the voters there can be little doubt.

Few people believed that Jackson could be elected. James A. Norton was running for the fourth time. He had made a good record in congress, and, although in the minority, had accomplished much for Sandusky. In Erie county he stood especially high, having done much for the chamber of commerce, both in securing harbor appropriations, and the preliminary steps for a new government building.

Two years ago Norton was elected by over 6,000 plurality, but this was to be cut down in a way little dreamed of a week ago.

The outlook for a Republican victory in the district was not very bright early in the fall when the leaders commenced casting about for a candidate. Little interest was manifested. The name of Jackson, an underwear manufacturer of Fremont, had been suggested, and the Fremont people, with local pride, boomed his candidacy.

Jackson had plenty of money, and he was willing to spend it. He purchased a large tallyho, with a capacity for 20 men, and four bay horses were engaged. With a band and a corps of speakers the underwear merchant started out to tour the district. With a blare of trumpets the tallyho would dash into town, parade the streets while the band played, and then, as the crowd collected, the addresses would be made.

Jackson wore a cylinder hat, to which he constantly referred. He told the people of his early struggles in life, of the fortune which he had amassed, the factories he had built, the girls he employed, and he promised government buildings and harbor improvements that would make Norton turn green green with envy.

Jackson's career is an interesting one. Born in 1847, in Delaware county, New York, his family moved to Steuben county, when he was but 7 years old, later moving to Corning. The family of boys had but little training in the country schools. Young Jackson was apprenticed as a carpenter, and, like Garfield, drove canal mules. At the age of 19 Jackson decided to go west. He had saved up $500, but while asleep in Kansas City, he was robbed of this. He went to work to recuperate his fortune, and finally engaged on a small scale in peddling.

Later he bought a horse and wagon, and took up the selling of suspenders, making a great success. He also became an auctioneer, being known as the "Auctioneer King," and in 1872 located in Fremont. When he had accumulated about $25,000, he decided to engage in the circus business, but bad weather and other conditions ruined this and he lost every cent. He again took up peddling, having a gorgeous wagon built for the purpose, and finally got possession of a stock of dry goods. He was forced to make an assignment in this, and while left stranded, he hit upon a new idea, that of making bustles of wire. He soon had 300 people employed in this, and then the bustle fad died out. Jackson was left with a big stock of goods on hand, together with machines, and he finally went into the business of manufacturing underwear. In this he has been so successful that he now owns fine brick factory buildings in Fremont, employing a couple of thousand people. He has just built in Fremont a $50,000 fraternity home, where his employes are boarded at actual cost.

A Pretty Custom.

South American lovers have a pretty custom. It is well known that when the petals of the great laurel magnolia are touched, however lightly, the result is a brown spot which develops in a few hours. The fact is taken advantage of by the lover, who pulls a magnolia flower and on one of its pure white petals writes a motto or message with a hard, sharp pointed pencil. Then he sends the flower, the young lady puts it in a vase of water, and in three or four hours the message written on the leaf becomes visible.

A Coincidence.

"So that young man wants to marry you?" said Mabel's father.

"Yes," was the reply.

"No; but it's an awfully strange coincidence."

"What do you mean?"

"Herbert asked the very same question about you."

SENSATIONAL CHARGE

DISTURBANCE AT POLLS CAUSE.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Nov. 7.—There was a sensation in court last evening when the members of the election board of the middle district of Wilkesbarre township entered and asked the judges to make a correction in the returns from their district, as they learned they had been tampered with. The election officers alleged that on the night of the election their polling place was attacked by Socialists, who claimed they were not getting a square deal. The windows and doors in the house were broken and the officers fled. When they returned they hastily placed the return sheets in an envelope and sent them to the prothonotary's office. Yesterday they were told that while they were absent from the polling place the returns were tampered with. An examination of the returns showed that they had been altered. The vote of James N. Holman, Democratic candidate for register, had been changed from 67 to 124, and the vote of his Republican opponent, John Mainwaring, had been changed from 21 to 10. The contest between Holman and Mainwaring is very close and it will take the official vote to decide who is elected. The official vote is now being counted under the direction of the judges of the court.

THE COMPLETE RETURNS.

Philadelphia, Nov. 7.—Complete returns from all counties in the state on the gubernatorial vote, except Armstrong, Allegheny, Chester and Washington, show a plurality of 94,342 for Pennypacker over Pattison. To this is added estimated pluralities for Pennypacker in the missing counties as follows: Armstrong, 1,700; Allegheny, 30,000; Chester, 1,000, and Washington, 2,100. This gives Pennypacker a plurality of 129,142.

In a number of counties the complete vote for lieutenant governor and secretary of internal affairs has not been completed, hence the pluralities for William M. Brown and Isaac B. Brown, respectively, for the offices, cannot now be given. Their pluralities, however, will not vary materially from that for governor.

Full Returns From Lycoming.

Williamsport, Pa., Nov. 7.—Lycoming county complete: Pennypacker, 5,864; Pattison, 7,477; Swallow, 623; Adams, 44; Slayton, 798; Brown, 6,005; Guthrie, 7,000; Grumbine, 665; Munro, 50; Barnes, 820; Brown, 6,085; Nolan, 6,809; Marquis, 7 01; Feehan, 52; Gould, 829. Congress—Deemer, Rep., 6,265; Mansel, Dem., 7,739.

Dougherty Fails of Election.

Carlisle, Pa., Nov. 7.—Official returns show the election of Myers, Dem., and Binkerhoff, Rep., to the house of representatives, instead of Myers and Dougherty, Dems., as the unofficial returns indicated.

Congressman Rhea Re-Elected.

Wytheville, Va., Nov. 7.—Latest returns from the Ninth Virginia district indicate the re-election of Congressman Rhea by a majority of 25. Up to last night Judge Rhea was supposed to have been defeated by Colonel Slemp, Republican.

Returns From Delaware.

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 7.—Complete returns from Sussex county show the election of Thomas W. Jefferson, Democrat, as state senator from the Fifth district, by a plurality of seven votes over George E. Magee, an Addicks Republican. There are 52 members of the legislature and the vote on joint ballot will be 27 Republicans and 24 Democrats. The Republicans will have a majority of one, but as seven are "regular Republicans" and opposed to Adicks, his chances of election to the United States senate are still further reduced by Jefferson's election.

Oklahoma Results In Doubt.

Guthrie, Okla., Nov. 7.—There is a bitter struggle in Oklahoma for the election of a delegate to congress. The result is still in doubt, with the complete returns in the west and southwest counties yet to be received. The Republicans claim McGuire's election by 1,000 and the Democrats claim Cross by 1,400.

Coal Shipments Increasing.

Reading, Nov. 7.—Coal shipments over the main line of the Reading road are increasing rapidly. They have now reached 1,200 to 1,500 cars, or fully 35,000 tons a day.

THE DRAKE-GATES BETTING SYSTEM.

What is now known as the Drake-Gates system of betting on horse races holds the attention of race followers throughout the country. This comes after the alleged cleaning up of $500,000 by Chicago people on the win of Savable in the sixty thousand dollar Futurity at Sheepshead Bay, New York, and on the results of several later races. John A. Drake is credited with being the largest winner, including the $45,000 his horse won for him.

Drake and Gates have carried into the thoroughbred game an unsurpassed bank roll, sound judgment, nerve and a love of simon pure gambling. Their success is credited large to a system of betting known and figured at some time or other by every man or woman that has bet on a horse race. It is credited also to the wonderful trainer, Enoch Wishard, and to the information brought to Drake by other owners concerning the condition of their horses in certain races. This latter information, of course, is handed to Drake for a consideration. That consideration may vary from a percentage of the money won or a certain sum if it proves true to an exchange of tips, permitting the original owner to bet his own money.

It was invariably noticed that Drake and his followers increased their wagers as they progressed on a losing series. In other words, they increased their bets sufficiently to clear up all past losses on each new bet. In the end a forty thousand dollar plunge would bob up a winner, backed from ten to even money or better, according to whether George Rose or Kid Weller was taking the money or whether it was spread over the New York ring.

This system is essentially the same as that outlined by hundreds of young men who have lacked the capital to make the start. Many have tried it with a small wad, only to bump up against short priced winners, cheap bookies who wouldn't take a large bet or some such mishap, or they have not followed their systems. Now come these two big gamblers of the period with unlimited capital, gained by aggressive hard work in ventures as essentially of a gambling nature as playing the horse races. They plan out this system of taking either their own pickings or those of a regular tipster and backing it till it wins. When a winner is picked, they are right, for their bet covers all past losses. That is why the New York field, with 200 bookmakers inside the dead line and backed by a strong association, offered a larger field than did Chicago, and that is why Drake and Gates are operating there instead of the latter place.

Drake says:

"Why doesn't everybody follow that system? It is a poor picker that does not name from one to three every day. We have tried it and win."

Is not Drake afraid that somebody will try his own system on his own book? It is a poor rule that does not work both ways.

It is to be taken for granted that the system proposed is not the broad and easy road to wealth generally considered. In the first place, a vast betting capital or bank roll is needed, then a reputation as a steady bettor or plunger, such as Drake has. This is to disabuse the bookmakers of the idea that a sure thing is being put through. Nothing causes the average bookmaker to climb a fence as does a new face handing up a big bet to him on a horse that on past form looks outside the money.

THE MILKY WAY.

A System Which Gives Us a Vague Idea of the Eternity of Space.

The Milky Way, the grandest feature of the "firmament which bends above us," the hazy path which so majestically bands the whole fabric of the skies together, is now known to be composed of a grand aggregation of at least 18,000,000 suns, each as large as or larger than that which makes vegetable and animal life an earthly possibility. One is apt when allowing the mind to revert to the contemplation of these misty and indistinct astronomical subjects to measure their magnitude or attempt to measure it by making terrestrial comparisons.

It is obvious, however, upon more mature reflection that such comparisons are worse than "odious." The bulk of our sun exceeds that of the earth 1,200,000 times, being 600 times greater than that of the bulk of his whole train of planets taken collectively. This being the case, what basis can we use for calculating the magnitude of 18,000,000 suns, each, as I have said before, probably larger than that which gives us heat and light?

The infinite number of suns which taken together, make up the Milky Way are not set at a uniform distance from our earth or even from our sun. In fact, they appear to work altogether independently of either this mundane sphere or our "glorious orb of day." The majority of them are planted at a distance too remote to be even imperfectly measured or understood. Some of them are so near (?) that light, which travels at the rate of 185,000 miles per second, would cross the distance between us and them in the period of about an even ten years. Others, however, are so remote that it would take a full thousand years for their light to reach us.

A State Dinner In Venice.

In 1552 the patriarch of Aquileia feted Ranuccio Farnese, the pope's nephew, in the palace on the Giudecca. The rooms were decked with extraordinary sumptuousness, cloth of gold, paintings and illuminations adding to the effect produced by the patriarch's cooks. Among the guests were twelve gentlemen in fancy marine costumes of green satin with red lining, wearing caps of the same colors and each accompanied by a lady dressed in white. This repast lasted four hours, varied by music and the professional entertainers of the day. It ended with the cutting up of certain large pies from which live birds flew out into the room. The guests strove with each other to catch these birds.

Discourteous Courtier.

Once upon a time the prime minister went to the king and complained that a certain courtier, who was very hard of hearing, had been making very uncomplimentary remarks about his sovereign.

"Your majesty should speak to him about it," said the minister, "that it may cease, but you must needs speak loud."

"I will speak so loud," answered the king, "that I guarantee the offense will never be repeated."

He then sent the offending courtier to the guillotine.

OUR NATIVE TREES

... By ...

THOMAS H. MACBRIDE, Ph. D.,

II.—The Fruits of Trees.

IN our northern woods all growth is conditioned by our alternating seasons. Growth in plants, as we know, begins or is renewed in spring and ceases at the approach of fall or winter. Renewal, apart now from the agency of seeds, comes about in various ways—by tubers, bulbs, by underground roots and stems. In the tree the renewal results, first, from the unfolding of buds formed in the axils of last year's leaves and all ready by expansion to furnish the foliage and twigs of the season, and, second, from the cambium and its associated living tissues, described in the preceding chapter. The buds contain at base and throughout a very great number of undifferentiated cells—like cambium cells, in fact—capable of growing so as to form different structures and organs. These carry forward the growth of the tree in height. The twigs stretch out from buds. All development upward takes origin in buds. In this respect, however, the development of a bud on a tree is different in nowise from the unfolding of the bud of the meanest weed stretching up to form its evanescent stem. In all the higher plants all length increase proceeds from buds. But the second factor in the tree's renewal is, as has been said, the peculiar characteristic of the tree, and to it we must now again give heed.

In spring no sooner the buds begin to swell and grow than the cambium and its kindred tissues likewise resume activity. The cambium in particular takes up its work just where it stopped the fall before, but under very different conditions. In autumn work is suspended, often suddenly, in the full tide of the tree's activity. Ever since June at least the foliage of the tree has been doing fullest duty. The roots have been equally vigorous, furnishing every active cell throughout the tree abundant material with which to build. The result is that the work done by the tree in the later months of summer is its best work. Then it is the cambium is richest, builds more bark and more wood. The wood also is better. The cells are not only much more numerous, but they are smaller, and their walls are very much thicker. Growing, as they do, under a constantly strengthening sheath of cortical tissues, the new wood cells are under ever increasing pressure. They are in most cases closely compacted together. There are no large vessels such as in early spring were especially needful to carry the vast amount of water demanded by myriad forming leaves. And now, when frost, shortening days and other autumnal conditions finally supervene, our tree is really at its best. But the north wind sounds retreat. The leaves fall; the naked buds appear; the ground freezes; the cambium rests. When spring returns, everything has changed. The bark has been checked and loosened by the storms and frosts of winter. The roots are fairly active, it is true, often more or less completely protected from the frost, but there are no leaves to furnish forth supplies of food for any active cells. Resumed activity depends for days entirely upon supplies left over from the year before, stored largely as starch, in the twigs and at their bases and in the medullary rays, to be further on described. As a consequence, most trees, not all, show in their structure the result of these changed conditions. One may see it on the smooth cut end of any stick or piece of wood.

The paler, whiter lines mark the places of earlier activity. Just outside each paler ring is a darker, denser line, a section of the autumn wood. Note how these succeed each other alternately to the limits of our section. It will be observed that growth seems to cease abruptly. It probably begins again quite vigorously and suddenly as the trees are roused by the warm suns of spring, but the transition from vernal wood to autumnal wood is evidently slow. In Germany in the spruce forests some effort has been made to restrain, if possible, the too early resumption of the work in the trees in spring, with the hope of securing a greater proportion of autumnal wood. Such experiments so far have proved instructive, but not otherwise of practical value.

The radiating lines in our figure show the place and arrangement of the medullary rays mentioned in the previous article. These serve a double purpose. They keep the living elements of the stem, both bark and wood, in direct communication with each other and so make possible the nutrition of all the cells and tissues. Besides, they serve mechanically to bind in one the otherwise easily separable layers of the tree's increase. If the vertical structure of the tree may be esteemed the warp, the medullary rays make up the woof to bind or weave in one the tissues of our plant. This is beautifully shown in Fig. 2, which is, of course, diagrammatic, but is nevertheless entirely truthful in the impression it conveys.

Notice that the bark has its rays as well as the wood and that the rays of the two structures are continuous. We must not forget that the bark is not a protective structure only. It is also nutritive, brings nutrition, especially from the leaves, and, largely by the rays, as just remarked, distributes to the growing wood its food supply. In the figure it will be observed that the earliest, longest rays connect directly with the medulla. Others as the demand increases are introduced in the succeeding years. The resin which is so characteristic of most coniferous trees, as pines, is found in intercellular spaces and is a kind of waste product in the economy of the tree.

Such a structure as that just described can grow in one direction only—that is, in thickness. No tree stem lengthens. Wood once formed cannot stretch or be extended. A branch once pushed forth remains always at the same level. The reason why trees seem to carry up their branches will be shown later on.

But we are now in a position to discuss the age of trees and may conveniently make this the topic of the next chapter.

The Curse of a Treeless Region.

Any one who has traveled through the comparatively treeless countries around the Mediterranean, such as Spain, Sicily, Greece, northern Africa and large portions of Italy, must fervently pray that our own country may be preserved from so dismal a fate, says President Charles W. Eliot. It is not the loss of the forests only that is to be dreaded, but the loss of agricultural regions now fertile and populous, which may be desolated by the floods that rush down from bare hills and mountains, bringing with them vast quantities of sand and gravel to be spread over the lowlands. Tunis was once one of the richest granaries of the Roman empire. It now yields a scanty support for a sparse and semibarbarous population. The whole region roundabout is treeless. The care of the national forests is a provision for future generations, for the permanence over vast areas of our country of the great industries of agriculture and mining, upon which the prosperity of the country ultimately depends. A good forest administration would soon support itself, but it should be organized in the interests of the whole country, no matter what its cost.—Atlantic Monthly.

STOCK MARKET ERRATIC.

New York, Nov. 7.—The course of stock prices was exceedingly erratic all of yesterday and the closing prices were not far from Wednesday night's level. The constantly varying movement was seemingly due to the groping effects of the professional operators to discover the current in the market. The result of their experiments seemed to show that there was no current. Speculative sentiment has, in fact, come to a standstill and is waiting for new developments. The factors which have induced the recent downward tendency of prices are still in force to a greater or less extent, but the well established principle of speculative markets to discount the future makes it doubtful when a current movement of prices has run an adequate course to accomplish this object. Apprehension still exists that there will be large withdrawals of gold, with a resulting squeeze of money rates in the local market. The advancing tendency of wages and the high prices of material keep alive the uneasiness over the proportion of the earnings which will be left for stockholders. But it may be possible that the considerable decline in prices which has already occurred may be sufficient to discount these possibilities. At all events the bear operators who have gone short of the market took sufficient account of this possibility to want to buy stocks to cover their short contracts. The advances caused by this buying met renewed selling of a rather concentrated character. The origin of this selling was a mystery and opinion was divided as to whether it came from the bears or was further liquidation of long accounts. The stock most active in the trading were those which have been recent favorites in the speculation. There were gains of 1 to 1½ at one time in about a dozen railroad stocks and half as many specialties. Cotton Oil had the benefit of its dividend declaration. Sugar broke sharply after early strength, because of fears of a further cut in prices and rumors of a rate war at Missouri river points. The coolers were under some pressure, owing to reports of renewed troubles at the collieries of some of the independent operators, and Lackawanna suffered in addition on its showing of earnings for the September quarter, which revealed a reduction in net earnings compared with the corresponding period of last year of $1,700,000. Money rates were rather firm and foreign exchange was also firmly held.

Short Time From Columbus to Toledo.

Toledo, O., Nov. 7.—The Pennsylvania has under consideration plans, consummation of which will give that road the short line from Toledo to Columbus, in competition with the Hocking Valley and the Ohio Central lines, both of which are Morgan properties. By the recent acquisition of the Sandusky division of the Columbus, Sandusk and Hocking, the Pennsylvania has a line from Toledo to Columbus, 138 miles long, or 14 miles longer than the Hocking Valley. It is now proposed to build a line from Tiffin to Marion, a distance of 22 miles, which would make the new route to Columbus 110 miles, or 14 miles shorter than the Hocking Valley.

Death Resulted From Carelessness.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 7.—The coroner's jury, which investigated the deaths of Rev. W. C. Rabe and Miss Augusta Busch, returned a verdict that death resulted from asphyxiation by gas, through carelessness. Nothing which could throw any new lightupon the tragedy was brought out at the inquest.

THE PUBLICATION OF MODERN ELOQUENCE (Ten Handsome Library Volumes) is an event of premier importance. For the first time the best After-Dinner Speeches, Lectures, Addresses, Anecdotes, Reminiscences and Repartee of America's and England's most brilliant men have been selected—edited—arranged—by an editorial board of men, themselves eloquent with word and pen—men who have achieved eminence in varied fields of activity.

These gems of spoken thought were fugitive from lack of proper preservative means, until the Hon. Thomas B. Reed, upon voluntarily retiring from the Speakership of the House of Representatives, gathered about him these men of mark and experience in literature, his friends and co-workers in other fields, and began the task of preparing this great work.

North, East, South and West, and the Mother Country as well, have been searched for gems in every field of eloquence.

Here was a lecture that had wrought upon the very souls of great audiences; there an after-dinner speech, which "between the lines" was freighted with the destinies of nations. Here was an eulogy expressing in few but virile words the love, the honor and the tears of millions, and there an address pregnant with the fruits of a strenuous life's work. Or, perchance, a reminiscence, keen, scintillant repartee, or a story, potent in significance, and aflame with human interest. Matter there was in abundance, for English-speaking peoples are eloquent, but the best, only the best, the great, the brilliant, the worthy to endure, has been the guiding rule of Mr. Reed and his colleagues. Their editorial labors have been immense.

While libraries and musty files were being delved into in a hundred places—while famous men were putting into manuscript their brain children—while reminiscence, repartee and story were being reduced to type, and speeches, addresses, and lectures, which money could not buy, were in friendship's name being offered, Mr. Reed was preparing for this work, his most ambitious contribution to literature—his pièce de résistance—"The Influence and the History of Oratory." Prof. Lorenzo Sears, beloved and honored in many lands for his critical and contributory work in literature, was writing "The History of After-Dinner Speaking." So with Champ Clark, Edward Everett Hale, Senator Dolliver, and Hamilton Wright Mabie—each was producing a special contribution, which of itself is a gem of thought, a monument to research, study, and observant experience.

Whatever the viewpoint, this work is without precedent. It has no predecessor, no competitor. Speeches that have been flashed across continents, lectures that have been repeated over and over again to never-tiring audiences (but never published), addresses that made famous the man, the time, and the place—these are brought together for the first time, and with them a large number of the wittiest sayings of the wittiest men of the nineteenth century.

For an hour—for a whole evening in the easy chair at home—for the study of style and diction that have electrified brilliant assemblies, for the man ambitious to become a successful or popular public speaker, and for the one who has to prepare a toast or an address, this work is a never-failing source of charm and inspiration. Nor is this solely "a man's work." "The tenderest tribute to woman I have ever read," said Senator Dolliver when he read the manuscript of Joseph Choate's after-dinner speech, "The Pilgrim Mothers."

CATTLE RATES LOW.

Says Cattle Do Not Pay Their Just Proportion of Transportation Charges—Deems Low Rate In Raw Material Wise Policy.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—The interstate commerce commission began a two-days' session in this city yesterday, with Chairman M. A. Knapp, J. D. Yeomans, C. A. Prouty and J. W. Fifer present. The morning session was devoted to the case of the Proprietary Medicine Association of America against the New York Central Railway company, in which the "medicine men" claim a discrimination is made against them by the railroads, and by the New York Central railroad in particular.

Declares Rates Unreasonable.

A. C. Bird, third vice president of the St. Paul road took a bold stand when the commission began an investigation into the rates on cattle and packing house products between Chicago and the Missouri river.

Mr. Bird was the first witness of importance before the commission, and when asked if he desired to defend the reasonableness of the St. Paul's live stock rates he declared that they were not reasonable.

"Not only are our live stock rates unreasonable," he declared, "but all our freight rates today are unreasonable, because they are entirely too low to compensate for the service rendered. All freight rates should be raised and I am surprised that the railroads don't make a combined effort and raise them."

Members of Commission Surprised.

This statement surprised the members of the commission, and they immediately started to ascertain Mr. Bird's reasons. The witness stated that it was unfair to take the past two years as a basis from which to judge the fairness of rates and the fairness of the remuneration derived by the railroads, for during that period railroading had not, as a general proposition, been remunerative. With respect to cattle rates, Mr. Bird asserted that cattle did not now, and had not for years, paid their just proportion of transportation charges, and that further to reduce the rates on cattle would be to make a bad situation worse. When asked what governed the scientific making of rates, he replied that he had not seen the time in 25 years when rates could be made on a scientific basis. On the contrary, rates are always based upon competition, comparison and compromise.

The present inquiry is at the instigation of the Chicago live stock exchange, which claims that the lower rate on packing house products that exists between Chicago and Missouri river points, relative to the rate on cattle, operates against the Chicago market. Under prevailing rates, packers can better afford to convert the live stock into packing house products at Missouri river points than at Chicago. While on the stand Mr. Bird explained that he had always deemed it a wise policy to make as low a rate on the raw material as on the finished products, but that when a rate on the latter, which was not remunerative, was forced upon the roads, he did not believe in also forcing down the live stock rates to maintain the relations.

Receivers For Boston Firm.

Boston, Nov. 7.—Receivers were appointed by Judge Colt in the United States court yesterday for the variously named concerns which centered around Frederick E. Betts and John M. Fisher, and which, it is claimed, were used to carry on a stock brokerage business to defraud.

Denies Acquisition of Road.

Toledo, O., Nov. 7.—President Norton, of the Clover Leaf, yesterday afternoon, when shown the Associated Press dispatch from Montreal, which stated that the Detroit and Toledo Shore line has been acquired jointly by the Grand Trunk and Clover Leaf, denied positively that the Clover Leaf had any connection with the deal.

Atlanta Gets Convention.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 7.—The executive committee of the Baptist Young People's Union of America, in session here yesterday, decided to hold the next annual convention of the society in Atlanta, in the second week of July, 1903. The convention will last four days.

Business Man Lost In Mountain.

Kalispell, Mont., Nov. 7.—Superintendent Egan, of the Great Northern, is lost in the mountains since Tuesday. A large searching party is out. Severe storms have been prevailing and it is feared he may have perished.

Silversmiths on Strike.

New York, Nov. 7.—All organized silver chasers who were not already out of the shops in which is now progressing the strike of silversmiths for nine hours a day instead of ten, left work yesterday.

THE WOODCOCK.

It is during the months of August and September that the mystery of the woodcock's life begins. This is the molting season, when the bird changes its plumage before beginning its journey southward. At this time it leaves the swamps. Where does it go? That is a question which has never yet received a satisfactory answer, although each sportsman and naturalist has his own opinion, and many fine spun theories have been advanced. Some say that the birds move toward the north, some that they seek the mountain tops, coming into the swamps to feed only after nightfall; some that they seek the cornfields, and there have been many other such theories.

Probably the truth lies in a mean of all these statements. I think it probable that the birds know the loss of their feathers renders them to a certain extent helpless and more exposed to the attacks of their natural enemies, and they therefore leave the more open swamps and hide in the densest and most tangled thickets. It is certain that they scatter, for at this season single birds are found in the most unusual and unexpected places.

Years ago when shooting in Dutchess county, N. Y., I knew one or two swamps, which we called molting swamps, where in August we were sure to find a limited number of birds. These swamps were overgrown with rank marsh grass and were full of patches of wild rose and sweetbrier. If we killed the birds which we found there, we were sure in a week or ten days to find their places filled by about the same number.—Outing.

MILITARY DISPLAY.

There is no better place to mark the increasing love of military display and maneuvers than the lobby of a large hotel. The colored help in particular are great soldiers. In one of the Broadway hotels uptown the colored hallmen are changed at noon. Things were quiet in the lobby at that hotel today, for the clerks and bookkeepers were deep in their books, and the loungers were all sitting peacefully on the sofas when the steady tramp, tramp of what sounded like a regiment of infantry broke the stillness.

The regiment consisted of six colored hallmen in blue and brass, with an especially resplendent mulatto in a more gorgeous uniform walking at the head of the procession, says the New York correspondent of the Pittsburg Gazette. He lined his six men in front of a bench before the desk, looked them over sharply to see that they were "eyes front" and hissed "Attention!" Then as he clapped his hands once the six men hinged their legs simultaneously and drooped into their seats like a row of wooden soldiers.

The mulatto wiped his brow with a highly perfumed handkerchief, glanced at the head clerk for approval and as the first man responded with a jerk to the cry of "Front!" went to the main doorway to look at the sunlight of Broadway with the air of a successful major general. The whole performance was excruciatingly funny, but I am sure that mulatto would have committed assault and battery on any one who dared to laugh.

STARTLING EVIDENCE.

MASON WAS SEEN IN WAVERLY.

Boston, Nov. 7.—Yesterday's developments in the case of Alan G. Mason, who is under arrest charged with the murder of Miss Clara Morton, a laundress at the McLean asylum in Waverly, last Saturday night, have been of a startling nature. It was announced first that the watch of the victim had been found in a Cambridge street pawn shop, where it had been pawned for $4 by a young colored man, and this discovery at once led to a general search of the city for this man by the entire police force, but without avail. But later developments were far more sensational. When the pawn broker's memory had been jogged a little and he had had time to think over the matter, he remembered that the watch had been brought to his office on last Saturday night between the hours of 11 and 11:30 by a white man and offered in pawn. Owing to the fact that it was after business hours he refused to receive it and after expressing disappointment the man departed, taking the watch with him.

On Monday morning the same watch was brought in by a colored man, about 21 years of age, of whom the pawn broker bought it for $4. A burly colored man, evidently a companion of the other, had been waiting outside the shop while the trade was being made and as soon as it was completed he entered and took the money, which the proprietor had passed over. Both men then departed.

Continuing their investigations, the officers made another startling discovery, which will have an important bearing on the case, to the effect that the watch of Miss Agnes McPhee, of Somerville, another "Jack the Slugger" victim, had been pawned at the same Cambridge street shop on Oct. 3, the day after her murder, by a white man, whose description tallied exactly with that of the man who brought the Morton watch to the pawn broker last Saturday night.

The descriptions of these men is said by the police to agree to a striking extent with that of the suspect Mason, and the pawn broker will be given a chance today to identify him, if possible, as his visitor.

The unexpected developments yesterday have been most unfavorable to the prisoner, although his friends still claim that he can fully establish an alibi. Search for the mysterious colored man is being carried on as vigorously as ever and all sections of the city were being closely watched by the police last night.

Two days ago the state police arrested A. G. Mason, the wealthy business man and club member of Boston, on suspicion of having killed Miss Morton. After a day's investigation the authorities were convinced that Mason could establish an alibi, and they announced that he would be released, but during the succeeding night witnesses were found who positively identified Mason as one whom they had seen in Waverly, where the murder was committed on Saturday night.

On the strength of the evidence Wednesday a warrant charging Mason with murder was issued and he was held without bail until Tuesday.

WITNESS CREATES SENSATION.

New York, Nov. 7.—The greatest sensation in the second trial of Roland B. Molineux, charged with the murder of Mrs. Adams, came late yesterday, when Mrs Hannah Stephenson, the wife of a Broklyn policeman, was called to the stand by the defense and testified positively that Molineux was not the man who mailed the now famous poison package at the general postoffice on the evening of Dec. 23, 1898. Then the witness partially indentified Harry Cornish, who was asked to stand up in court, as the man whom she saw standing in front of her in the line at the postoffice and holding in his hand a package addressed to "Mr. Harry Cornish, Knickerbocker."

Newspaper Man Found Dead.

San Francisco, Nov. 7.—Charles O. Zeigenfuss, a well-known newspaper man, was found dead yesterday in his room in a downtown hotel. An open gas jet, which, it is believed, was left open intentionally, disclosed the manner of his death. Zeigenfuss had worked in various capacities on the principal newspapers of this country from New York to San Francisco, and his field of labor carried him also to Manila, where he edited a paper. A few years ago he managed the editorial department of a Honolulu daily.

AMICABLE AGREEMENT.

New York, Nov. 7.—Notice of an agreement between the "half blood" and "full blood" heirs of George F. Gilman, the millionaire merchant, who died in his mansion, Black Rock, Bridgeport, Conn., leaving an estate over which was started a legal controversy that threatened to be long continued, was filed yesterday in the supreme court of Brooklyn. Under the new agreement the business formerly conducted by Mr. Gilman is to pass into the hands of a corporation, to be organized in New Jersey, with a capital of $2,100,000, $1,250,000 of which is to be issued to the administrators of the estate. They, in turn, are to divide the amount into fifths, four-fifths to be distributed among the "full blood" relatives and one-fifth, or $250,000, among the "half blood" relatives.

Ohio Teachers' Gathering.

Indianapolis, Nov. 7.—Indianapolis is thronged by Ohio pedagogues, who began arriving in the city yesterday, to attend the Central Teachers' association convention, which will convene here today. At noon yesterday a special train carrying 150 teachers from the Springfield, O., public schools arrived, and last evening 400 more came from Columbus and Central Ohio cities. All trains from Ohio during the night were crowded. The program for the association's meeting this evening includes an address, "School Spirit," by William Werthner, president Central Ohio Teachers' association; an address, "Ethics of the Teaching Profession," by William H. Maxwell, superintendent of the New York city schools.

Will Utilize Water of Glacier.

Boston, Nov. 7.—Engineers are being sent from this city to Tacoma and Seattle, to begin work on a project which has for its chief aim the harnessing of the waters of the Payallup glacier, on Mount Tacoma, state of Washington, for commercial purposes. It is claimed that if successful this will be the first instance where glacial waters have been used directly to provide power. Stone & Webster, of Boston, who have installed a great many street railways in all parts of the country, are undertaking the work in order to provide the cities of Tacoma and Seattle with electric light and power. The plan is to construct from the glacier a flume 14 miles long, through which a head of water will flow sufficient to generate 50,000 horse power. The water in running through the flume will drop 600 feet, and, through penstocks, will be diverted into turbines connected with electric generators. A three-phase alternating current will be transmitted at high voltage to Tacoma and Seattle.

COAL MINERS WERE EVICTED.

J. B. Markle & Co. Evict Six Families—Woman Moved From House on Bed.

Hazleton, Pa., Nov. 7.—Six families occupying company houses at Jeddo, who received notice recently from G. B. Markle & Co. to vacate within six days, but who failed to do so, were evicted yesterday by Sheriff Albert Jacobs, of Luzerne county. The six days expired on Monday.

The sheriff was assisted by special officers of the company, who placed the effects of the evicted families on the street. Mrs. Brannigan, a blind woman, who lived with her daughter, Mrs. Henry Coll, was moved from one of the houses on her bed. Rain set in last evening and to save the furniture of the evicted people neighbors took in the goods and provided shelter for the homeless men, women and children.

Murder Caused by Cattle War.

Guthrie, Okla., Nov. 7.—As a result, it is alleged, of the prolonged war between the cattlemen and homesteaders in Western Oklahoma, G. W. Lane, a leading figure among the homesteaders, was called to his door yesterday and shot dead, near Shirley, Dewey county. A prominent cattleman, named John Joy, has been arrested, charged with complicity in the crime. Mrs. Lane, the murdered man's wife, was also brought in by the officers.
